RUSSIA REPORTED SPLIT OVER HITLER'S DEMANDS

BRITAIN CLAIMS SUCCESS AGAINST NAZI SHIPPING

Reports Seven Axis Vessels Sent Down, Three Others Damaged

SUBMARINES FIND ENEMY, DESTROY IN OWN HARBORS Think Germans Trying To Get Surface Raiders Into South Atlantic

LONDON, June 14.—(AP)—British submarines were officially reported today to have sunk seven Axis vessels and damaged three others in the Mediterranean and fresh blows were recorded against German efforts to get Nazi surface raiders loose in the Atlantic.

"Attacks not only have been carried out at sea," the admiralty said, "but our submarines have sought out the enemy and destroyed him in his harbors."

By gunfire or torpedoes, the admiralty reported, British submarines sank a large supply ship, a fully-laden supply ship of about 1,000 tons. In other raids, it was claimed, an Italian armed merchant cruiser and two tankers, of 5,232 and 6,000 tons, were damaged by torpedo hits, and the largest tanker was "almost certainly" sunk.

Harbors of Lampedusa, which lies south of Sicily, Bengasi, Libya, and the Aegean island of Mytilene were listed as the scenes of much of this activity. The period covered was not disclosed.

Elsewhere, the British announced, berths of Nazi warships at Brest again were bombed heavily overnight and the seventh ship from the sunken Bismarck's flotilla was destroyed.

Britons generally assumed that a northbound German pocket battleship reported torpedoed yesterday probably would be cut off of commission for months.

Neither the air ministry nor the admiralty offered further word of this 10,000-ton target of coastal command fliers—apparently either the Admiral.

BILLION ON BOMB PLANTS PLANNED

Jones Says Amount Will Be Spent Under His New Powers

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator, said today he intended to provide nearly $1,000,000,000 to build plants for the 500-bomb-a-month program, drawing on his new defense spending powers.

President Roosevelt this week signed a new law expanding the powers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Federal Loan Agency. Specifically it also gave the RFC $1,500,000,000 additional special borrowing powers for defense purposes—with virtually no strings attached.

The RFC already had committed all of a similar $1,500,000,000. About $500,000,000 of this went for defense factories, $500,000,000 to buy strategic metals like tin and copper, $500,000,000 for rubber stocks, and about $200,000,000 in other defense loans.

Jones would not say specifically what use would be made of the new funds aside from the financing of the bomber program.

"There are a few new things in the way of defense that we're thinking about," Jones said, "but mainly we're going to be doing more of what we've already been doing. The new law was asked to iron out some of the red tape."

One of the things the new law authorizes is loans to Great Britain on.

CARNIVAL EMPLOYEE IS KILLED BY BEAR

DETROIT, June 14.—(AP)—Thomas L. Miller, 28, a carnival employee, was killed last night before the eyes of his wife by a Canadian brown bear he was leading out of its cage on a carnival lot here.

Captain William Callender of Bay City, Mich., owner of the 485-pound animal, told police he had refused Miller's request to let the bear lead "four of tap rooms" to dance for tips, fearing the man could not handle the animal.

Miller, police were told, slipped into a tent where the bear was penned and led it by a chain, then attempted to put it through tricks for his wife. The bear struck him on the head, breaking his neck. The victim, formerly of Flint, Mich., had followed the carnival (Lee United shows) for a month with his wife.

AGREEMENT ASKED OF 55 SHIPYARDS

Two-Year Pact Designed To Prevent Work Stoppages Requested

(By Associated Press)
The government asked 55 Eastern shipyards already established on the Atlantic coast to approve a two-year agreement designed to avoid strikes, stabilize employment, and prevent needless migration of workers.

The agreement was drafted at Washington by a shipbuilding stabilization committee set up by the labor division of the office of production management and composed of representatives of employers, the navy, the maritime commission, the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L.

It would be a counter-part of master contracts already established on the Pacific coast and projected for the Gulf and Great Lakes areas.

A conference was scheduled in the capital for next Friday for final action on the proposal.

Secretary of the Navy Knox, Chairman Emory S. Land of the maritime commission and William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman of the office of production management wrote each of the yards asking prompt consideration of the proposals.

The agreement proposes a basic wage rate of $1.12 an hour for first-class skilled mechanics and a ban on lockouts by employers or suspension of work by employees during the term of the pact.

The agreement, if adopted, would eliminate the differential which has existed heretofore in East and West coast shipyard wages. The Western wages have averaged higher by "several cents."

BIG RADIO STATION SEIZED IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, June 14.—(AP)—President Avila Camacho has ordered expropriation of the most powerful radio station in Mexico to "dedicate it to the service of the nation," it was disclosed officially today.

The station is 180,000-watt XERA at Villa Ahuac, Coahuila state, just across the frontier from Del Rio, Tex., whose programs were well-known in the United States.

Informed sources here reported American citizens owned XERA, but the presidential decree mentioned no names.

The chief executive's first expropriation order since assuming office last December, ordered the owners indemnified within 10 years. An inventory and evaluation will be undertaken at once, it was reported.

A bulletin from the government information office said the president acted after the ministry of communications cancelled the concession of the Mexican Frontier Broadcasting Company (Compania Mexicana Radiodifusion Fronteriza), which operated the station, for "not complying with the communication laws."

The government bulletin said agents of the ministry of communications already had taken possession of the station to "conserve the property."

An official of the United States embassy said they had been advised of the expropriation, but were contemplating no immediate action.

BOLT OF LIGHTNING FELS 100 TROOPS

ALEXANDRIA, La., June 14.—(AP)—Twenty-five soldiers were treated for shock after a freak bolt of lightning late yesterday struck Camp Claiborne's 13th medical regiment area, felling 100 troops as they walked company streets.

None of those treated was seriously hurt, it was said.

The bolt struck a canteen, toppling men and supplies and tearing tops from soda pop bottles, felled two soldiers in a company G building and splintered the company H flagpole.

A heavy rainstorm which preceded the bolt broke up a band concert.

The 13th, a Wisconsin unit, had been in camp only 24 hours when the bolt struck. It arrived Thursday from Camp Shelby, Miss.

TODAY FATHER'S BIG DAY OF YEAR

Occasion Set Aside To Give Special Recognition To 'Old Man'

Father's day, companion to Mother's day, will be observed nation-wide today. The idea got its start in the year 1923.

At the outset it was more or less of a joke but as years have rolled by it has become increasingly respected and more widely observed.

Of course father likes to be recognized, argue proponents of the day. He was confessedly just a wee bit jealous when mother had a halo placed over her head, but he never said a word, and just plodded on. He always knew that anything ever said and done for mother would not repay the debt that humanity owes to her. Yet deep in his heart, he felt that father really deserved a wee bit of recognition, too.

As a rule, the average father does not care to have a lot of fuss made over him. He is content to go on his way rearing his family and helping wherever possible in community betterment.

WALMSLEY TO GET WASHINGTON JOB

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—(AP)—The New Orleans States said today that T. Semmes Walmsley, former mayor of New Orleans, is to be named assistant director of civilian defense for the south with offices in Washington.

Walmsley was elected mayor in 1939, re-elected four years later, and resigned June 30, 1936. He was succeeded by Robert S. Maestri, the present mayor.

Under Walmsley's defense administration, the newspaper said, will be regional directors in each southern corps area and a director for each southern state.

Walmsley, a Tulane university law graduate, was a noted college athlete and captain of the Tulane football team, winning his "T" in five sports. He was a lieutenant in the army air corps in the first World War.

He resigned as mayor after the Old Regular political organization of the city, seeking to make peace with the late Senator Huey P. Long's machine, deserted him.

U. S. O. TO OPEN $10,000 DRIVE

United Service Organizations will open a drive for approximately $10,000 throughout the Fifth district Monday in conjunction with the national campaign to raise almost eleven million dollars with which to provide wholesome recreational facilities for young American soldiers now in training.

Quotas for the various parishes have been allotted and community groups have been organized to conduct the drive, according to Ed C. Apperson, area chairman. The campaign has been endorsed by practically every civic, cultural and social club in this and other cities and towns, which have furnished committees to assist in the drive, as well as mayors Harvey H. Benoit and Harry M. Williams, of Monroe and West Monroe, and their municipal and parish officers throughout the district.

Henry Bernstein, Jr., and Representative D. Ross Banister are chairman and vice-chairman, and Robert Cowden is secretary-treasurer for the Ouachita parish drive. Joe F. ### Interpreting The War News: Events Show France Gave Up Too Soon ago next Tuesday France collapsed under the rending attack of a German blitzkrieg and left Britain fighting alone against her Axis foes.

By Kirke L. Simpson
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

On that June 17, the French hero of the World War, old Marshal Petain, took control of French destiny as chief of state—and sued for peace. A week later the Franco-German armistice was signed, in the same setting where the World War ended in a German surrender at Compiegne.

Yet it is clear now beyond challenge that the prime expectation in the minds of Petain and the group which created the defunct regime of the "men of Vichy" has not been realized. France is not at peace. England has endured for a full year despite the added perils arising from the utter collapse of her ally.

Britain still holds every foot of the vast empire she held a year ago. She has taken an empire from Italy in East Africa, restored Haile Selassie to his throne in Ethiopia, beaten off German attacks on England, balked Italian and Axis assaults on Egypt and begun, with Free French allies, the occupation of French-mandated Syria.

Bracket all that against British reverses on the Continent from Norway, Flanders and France to Greece and the score with the Axis shows less one-sided than stunningly swift.

There are other factors now looming also to bolster Prime Minister Churchill's recent prediction that if Britain can hold on for another six months, until winter comes, her chances of ultimate victory will be bright indeed. Not even new menaces for her in the Mediterranean, in North Africa, in Syria with the fall of Greece and Nazi capture of Crete change the ultimate fact, ringingly proclaimed by President Roosevelt, that unless the Axis powers can "capture" the British Isles, their final defeat is certain.

That is the dominant element of British war policy and of American aid-for-Britain efforts. And as the first fateful year of Vichy subservience to German will ends, signs are not lacking that the Battle of Britain, the Battle of the Atlantic upon which the fate of Britain hangs, has turned a corner in British favor.

Churchill has given an advance intimation of British sea losses in the Atlantic in the month of May. It was Britain's "best month" of the 1941 campaign, he told Parliament, presumably both in British destruction of enemy shipping and in decreased British losses.

By implication he set the aggregate shipping losses in the Atlantic for that month at a third or more less than those sustained in March or in April. Just what means had been employed to attain that feat and the share American sea patrol activities might have in it were not indicated. Yet there is something approaching confirmation to be discerned in official comments from Berlin.

They deal with the first four months of 1941 and claim some 3,500,000 tons of British shipping sunk or damaged in that period. That does not cover the May campaign in the Atlantic of Greece and Nazi capture of Crete which Churchill spoke, nor is it unreasonable to suppose May was omitted purposely.

Obviously Nazi propaganda strategists deemed it essential to do something to offset a coming favorable British accounting for May and early June. They have turned again to propaganda leaflet bombing of Britain, giving their version of the situation in the Atlantic.

Yet the fact seems to be that Britain is slowly narrowing the scope of Nazi sea ravages in the Atlantic, and is already assured by American action of enough tonnage replacement to tide her through the critical six months to winter. That is what Britain expects the next monthly London shipping report to show to encourage British morale and American aid efforts.

ANGRY BECAUSE F. D. R. FREEZES ASSETS OF AXIS

President Roosevelt's Action Highlight Of International Situation

'INDIGNANT' FRENCH TURN DOWN BID FOR SURRENDER

Also Flatly Deny German Report Fleet Sailing From Toulon

(By Associated Press)
Italy was reported ready last night to seize American property in Italy in quick reprisal for President Roosevelt's order freezing German and Italian assets in the United States.

Some Fascists in Rome branded the Roosevelt move as "another example of gangsterism" following American "piracy" in previously seizing Axis ships in United States ports.

President Roosevelt's freezing of the American finances of Axis-conquered or occupied countries of Europe, as well as those of Germany and Italy, was the highlight of the international situation.

Diplomatic quarters in Helsinki, Finland, were reported to have received reports that Joseph Stalin is facing strong opposition within the Red army over his "policy of German appeasement." It was said that Marshal S. K. Timoshenko, Soviet commissar of defense, was urging resistance to German demands while Stalin is advocating further concessions to the Nazis.

In London, reports from Turkey said that all roads leading into Soviet-occupied Bessarabia from Rumania have been closed and mined and that important developments were imminent, possibly in connection with Germany's desire for access to the Ukraine.

French warships and planes were reported from Damascus to have delivered a joint attack on the British Mediterranean fleet while it was continuing a systematic shelling of the Lebanese coast. British shelling, it was said, was concentrated mainly upon the face of American aggression against the Axis.

Other developments included: Japanese Foreign Minister Matsuoaka felicitated Premier Mussolini on his Tuesday speech in which Il Duce said Japan would not "remain indifferent to the face of American aggression against the Axis."

Congressional circles in Washington expected the United States to start arming merchant vessels as a result of the Robin Moor sinking and Undersecretary Welles said the United States would not be bluffed off the seas by German "bluster and threats."

The Axis prepared to indict Croatia as a new junior member at a Venice ceremony.

An official French spokesman in Vichy flatly denied a German report, telegraphed earlier from Vichy, that the French fleet had sailed from Toulon.

As British-French hostilities in Syria continued, the French government "indignantly" refused a British suggestion that it order its troops in

Expect American Merchant Vessels Will Carry Arms

Welles Says U. S. Won't Be Deterred By 'Bluster And Threats'

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—Arming of American merchant vessels was predicted in well-informed congressional circles today after Summer Welles, undersecretary of state, declared the United States would maintain its insistence on freedom of the seas despite German "bluster and threats."

One legislator, unwilling to be quoted by name but high in administration confidence, said that in view of the circumstances of the sinking of the freighter Robin Moor "the president is going to have to arm our merchant ships and tell them to protect themselves."

At the same time, the gravity of the current world situation was emphasized by a navy disclosure that waters off New York harbor are to be mined immediately.

It was not stated whether or not this was primarily a practice operation, but the navy noted in formal advice to shipping that "when loaded mines are planted the area will be patrolled constantly." The mine planting, it was said, would take place between June 15 and September 30.

Welles commented at a press conference on a German spokesman's assertion that all roads leading from Rumania to Bessarabia were reported closed and mined.

Dispatches from Turkey said Turkish circles were deeply interested in reports that most of the German troops had left Bulgaria, presumably for Rumania.

These circles were reported to be seriously considering the possibility that Germany means to attack the Soviet, although they did not overlook the fact that the Germans may simply be using their troops as a trade bargaining power.

In this connection, it was recalled that a Berlin dispatch yesterday by

Axis Assets In U. S. Are Ordered Frozen

Tells United States Supreme Tribunal Passion Inducted Into Trial

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—Former Governor Richard W. Leche, himself, today filed a petition asking the supreme court to review his conviction on mail fraud charges for which he had been sentenced a year ago to serve 10 years in the federal penitentiary and pay a $3,000 fine.

Leche contended that three federal prosecutors in summing up the government's case against him at the trial in Alexandria sought to obtain a guilty verdict "at any and all costs."

Leche was charged with receiving a $1,000 "kickback" in a scheme with L. P. Abernathy, former highway commission chairman, and George Younger, truck dealer, to sell trucks to the highway commission.

Abernathy and Younger pleaded guilty to the charges.

'Common Cate Talk' Indicates Assault May Be Started Today

LONDON, June 14.—(AP)—A rift has developed in Soviet Russia with Premier Joseph Stalin, decision-makers in the matter of unstated demands while officers of the Red army are opposed, diplomatic quarters in Finland reported tonight.

Helsinki dispatches said diplomats there had heard that Defense Commissar S. K. Timoshenko was leading the internal opposition to Stalin's "policy of German appeasement."

This information was received as reports from Ankara, Turkey, said well-informed quarters there were in agreement that important developments in the Soviet-German nerve war are due now at any time.

An official of the United States embassy said they had been advised of the expropriation, but were contemplating no immediate action.

BOLT OF LIGHTNING FELLOWS 100 TROOPS

ALEXANDRIA, La., June 14.—(AP)—Twenty-five soldiers were treated for shock after a freak bolt of lightning last night struck Camp Claiborne's 135th medical regiment area, felling 100 troops as they walked company streets.

None of those treated was seriously hurt, it was said.

The bolt struck a canteen, toppling men and supplies and shearing tops from soda pop bottles, felled two soldiers in a company G building and splintered the company H flagpole.

A heavy rainstorm which preceded the bolt broke up a band concert.

The 135th, a Wisconsin unit, had been in camp only 24 hours when the bolt struck. It arrived Thursday from Camp Shelby, Miss.

TODAY FATHER'S BIG DAY OF YEAR

Occasion Set Aside To Give Special Recognition To 'Old Man'

Father's day, companion to Mother's day, will be observed nation-wide today. The idea got its start in the year 1923.

At the outset it was more or less of a joke but as years have rolled by it has become increasingly respected and more widely observed.

Of course father likes to be recognized, argue proponents of the day. He was confessedly just a wee bit jealous when mother had a halo placed over her head, but he never said a word, and just plodded on. He always knew that anything ever said and done for mother would not repay the debt that humanity owes to her. Yet deep in his heart, he felt that father really deserved a wee bit of recognition, too.

As a rule, the average father does not care to have a lot of fuss made over him. He is content to go on his way rearing his family and helping wherever possible in community betterment.

WALMSLEY TO GET WASHINGTON JOB

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—(AP)—The New Orleans States said today that T. Semmes Walmsley, former mayor of New Orleans, is to be named assistant director of civilian defense for the south with offices in Washington.

Walmsley was elected mayor in 1930, reelected four years later, and resigned June 30, 1936. He was succeeded by Robert S. Maestri, the present mayor.

Under Walmsley's defense administration, the newspaper said, will be regional directors in each southern corps area and a director for each southern state.

Walmsley, a Tulane university law graduate, was a noted college athlete and captained the Tulane football team, winning his "T" in five sports. He was a lieutenant in the army air corps in the first World War.

He resigned as mayor after the Old Regular political organization of the city, seeking to make peace with the late Senator Huey P. Long's machine, deserted him.

U. S. O. TO OPEN $10,000 DRIVE

United Service Organizations will open a drive for approximately $10,000 throughout the Fifth district Monday in conjunction with the national campaign to raise almost eleven million dollars with which to provide wholesome recreational facilities for young American soldiers now in training.

Quotas for the various parishes have been allotted and community groups have been organized to conduct the drive, according to Ed C. Apperson, area chairman. The campaign has been endorsed by practically every civic, cultural and social club in this and other cities and towns, which have furnished committees to assist in the drive, as well as mayors Harvey H. Benoit and Harry M. Williams, of Monroe and West Monroe, and other municipal and parish officers throughout the district.

Henry Bernstein, Jr., and Representative D. Rose Banister are chairman and vice-chairman, and Robert Cowden is secretary-treasurer for the Ouachita parish drive. Joe F. Smith is chairman of the West Monroe division, A. K. Kilpatrick and Mrs. A. D. Tidwell are vice-chairmen for the area; and H. B. Ryland is secretary-treasurer. Members of the board of directors include Mayor Benoit and Williams, Rev. F. K. Hirsch, Jack Warren, Ed Seymour, Louis E. Mathis, C. H. McHenry, Rev. E. F. Hayward, D. C. Black, Sam Rubin, Rev. F. P. ## Interpreting The War News: Events Show France Gave Up Too Soon

(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writers)

On that June 17, the French hero of the World War, old Marshal Pétain, took control of French destiny as chief of state—and sued for peace. A week later the Franco-German armistice was signed, in the same setting where the World War ended in a German surrender at Compiègne.

Yet it is clear now beyond challenge that the prime expectation in the minds of Pétain and the group which created the defeatist regime of the "men of Vichy" has not been realized. France is not at peace. England has endured for a full year despite the added perils arising from the utter collapse of her ally.

Britain still holds every foot of the vast empire she held a year ago. She has taken an empire from Italy in East Africa, restored Haile Selassie to his throne in Ethiopia, beaten off German attacks on England, balked Italian and Axis assaults on Egypt and occupied, with Free French allies, the occupation of French-mandated Syria.

Bracket all that against British reverses on the Continent from Norway, Flanders and France to Greece and the score with the Axis shows less one-sided than stunningly swift British losses.

ANGRY BECAUSE F. D. R. FREEZES ASSETS OF AXIS

'INDIGNANT' FRENCH TURN DOWN BID FOR SURRENDER

Also Flatly Deny German Report Fleet Sailing From Toulon

(By Associated Press)
Italy was reported ready last night to seize American property in Italy in quick reprisal for President Roosevelt's order freezing German and Italian assets in the United States.

Some Fascists in Rome branded the Roosevelt move as "another example of gangsterism" following American "piracy" in previously seizing Axis ships in United States ports.

Commissars of Axis-conquered or occupied countries of Europe, as well as those of Germany and Italy, was the highlight of the international situation.

Diplomatic quarters in Helsinki, Finland, were reported to have received reports that Joseph Stalin is facing strong opposition within the Red army over his "policy of German appeasement." It was said that Marshal S. K. Timoshenko, Soviet commissar of defense, was urging resistance to German demands while Stalin is advocating further concessions to the Nazis.

In London, reports from Turkey said that all roads leading into Soviet-occupied Bessarabia from Rumania have been closed and mined and that important developments were imminent, possibly in connection with Germany's desire for access to the Ukraine.

French warships and planes were reported from Damascus to have delivered a joint attack on the British Mediterranean fleet while it was conducting a systematic shelling of the Lebanese coast. British shelling, it was said, was concentrated mainly upon Sidon, 20 miles below Beirut, capital of Lebanon.

Other developments included: Japanese Foreign Minister Matsukata congratulated Premier Mussolini on his Tuesday speech in which he said Japan would not "remain indifferent in the face of American aggression against the Axis."

Congressional circles in Washington expected the United States to start arming merchant vessels as a result of the Robin Moor sinking and Undersecretary Welles said the United States would not be bluffed off the seas by German "bluster and threats."

The Axis prepared to indict Croatia as a new junior member at a Venice ceremony.

An official French spokesman in Vichy flatly denied a German report, telegraphed earlier from Vichy, that the French fleet had sailed from Toulon.

As British-French hostilities in Syria continued, the French government "indignantly" refused a British suggestion that it order its troops in

Expect American Merchant Vessels Will Carry Arms

Welles Says U. S. Won't Be Deterred By 'Bluster And Threats'

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—Arming of American merchant vessels was predicted in well-informed congressional circles today after Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, declared the United States would maintain its insistence on freedom of the seas despite German "bluster and threats."

One legislator, unwilling to be quoted by name but high in administration confidence, said that in view of the circumstances of the sinking of the freighter Robin Moor "the president is going to have to arm our merchant ships and tell them to protect themselves."

At the same time, the gravity of the current world situation was emphasized by a navy disclosure that waters off New York harbor are to be mined immediately.

It was not stated whether or not this was primarily a practice operation, but the navy noted in formal advice to shipping that "when loaded mines are planted the area will be patrolled constantly." The mine planting, it was said, would take place between June 15 and September 30.

Welles commented at a press conference on a German spokesman's assertion

SEIZURE BILL IS UP TO CONGRESS

Senate And House Will Be Asked To Draw Up Own Measures

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt will ask congress, informed legislators said today, to write its own version of legislation permitting the government to requisition private property for defense purposes.

These legislators said the president was expected soon to address letters to the chairmen of the senate and house military affairs committees setting forth the objectives the government wished to accomplish and suggesting that congress phrase a bill as it sees fit.

A property seizure bill submitted to congress last week by the war department aroused a storm of controversy because of its sweeping nature. It proposed to authorize the president to requisition "temporarily or permanently" any property, tangi-

Axis Assets In U. S. Are Ordered Frozen

Tells United States Supreme Tribunal Passion Inducted Into Trial

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—At President Roosevelt's direction, the treasury today froze the American assets of Germany and Italy and simultaneously imposed a strict supervision upon all financial transactions with Soviet Russia or its citizens.

In a complementary action, the justice department announced creation of an alien property bureau to receive and study reports on transactions in alien property. A similar unit operated during the World War when much alien property was seized.

How much the freezing order might accomplish was brought into question, however, by those who recalled that Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau recently said the Axis powers, acting in anticipation of such a move, had already withdrawn sizeable portions of their American funds.

"The barn is empty," was Morgenthau's comment.

Nevertheless, to determine the extent of whatever German and Italian holdings remain, and to acquire information of general usefulness in the present situation, the president also ordered an immediate census of all foreign-owned property in the United States.

In view of the sweeping geographical nature of the order and of the fact that Japan is an Axis partner, some surprise was expressed that that country was not included. Some saw in it additional indications that this country's diplomacy is now directed at improving relations with the Tokyo government and possibly weaning it away from the Axis.

STALIN SEEKS TO YIELD BUT HEADS OF ARMY OPPOSE

All Roads Leading From Rumania To Bessarabia Closed, Mined

DIPLOMATS BELIEVE NAZIS MEAN TO ATTACK SOVIET

'Common Cafe Talk' Indicates Assault May Be Started Today

LONDON, June 14.—(AP)—A rift has developed in Soviet Russia with Premier Joseph Stalin decided upon bending to the will of Adolf Hitler in the matter of unstated demands while officers of the Red army are opposed, diplomatic quarters in Finland reported tonight.

Helsinki dispatches said diplomats there had heard that Defense Commissar S. K. Timoshenko was leading the internal opposition to Stalin's "policy of German appeasement."

This information was received as reports from Ankara, Turkey, said well-informed quarters there were in agreement that important developments in the Soviet-German nerve war are due now at any time.

Diplomats in the Turkish capital were repeating a remark attributed to Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering that "Germany needs the Ukraine for a long war against the Anglo-Saxons."

All roads leading from Rumania to her former province, Russian-occupied Bessarabia, were reported closed and mined.

Dispatches from Turkey said Turkish circles were deeply interested in reports that most of the German troops had left Bulgaria, presumably for Rumania.

These circles were reported to be seriously considering the possibility that Germany means to attack the Soviet, although they did not overlook that the Germans may simply be using their troops as a trade bargaining power.

In this connection, it was recalled that a Berlin dispatch yesterday by

OLD STATE CODE GROUP TO MEET

Jones Among Those Who Drew Up 20-Year-Old Constitution

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—(AP)—Members of the convention which 20 years ago in Baton Rouge adopted the state's present constitution will meet here next Saturday night in Antoine's restaurant to commemorate the event.

Governor Sam Jones, then a young attorney and a delegate from Beauregard parish, was one of the 146 members of the convention which began its job on March 1, 1921, and completed the state's basic law June 18.

Speakers will include: Former Lieutenant Governor Hewitt Bouanchaud, Pointe Coupee parish, president of the convention; Jefferson B. Snyder, Madison parish, first vice-president; Charles Rosen, New Orleans, second vice-president; L. O. Broussard, Vermillion parish, and H. H. White, Rapides parish, third and fourth vice-presidents.

These delegates also will speak: Frank E. Powell, co-delegates from Beauregard with Governor Jones; Sidney L. Herold, Shreveport; Federal Judge Ben C. Dawkins of the Western District of Louisiana; at that time a state supreme court justice; Judge Charles A. Holcombe, Baton Rouge; Esmond Phelps, New Orleans attorney, and Senator Allen J. Ellender.

A new constitution was sorely needed when the convention met. The previous one had been adopted in 1913 and before the year was out several sections were nullified.

Both 1920 gubernatorial candidates, John M. Parker and Frank P. Stubbs, declared themselves in favor of a constitutional convention. Parker became governor and Stubbs a member of the

BENSON FORD IS REJECTED BY ARMY

DETROIT, June 14.—(AP)—Army medical examiners today rejected Benson Ford, 21-year-old son of Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, from military service under the selective service act.

Army officials withheld announcement of the reason for the rejection, but young Ford said it was due to a "congenital cataract of the left eye" which prevented him from distinguishing objects.

"I would have been glad to go," said Ford, "yet I'm glad it's over."

Young Ford's brother, Henry Ford II, is serving as an ensign in the navy.

convention when the delegates were selected.

They were Mrs. Ida Weis Friend, New Orleans; Mrs. John D. Wilkinson and Mrs. Edith Brown Ballie, both of Shreveport.

Forty-four of the 500 ordinances introduced during the convention were passed and 178 resolutions were introduced. The total cost of the convention was $302,500.

Governor Parker said of the new constitution:

"While not perfect, the constitution of 1921 is an organic code that will confer material benefits on the people, and in a few years will satisfy them that a great step forward has been made by one of the most patriotic and able bodies that has ever met in the state."

Among the changes in the constitution was the modernization of the state judiciary system, providing two additional members to the supreme court which had been three years behind in its docket. The new system cut the number of judicial districts in the state but raised the salaries of the judges.

Provision was made for a greater state university through a rehabilitation fund of $7,000,000. A revised suffrage system was adopted. So was a "pay-as-you-go" highway plan without the issuance of bonds or the incurrence of debts. It was to be financed with a 2-cent sales tax on gasoline.

Several changes in nomenclature were approved. The state attorney became the legislature; the attorney general department became the justice department; the board of state affairs became the Louisiana tax commission; and the railroad commission became the public service commission, with enlarged powers.

Two convention members refused to sign the adopted constitution. One, George T. Martin, Caldwell parish delegate declared "my people did not want the constitution held." The other, the former Governor R. G. Pleasant, Shreveport, refused to sign because of differences over severance tax provisions of the constitution.

John Breard Completes 29th Year On Police Jury

Knows Facts And Figures On Every Phase Of Ouachita Parish

The man who probably knows more about Ouachita parish than any other person last week completed his 29th consecutive year in public office here, setting at least a parish record for tenure of elective service.

John M. Breard, 300 K street, needs no records on parish statistics; the facts and figures on every phase of life fairly roll off his tongue. And no wonder. For the past 29 years he has been a police juror and for the past 31 years he has been connected with the Central Savings Bank and Trust company here. What the parish official hasn't learned, the banker has.

It was exactly 29 years ago last Wednesday that young John Breard, cashier at the bank, took his seat for the first time as police juror from Ward 10. The previous year he had been elected to the city school board, on which he continued to serve simultaneously for six years.

Administrations have come and gone; upsets and landslides have occurred, yet John Breard has continued to occupy his place around the jury table. Three times he had no opposition.

During his 30 years in public life, Mr. Breard has held many a title. His terms as president of the police jury total 10 years. In 1932 he was elected by acclamation president of the Louisiana State Police Jury association for four years, then made an honorary past president for life. He has at one time or another headed every important committee of the parish body and is now finance chairman for the second four-year stretch.

In 1932 he was elected by acclamation president of the Louisiana State Police Jury association for four years, then made an honorary past president for life. He has at one time or another headed every important committee of the parish body and is now finance chairman for the second four-year stretch.

Even the river has undergone changes during Mr. Breard's stay in office. The flood danger has been tempered. The locks and dams have been constructed so that barge lines make regular trips to New Orleans. Two new railroads also connect with Monroe.

Nor is agriculture what it used to be. New methods have been inaugurated, and numerous farm agencies have been established to assist the farmer in his field of production. In all of this John Breard has had a hand. He was one of the first men in the parish to work for a model road program, and it was he who initiated a bond issue to finance the undertaking, back in 1916. He invited the state highway commissioner to Monroe to make a survey for a new bridge across the Ouachita, and was president of the police jury when the span was dedicated. He agitated for the time the parish has become a natural gas center, huge carbon companies have been set up, a paper mill and bag factory have been established, lumber finishing and woodworking plants have opened.

A major change during the Breard tenure was in the road system. In 1912, the parish had one mile of gravel, constructed under the J. V. Sanders administration with gravel donated by two prominent local citizens. The modern road system includes approximately 100 miles of concrete and pavement and several hundred miles of gravel. Every school route either is paved or graveled, and an alert maintenance crew is ever on the job.

A lifetime Mr. Breard has spent in Monroe, which his great grandfather helped to found. As police juror and as a banker he is a familiar figure in this area—with his driving, nervous energy which he has unleashed on parish problems for the past 30 years.

Mr. Breard has been active, too, in the business life of the section. He started with the Central Savings bank in 1910 when the bank occupied the only "skyscraper" in Monroe, the four-story Covington building. Advancing steadily, he was made vice-president in 1924 and still holds that position.

JUROR 29 YEARS

John M. Breard, vice-president of Central Savings Bank and Trust company here, last week completed his 29th consecutive year as police juror from Ward 10. He has been connected with the bank for more than 31 years.

Another change in transportation and communication was the establishment of Selman field, purchased in 1927 by the police jury and expanded from 70 acres to its present 280 acres. Greater improvements are in line for the airport under the proposed setup of the progressive police jury, Mr. Breard asserts.

Even the river has undergone changes during Mr. Breard's stay in office. The flood danger has been tempered. The locks and dams have been constructed so that barge lines make regular trips to New Orleans. Two new railroads also connect with Monroe.

Nor is agriculture what it used to be. New methods have been inaugurated, and numerous farm agencies have been established to assist the farmer in his field of production.

RECREATION YEAR BOOK IS ISSUED

The National Recreation Association is publishing a year book of recreation, a custom which has been in vogue since 1907. Each year are shown the cities that have systematized recreational programs.

In the latest compilation Monroe is depicted as one of the cities that operates such a department, along with many other cities and towns.

The year book, published annually by the national association, is a report of the public recreation facilities, leadership expenditures and programs provided by public and private agencies. Agencies are entitled to have their work reported if they conduct play or recreation programs under leaders paid from local funds, or if they operate such facilities as golf courses, bathing beaches or swimming pools which involve continuous supervision.

The 26th national recreation congress will be held in Baltimore, Md., September 29 through October 3.

MONROE PARENTS HAVE THREE SONS IN ARMY

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Dennis, 1208 South Second street, parents of three sons who are now in the military service, stated at the local army recruiting station last week that they wished they had three more to lend to Uncle Sam's national defense program.

Carl and Charles are twin brothers, 21 years old, but Carl has the longer service in the regular army, having served one full enlistment at Fort Missoula, Mont. After the expiration of his first enlistment, he returned to Monroe, where he spent several months with his parents before deciding to re-enlist again for Fort Missoula. He is now stationed in Anchorage, Alaska, with the Fourth Infantry division, and, according to word received from Anchorage last week, has been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Charles is now serving his first enlistment, also at Anchorage, and is a staff sergeant in the finance department. He has the unusual distinction of having been promoted from private to the grade of staff sergeant upon his first enlistment in the regular army.

John B., the youngest son, 19, is with the 204th Coast Artillery (anti-aircraft), Camp Huilen, Tex.

convention when the delegates were selected.

They were Mrs. Ida Weiss Friend, New Orleans; Mrs. John D. Wilkinson and Mrs. Edith Brown Baile, both of Shreveport.

Forty-four of the 500 ordinances introduced during the convention were passed and 178 resolutions were introduced. The total cost of the convention was $302.50.

Governor Parker said of the new constitution:

"While not perfect, the constitution of 1921 is an organic code that will confer material benefits on the people, and in a few years will satisfy them that a great step forward has been made by one of the most patriotic and able bodies that has ever met in the state."

Among the changes in the constitution was the modernization of the state judiciary system, providing two additional members to the supreme court which had been three years behind in its docket. The new system cut the number of judicial districts in the state but raised the salaries of the judges.

Provision was made for a greater state university through a rehabilitation fund of $7,000,000. A revised suffrage system was adopted. So was a "pay-as-you-go" highway plan without the issuance of bonds or the incurrence of debts. It was to be financed with a 2-cent sales tax on gasoline.

Several changes in nomenclature were approved: The state assembly became the legislature; the attorney general department became the justice department; the board of state affairs became the Louisiana tax commission; and the railroad commission became the public service commission, with enlarged powers.

Two convention members refused to sign the adopted constitution. One, George T. Martin, Caldwell parish delegate declared "my people did not want the convention held." The other, the former Governor R. G. Pleasant, Shreveport, refused to sign because of differences over severance tax provisions of the constitution.

John Breard Completes 29th Year On Police Jury

Knows Facts And Figures On Every Phase Of Ouachita Parish

The man who probably knows more about Ouachita parish than any other person last week completed his 29th consecutive year in public office here, setting at least a parish record for tenure of elective service.

John M. Breard, 300 K street, needs no records on parish statistics; the facts and figures on every phase of life fairly roll off his tongue. And no wonder. For the past 29 years he has been a police juror and for the past 31 years he has been connected with the Central Savings Bank and Trust company here. What the parish official hasn't learned, the banker has.

It was exactly 29 years ago last Wednesday that young John Breard, cashier at the bank, took his seat for the first time as police juror from Ward 10. The previous year he had been elected to the city school board, on which he continued to serve simultaneously for six years.

Administrations have come and gone; upsets and landslides have occurred, yet John Breard has continued to occupy his place around the jury table. Three times he had no opposition.

During his 30 years in public life, Mr. Breard has held many a title. His terms as president of the police jury total 10 years. In 1932 he was elected by acclamation president of the Louisiana State Police Jury association for four years, then made an honorary past president for life. He has at one time or another headed every important committee of the parish body and is now finance chairman for the second four-year stretch.

Ouachita parish was just a pup back when young John stepped into office. The population, now about 60,000, was less than 20,000, while the city of Monroe contained less than 10,000 persons. The parish assessment was less than six million dollars, while today it is approximately 44 millions. Then, the parish so suffered from financial anemia that it was difficult to secure credit, and the parish debt already had reached the colossal sum of $18,000. Today, the police jury is in the black and operates on a cash basis—but its credit strictly is good.

Industry has come to Ouachita since Mr. Breard took office. Then, a couple of saw mills and a couple of cottonseed oil mills comprised the big business of the section. Since that time the parish has become a natural gas center, huge carbon companies have been set up, a paper mill and bag factory have been established, lumber finishing and woodworking plants have opened.

A major change during the Breard tenure was in the road system. In 1912, the parish had one mile of gravel, constructed under the J. Y. Sanders administration with gravel donated by two prominent local citizens. The modern road system includes approximately 100 miles of concrete and pavement and several hundred miles of gravel. Every school route either is paved or graveled, and an alert maintenance crew is ever on the job.

JUROR 29 YEARS

John M. Breard, vice-president of Central Savings Bank and Trust company here, last week completed his 29th consecutive year as police juror from Ward 10. He has been connected with the bank for more than 31 years.

Another change in transportation and communication was the establishment of Selman field, purchased in 1927 by the police jury and expanded from 70 acres to its present 280 acres. Greater improvements are in line for the airport under the proposed setup of the progressive police jury, Mr. Breard asserts.

Even the river has undergone changes during Mr. Breard's stay in office. The flood danger has been tempered. The locks and dams have been constructed so that barge lines make regular trips to New Orleans. Two new railroads also connect with Monroe.

Nor is agriculture what it used to be. New methods have been inaugurated, and numerous farm agencies have been established to assist the farmer in his field of production.

In all of this John Breard has had a hand. He was one of the first men in the parish to work for a model road program, and it was he who initiated a bond issue to finance the undertaking, back in 1916. He invited the state highway commissioner to Monroe to make a survey for a new bridge across the Ouachita, and was president of the police jury when the span was dedicated. He agitated for Louisville avenue to be made a 40-foot thoroughfare instead of a 20-foot lane as was proposed at the time.

With a weather eye on progress, John Breard has encouraged the development of industry in this section, the improvement and expansion of transportation and communication. Wherever possible he has put in a word for the farmers and has taken a great interest in the agricultural interests of the parish and state. For years he has been a member of the agricultural committee of the Louisiana Bankers association, for four years he has been chairman.

In civic affairs Mr. Breard is a leader. He is a bigwig in various civic and social organizations and is on practically every welfare and relief board in town.

Mr. Breard has been active, too, in the business life of the section. He started with the Central Savings bank in 1910 when the bank occupied the only "skyscraper" in Monroe, the four-story Covington building. Advancing steadily, he was made vice-president in 1924 and still holds that position.

A lifetime Mr. Breard has spent in Monroe, which his great grandfather helped to found. As police juror and as a banker he is a familiar figure in this area—with his driving, nervous energy which he has unleashed on parish problems for the past 30 years.

RECREATION YEAR BOOK IS ISSUED

The National Recreation Association is publishing a year book of recreation, a custom which has been in vogue since 1907. Each year are shown the cities that have systematized recreational programs.

In the latest compilation Monroe is depicted as one of the cities that operates such a department, along with many other cities and towns.

The year book, published annually by the national association, is a report of the public recreation facilities, leadership expenditures and programs provided by public and private agencies. Agencies are entitled to have their work reported if they conduct play or recreation programs under leaders paid from local funds, or if they operate such facilities as golf courses, bathing beaches or swimming pools which involve continuous supervision.

The 26th national recreation congress will be held in Baltimore, Md., September 29 through October 3.

What he has just said scares even Angus, and there is a long period of very loud silence before he collects enough courage to go on. "We been going together for a year, Addie, and we love each other . . . at least I love you, Addie . . . and I make good money—$125 a month—and Mr. Wittenbaum says maybe he'll raise my wages in a couple months. We could get a house in Caleb and—"

Adoreen has cooled down and she reaches out and grabs Angus' hand. "Angus, I like you, but I'm not sure. You see . . ."

"Look, Addie, I gotta go down to Moschehar for another load of butter this week and I'll be comin' back this way right after next. You think it over. You can tell me then."

He said he would return to private law practice. Greene joined the department when it was organized four years ago, and for a time was manager of the Baton Rouge employment service office.

MASONS WILL HOLD FRIENDSHIP NIGHT

At the suggestion of W. E. Leigh, grand high priest of Royal Arch Masons of Louisiana, the Monroe chapter will hold a friendship night program at the Masonic temple at 8 p. m. Thursday. This meeting, to which all Master Masons and Royal Arch Masons of this vicinity are cordially invited, is called to emphasize the intimate connection existing between Ancient Craft Masonry and Royal Arch Masonry, and for this reason it has aroused unusual interest among the Master Masons of Ouachita parish, it was stated. The program will include talks by W. E. Leigh, G. H. P., and George Lester, as well as several musical numbers. Friendship night programs have been outstanding annual events in Royal Arch chapters of other grand jurisdictions, notably in Michigan, and it is believed that Thursday night's meeting will meet with a wholehearted approval which will assure its being held annually. Arrangements for the meeting are being made by a committee composed of C. B. Hair, secretary; Henry O. Hartman, P. H. P.; and Dr. W. L. Smith, C. H. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

LOCAL YOUTH RETURNS TO NORFOLK NAVAL BASE

James Luther Pittman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Pittman, 3006 Dick Taylor street, has returned to the naval base at Norfolk, Va., after a 10-day furlough spent with his parents. He is a graduate of Neville High school, class of '37, and is also a graduate of the naval clerical school at Norfolk. He enlisted in the navy on Nov. 26, 1940, and was sent to the naval base at Norfolk. He said he is delighted with navy life and sees in it a great opportunity for young men to see the world and to learn as they travel.

CALIBAN FROM CALEB

BY NORMAN KAHL

CHAPTER I

It is two o'clock in the morning, and Angus MacPhillips is sitting in Herbie's Curbside Cafe, and dissecting a slab of liver while Adoreen is swabbing the counter with a sopping rag, when this pasty-faced slicker with the green, store-bought suit comes in. Angus looks up, and when he sees the slicker's mustache, he grunts through a mouthful of fried onions. The slicker takes one look at Adoreen and his eyes go kind of pop-eyed and he staggers over to the counter. As ray one can tell you, Adoreen is just about the trimmest little mouse on either side of the Mississippi.

She comes only about so high and her brown eyes are always dancing around as if whatever she's doing is just about the nicest thing in the world to be doing. Her black hair starts out straight at the top of her head, but it begins curling just over her ears and from there on you lose track of it. Wh-eh is not all you lose track of when you get waited on by Adoreen.

Well, this slick individual just eases himself into a stool while Adoreen tosses some silver and a napkin in front of him, and Angus is getting very red and starts to cut his mashed potatoes as if they are one of Herbie's tough steaks.

"It is quite apparent," says the slicker, in a greasy voice, "that I have lost my way. I had no idea I was this close to Hollywood, Miss Lamarr."

Adoreen just hands this guy a menu and stays poker-face. "You are not close to Hollywood, sir," she says. "You are getting close to Caleb—just 80 miles down this road—and my name isn't Lamarr, it's Mickletwidge—Adoreen Mickletwidge."

The stranger can't take his eyes off her, which is a trouble lots of people who come into Herbie's Curbside cafe seem to get. "Mickletwidge," he says, like he is praying it. "Adoreen Mickletwidge . . . what a delightful name. But tell me, Miss—er—Adoreen, if this isn't Hollywood, what are you doing so far away?"

"The pigs knuckles are on special today," Adoreen says. "Or why aren't you in New York where they are crying for beauty like yours?"

"Would you like some clam chowder first?"

"That face . . . your eyes . . . your—er—that is, the rest of you—wasted in a roadside inn; your talent buried under pigs knuckles and clam chowder."

By this time Angus loses all interest in his liver. The back of his neck is beginning to look like a turnip. That is no kind of radical talk to be handing an impressionable girl like Adoreen—not after the fights they'd been having lately about her wanting to run off to New York and get a job as a model or an actress or something like that.

Angus is debating whether he should poke this agitator in the nose and heave him gently out the door. But that would not be polite especially before Adoreen has taken his order. Angus finally grabs his cup of coffee and walks around to the kitchen door. Millie Schweitz, Adoreen's partner, is mixing up a mess of soup and Angus slides into a chair in the corner.

"Hellow, Angus," says Millie cheerfully. "What's up?"

"Millie," says Angus slowly, "you been talking to Addie like I told you? You know—about New York and all that stuff?"

ago and how I tried to get in pictures but instead I became the best hushslinger on Sunset Boulevard. You leave her to me and don't go gettin' her all riled up again."

Angus leans back in his chair and looks a little happier. "Okay, Millie. It's just that I get worried sometimes."

Adoreen comes skimming into the kitchen, and she's got a glow on her face that doesn't go with roast beef on the plate lunch at Herbie's special prices. "Some pork chops, Millie," she says. "Make 'em kinda extra—y'know what I mean." Then she sees Angus. "Oh, I didn't see you in here."

Angus gets up and looks hurt. And when Angus starts to look hurt there is an awful lot of him that goes into the gesture. He is at least six-feet-three, and every one of his 240 pounds is packed on tight to his body where it does the most good. His hair looks a little like hay in season and there is always a shock of it sticking out from under his cap in front.

"Addie, didn't you even notice I came in here? Look, Addie, I wanta talk to you. I—"

"Not now Angus. Can't you see I'm busy?" Addie don't call me Addie. "All right, Adoreen. But I gotta go soon. I got to get that truck into Caleb. It's all full of butter and I don't want it to get soft."

Adoreen grabs a bowl of chowder and slides out of the kitchen. Angus scratches his head slowly, starting on his forehead and going back to his neck, like he is plowing a field of alfalfa.

"See what I mean, Millie. It's gettin' worse. She ain't never been like that before. If that guy gives her any more ideas, I'm gonna go out there and—"

Millie slaps a pork chop on the griddle and turns around to glare at Angus. "You ain't gonna do a thing, Angus. Understand? Y'ere gonna stay right here until he's gone. You ain't gonna go moppin' up this joint with any travelin' salesmen."

"All right, all right. I just wish he wouldn't talk like that. Millie, you couldn't burn those pork chops a little, could you?"

Millie is flinging potato sticks into the French fryer, and she grabs one and pitches it at Angus' head.

It is 20 minutes later before Angus finally hears the door slam outside and he peeks into the other room and sees Adoreen cleaning off the counter. He goes back to his stool and he is hungry again so he orders a piece of pie and gets another cup of coffee. He is already half an hour behind schedule but he has to get a few things straightened out before he takes his load of butter in to Caleb.

Adoreen is still looking like she has a part interest in a cloud. "Did you hear what that nice gentleman told me, Angus? He said I wouldn't have any trouble at all—not a bit."

"Angus trouble don't what, Addie?" "Why getting a job in New York, of course. Modeling, or maybe even getting into a show."

Angus puts his fork down and scratches his head. "Now, Addie, you don't want to listen to that kind of talk. You don't want to pay no attention to it. That cookie wasn't no gentleman, anyway—and he had a mustache."

"Angus, quit talking like that," Adoreen flashes. "I was just telling you what he said and you have to take it all wrong. I won't ever see him again, but I'm glad he stopped. He appreciated my talent—even if you don't."

"What tal—? Oh, all right, Addie. Let's forget it." Angus is playing around with the meringue on top of his pie. It keeps slipping off, and he is trying to put it back on top of the lemon filling.

If You Were A Soldier . . .

Put yourself in this picture: A young man in the early twenties, you have left a job you like and held in abeyance all your plans for the future in order to do your stint in the army. Like thousands upon thousands of other young fellows, you have done this cheerfully because you feel it is your duty. Somewhat to your surprise perhaps, you learn that army food is good, the officers are human beings and in general military life isn't as bad as you had feared. But you make other discoveries that are not so pleasant.

You learn that your camp of 40,000 men is located near a town of less than 10,000 people. You find that its recreational opportunities are totally inadequate to serve an army. On your days off there is nothing much for you to do but wander around the streets. The town has a few pool rooms, a tiny movie theater, and one or two dance halls where you can hire a partner for a dime a dance. But even these "recreational facilities" are denied you because thousands of fun-seeking soldiers have jammed them far beyond capacity.

You discover that there isn't a decent place for you to wash up, nor even to sit and rest when you get tired of tramping the streets. All in all, you feel that your day in town away from the routine of military training has been demoralizing rather than invigorating.

Faced with the prospect of more days like this you certainly would welcome with open arms the plan of the United Service Organizations to operate service clubs for soldiers in the town near your camp. You would feel that it is a patriotic duty for citizens not serving in the armed forces to make sure that American soldiers had decent off-duty recreational facilities.

This newspaper is of the same opinion. We feel that through the United Service Organizations every citizen is enabled to take an active part in his country's defense program. The campaign for $10,765,000 to operate 360 service clubs is now in progress. It is an outstanding opportunity to express in concrete form appreciation for the sacrifices young Americans are making to keep safe our freedoms and liberties!

DEATH TAKES NO VACATION

Pretty soon most Americans will be launching out on their vacations (except those like the 38,000 in the vital Curtis-Wright airplane plants, who have patriotically given up theirs in order to produce 60 more planes and 280 more engines during that time).

The least those of us can do who go on the annual vacation is not to kill anybody while we're away. Yet some of us will.

Vacation season is always a carnival of death on the highways, and the United States enters this one with 1,500 more dead already on the roads this year than last. In the first four months of this year, 10,780 persons have been killed in traffic. We are headed for a new high record unless we can restrain our passion for speed, our road recklessness.

Drive slowly—conserve your car, your tires—and your life.

THE STOCK PILES GROW

The program of securing reserve stocks of raw materials vital to national existence in an emergency is slowly advancing. We are in infinitely better shape in this respect than we were a year ago. Further progress is slowed by lack of shipping facilities, but that is inevitable, the world shipping crisis being what it is.

Sufficient for a year or more are stocks of chromite, graphite, manganese, mica, tin, and rubber. Great stocks of opium from Macedonia were laid in before the Greek collapse. Most of the Chile copper output has been contracted for, needing only ships to bring it here. Mercury, which we allowed Japan to buy under our noses in Mexico, is being increasingly produced locally. Nickel we can be sure of in Canada, and tungsten is being produced locally while substitutes are studied.

Here, as in other defense fields, we have not done what must be done, yet there is no cause for despair.

PUBLIC AUTHORITY MUST CONTROL

There is only one authority in the United States which must be allowed to maintain order in public assemblies—that is, the regularly constituted public authority.

People who attend meetings with the obvious purpose of disrupting them must be suppressed, not by members of the organization holding the meeting, but by police or other public authority. For if a meeting organizes its own bouncers to preserve its own order, then they are only embryo storm troopers.

Freedom of speech does not include organized disruption and hoodlumism at meetings. There have been incidents in which those who disagree with the point of view they knew would be expressed at a meeting attended that meeting, not to dissent in orderly manner, but to disrupt and break up the meeting. That sort of hooliganism has no place in America.

JIMMIE FIDLER
In Hollywood

GALVESTON, Texas, June 14.—"Way down hiah" for the convention of Texas newspaper publishers, I've stolen a few minutes during which to chat with theater men. What do you think, in these talks, has come out and slapped me in the ears? The theater owners' remark that Hollywood is the most selfish, most intolerant place in the world! Here's what one of them said:

"Folks out there think the sun rises in East Hollywood and sets in Culver City (M.G.M.). Do you think the men who make pictures ever give a serious thought to the worries of theater owners? You bet they don't! They're too concerned with their own glory, in feathering their own nests, in making mountains of their own petty frets."

"Sure, they like to turn out successful films. But do you think that's because they want to see theater men make real profit? You bet it's not! It's because, when they produce good movies, they receive a lot of personal acclaim and maybe big cash bonuses. "Studio executives spend too little time diagnosing the problems of the exhibitors. They've never really tried to discover which stars mean money to us, and which do not. They take no pains to learn what the public wants. Instead, they blindly make pictures to please themselves, starting their friends. If these efforts meet with applause and back-patting among their own little circle of pals, they believe they are hugely successful."

You gentlemen of Hollywood, I advise you to read this editorial a second time. It's not my opinion. It's the opinion of exhibitors, who will some day demand much more attention. When that time comes, it may be well if you have already allied yourself with their side.

Idol Chatter: Some screen love scenes are taboo, and on the other hand, some are too. In a phrase description of Cesar Romero: Tall, dark and dance-some. Add men who could go far with the proper roles: John Beal. . . . Peas-in-a-pod: Ronald Colman and Brooklyn's deputy district attorney Burton Turkus (the prosecuted Murder, Inc.). . . . Pat Rossi, the radio baritone, says if she'll just look his way, he's found the Laramie Day he's been saving up for. . . . What has become of that clever British moppet, Terry Kilbourne?

Fidling: If the stork visits Eddy's front door. And we find Nelson pacing the floor.

The question I bring is: "What will he sing—'Shortenin' Bread' or just 'I Travellin'?"

Intimate Notes: Customer asks which in my opinion is the most beautiful screen name? I say "Gloria Swanson." It has euphony, yet it neither looks nor sounds like a stage name. . . . What movie star is the best man with his fists, asks a Long Beach, Cal., fellow who signs himself "Vic McGlen." Depends on whether the fight would be Queensbury or rough-and-tumble. In a prize ring I'd say Vic McGlen, but at knock-down-drag-out "Big Boy" Williams could probably handle any two stars. . . . "We're always hearing about the dead and old stars of yesterday," says a Detroit "but aren't today's stars just as colorful?" Having known three generations, my reply is yes. But where screen silence once lent glamour, talking has made today's stars more real, therefore less like "dream princes and princesses."

OUR CHILDREN

NOTHING WRONG WITH THE MOVIES
The movies are a part of the daily life of our country. They are an educative force to be reckoned with and used for the good of the people. For the most part they are light entertainment and that, too, is educative and to be used for our good.

We complain about the effect of movies on children without making the complaint specific. That we have a complaint is beyond question, but it is not a blanket complaint and should not be offered as one. My specific complaint is that all movies are open to everybody from infants in arms to the aged. I would prefer a little discrimination in this particular. I would not allow children of certain stages of development to attend certain movies. I would exclude babies in arms on the ground of health reasons.

When a movie has to do with questions beyond the understanding of children, when they excite sex in children unprepared for that excitement, when they deal with shocking events in a shocking way, I would keep children who might be affected by them out of the theater. But I would do that myself, being the responsible parent, and I would not expect the police to do it for me.

Age is not a good basis for judgment here. One child is matured or emotionally seasoned when another is the same age is still infantile. The undeveloped one should not be exposed to excessive emotional stress. The parent who knows the child's limitation must decide this, not the producer.

I have been troubled by the reception these children gave certain pictures. The pictures were of almost adult and very fine pictures they were, but on Saturday mornings, when mothers were busy, the children went to these pictures and they screamed hysterically, yelled with savage glee, rocked and stamped in primitive ecstasy, in the same way that a child does when it does not understand what they were seeing. What I regretted as much as I did this emotional waste was the loss of the effect of a good picture. That might have been saved the children, and they might have had a fine lesson of cultural value if the management had provided a dramatic storyteller to introduce the picture and interpret it, so the children could take it as it was, all the children got was the impression of battle, color and noise, and they responded that way.

Gangster pictures have little influence on the behavior of children except that they suggest rough play, inspire bad manners, set up false standards of dress, behavior and morals. They seem to encourage and nourish bad taste, but I doubt they ever turned a good child to criminal ways. Criminals are unintelligent people, usually born that way, and they take their warped minds and characters with them to the movies. They did not find them there. Just as one hears with interest and pleasure what one already knows, one sees and takes to heart what one already knows and feels and truly is out of a book, a picture or a play.

The movies, the radio and the comics need censoring for the children, but the censor is the parent, not the police. The responsibility is with the parents—it is not the law's duty.

Troublesome habits in children develop into traits that alienate people from them, as they grow older. . . . Check the trouble at its source. Sunday School Lesson

Text: Acts 15:21-29
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
Sunday School Lesson for June 22
Even in the realm of religion and the church it is true that success brings its problems and difficulties. As Christianity spread and grew, these problems were two-fold. There was the problem of mingling races in a religion that, like its founder, was no respecter of persons. The Gospel had power to change the outlooks and lives of men, regardless of their color and their habitat. And there was the additional problem of a religion that rose among those of one race and with its roots and foundations in one religion becoming worldwide in its scope and application.

It was not unnatural that these problems should have arisen in the early church because we have the same problems today. In one form or other they came up in the latest of worldwide religious conferences—the meeting of representatives of almost all Protestant groups held at Oxford, England, in 1937, and the world missionary council held at Madras, India, a year later.

When conflict between Jews and Gentiles arose in far-off Antioch, the Christians held a conference in Jerusalem to see what could be done. This was, as our lesson calls it, "the first Jerusalem conference on world missions," and it is interesting that a later world conference on world missions was held in this very city of Jerusalem not many years ago.

One is impressed with the way in which these early Christians, of so many sorts and types, went about solving their problems. Perhaps the most notable thing is that they went so directly to first principles and to the basic experience of the Gospel. They faced the plain fact that where the Gospel was preached Gentiles as well as Jews benefited from it.

Many converts had not been brought up in the Jewish way. They did not understand the significance or the need of rites to which the Jews had been accustomed, which were deeply imbedded in their religious practices, and which the Jewish Christians continued to practice along with what they deemed their newer and larger experience.

Should these practices be enjoined on the Gentile Christians? The wise leaders among the Jews said that they should not, and wisdom in this conference came particularly from James, the brother of our Lord, who made

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson
Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—An imposing array of opponents of the St. Lawrence seaway development is marshalling its arguments for an all-out offensive to defeat this $285,000,000, Canadian-United States power and ship transport project which has been kicked around ever since 1895.

Opposition is not political. Republicans and Democrats are both for and against it, and the seaway idea got its first real boost in the Hoover administration, from which President Roosevelt picked it up and has given it his blessing. Opposition comes from several sources:

Private utilities in the area naturally don't want government power expansion, for the 1926 New York State Power Authority act prohibits a private utility from operating on a navigable stream.

Railroads, particularly the eastern roads, are opposed to it because it is a competitive threat that water transport always gives land transport in forcing downward readjustment of rates. Western roads, however, are inclined to favor the seaway because they feel the cheaper water routes east of Chicago would enable them to ship more goods to the Atlantic seaboard.

Port authorities at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and even Norfolk fear that opening the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes to ocean going vessels would cut down the business in their harbors. New York state barge canal from Buffalo to New York might suffer. Mississippi valley, particularly port of New Orleans, opposes for the same reason.

Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia coal producers oppose it not only because water power always competes with steam generated power, but also because they fear the loss of Canadian coal markets if the St. Lawrence is opened to cargoes of British, Nova Scotian, or even South American or European coal which could be hauled in as ballast on the return voyages of grain vessels.

This one is a bit hard to figure. United States coal exports to Quebec and Ontario are now 11,000,000 tons a year. In spite of a tariff of 75 cents a ton against United States coal which has to be rail shipped from Lake Ontario to Montreal, United States coal has been outselling British coal 753,000 tons to 193,000 tons, and the Nova Scotia mines have an additional capacity of only 2,800,000 tons, only a fourth of the present United States sales.

The big argument for the St. Lawrence project is that it is a defense measure, but a big battle will wage over just how much of a defense project this is.

Its vulnerability is unquestionable. One well placed bomb on any of the 16 sets of locks could put it out of business. It would be closed by winter from November 11 to April 15, making it useless five months every year.

The National Economy League and plenty of others argue that the country can't afford it now, and there is no question that it would cost money—$116,000,000 federal funds, $90,000,000 from New York state, $60,000,000 from Canada plus another $50,000,000 from all sources for deepening harbors, dredging the Sault Ste. Marie locks and shallow channels to accommodate 27-foot bottoms of ocean going vessels.

It would take from two to four years to complete, maybe longer.

Is the manpower available to do the job, particularly in these days of skilled labor shortage? Engineers say the average employment would be ten thousand men, much of it unskilled or semi-skilled labor, which is one of the things the country seems to have a six million abundance of.

The power shortage and the need for more shipbuilding facilities are two or the principal defense arguments of the seaway supporters.

All this buildup on existing power shortages has been good St. Lawrence propaganda, but there is no question but that the New York area can well use the two million horsepower the St. Lawrence dams could produce for the big electro-chemical, alloy, aluminum and kindred industries which center around Buffalo.

As to shipbuilding, there are 30 shipways in the Great Lakes which can take vessels of 500 feet and over. Most of them are now idle, or used only for repairs. The long-range idea is to use these protected inland sea dry-docks for the construction of cruisers, which are 18 months or more on the ways, releasing the coast facilities for building ugly ducklings and the like, which are on the ways only three or four months. Cruisers even up to the Wichita class, 600 feet long, 61-foot beam, 20-foot draft, could easily be built in the Great Lakes yards and get through the Welland canal locks, the "bottleneck" which will pass vessels up to 850-foot length, 80-foot beam, 27-foot draft.

Those limits, by the way, would permit 72 per cent of the world's freighters to come right to Detroit or Chicago. And on the voyage outbound, they would have a thousand miles less open ocean to navigate on the great circle route under Greenland and Iceland, to England.

The influential speech that is recorded in the lesson.

In brief, the requirement was that the Gentiles should practice the Christian way, that they should not give offense to their Jewish brethren by obstructive disregard of Jewish customs, but that neither should they be under obligation to adopt these customs except as "their own consciences should direct."

Would it not be well if all the

NEW YORK—Diary: Returned tired from a drive of 500 miles, but a night's good sleep mends all. . . . Deposited Daughter Mary in school at Providence for the last time, as commencement looms. . . . Spoke to three audiences in rapid succession in Lowell, Mass., fulfilling a promise made last fall. . . . The high school audience at Lowell was one of the best-behaved student bodies I've had the luck to address, and there were 4,500 of the youngsters in all. . . . Rotary turned out a polite and patient crowd, too. . . . And Mr. H. U. Quinn, of the commercial college, drove about town, showing and explaining the remarkable and original features of this old mill city. . . . What interested me most is the system of canals. Fast-flowing water, taken from the Merrimack river, furnishes power for mills and fluid for scouring wool.

It interested me to hear from Mr. Quinn that business schools no longer place any stress upon penmanship. Most of them do not even attempt to teach the subject.

It is not because businessmen do not like a legible hand, but because so many mechanical devices have entered into business office routine. The commercial school has to crowd on all steam to prepare its students for office work, and penmanship has gone by the board because other subjects seem more important.

It's inevitable, but regrettable from the standpoint of the older folk, who were taught that a fair hand was an important accomplishment.

I note in my daily correspondence that the most legible hand-written letters come from older people. . . . These who were trained in the old Spencerian system, and the younger ones who learned the simple and legible Palmer modification of that system, write so that anyone may read. Many who learned the vertical system in the schools a slightly later era have not been able to keep up legibility under the stress of daily life and rapid production.

Peonies in great jars and tubs were being spread about the lobby of the Algonquin the other day, when I stepped inside.

Mrs. Frank Case, wife of the proprietor, was managing the job in person.

Queries brought out that the flowers come from the Case home at Sag Harbor.

A quaint old whaling town is Sag Harbor, out toward the far end of Long Island.

In recent years, New Yorkers who can afford to get away from the heat and dust of Manhattan in midsummer have been migrating thitherward. The Cases have a comfortable home there, and a large flower garden. After a Sunday at the harbor, they like to bring back a little of the country to the hotel.

We talked of peonies. I asked whether there were many ants among the flowers, as there used to be among my mother's peonies in our front yard.

Of course, lots of ants, replied Mrs. Case. "Peonies will not bloom without ants. The ants are thought to be pests by some amateur gardeners. The truth is that they aid the flower in its work of becoming beautiful. They made these big blossoms possible."

So it's evidently foolish to spray against ants and destroy ant-hills in peony gardens.

The group of museums at 153rd street, off Broadway, is becoming better known to tourists, a year ago. It even attracts some New Yorkers from time to time.

The Geographical society has a fine building in the group. There is one of the finest museums of Indian art and life in the world. A compact building houses one of the world's largest collections of coats of arms. Spanish art occupies a complete unit.

Anyone who is interested in one of these subjects can spend half a day in this lovely spot to great advantage, while visiting New York.

For a whiff of stimulating air, the confirmed coffee drinker should wander along Front and Water streets, in the neighborhood of Fulton and Wall streets.

The big roasters are in this vicinity. When roasting is going on, the air is laden for blocks with the coffee aroma that comes only from the roaster. Dry and heavy, it is even more delectable than fragrance of the coffee-pot in the kitchen.

Sometimes there is just a suspicion that something is burning. That's when the coffee is sitting down the coffee that has almost reached the burnt stage.

ISSUES FIVE PERMITS

Five building permits, one of them for the construction of a new residence in Monroe, were announced yesterday by Sam H. Aul, city building inspector. J. C. Loftin received a permit to build a one-story frame dwelling at 905 Calypso street. Scheduled to cost $4,600, the house will contain five rooms and a bathroom.

The Corner estate was given permission to remodel the front of the one-story brick store building at 415-19 DeSard street. A new awning will replace the old, and the cost will be $280. Hibbard Brothers are contractors. A permit was issued to Mrs. L. V. Tarver to screen the porch of the one-story frame dwelling at 401 Speed avenue. The cost will be $75, and day labor will be employed.

J. B. McCoy received a permit to build a shed onto the one-story frame building at 903 South Grand and another to build a shed onto the building at the rear of 907 South Grand street. The first structure is scheduled to cost $50, the second, $75. The owner will do the work.

If You Were A Soldier . . .

Put yourself in this picture: A young man in the early twenties, you have left a job you like and held in abeyance all your plans for the future in order to do your stint in the army. Like thousands upon thousands of other young fellows, you have done this cheerfully because you feel it is your duty. Somewhat to your surprise perhaps, you learn that army food is good, the officers are human beings and in general military life isn't as bad as you had feared. But you make other discoveries that are not so pleasant.

You learn that your camp of 40,000 men is located near a town of less than 10,000 people. You find that its recreational opportunities are totally inadequate to serve an army. On your days off there is nothing much for you to do but wander around the streets. The town has a few pool rooms, a tiny movie theater, and one or two dance halls where you can hire a partner for a dime a dance. But even these "recreational facilities" are denied you because thousands of fun-seeking soldiers have jammed them far beyond capacity.

You discover that there isn't a decent place for you to wash up, nor even to sit and rest when you get tired of tramping the streets. All in all, you feel that your day in town away from the routine of military training has been demoralizing rather than invigorating.

Faced with the prospect of more days like this you certainly would welcome with open arms the plan of the United Service Organizations to operate service clubs for soldiers in the town near your camp. You would feel that it is a patriotic duty for citizens not serving in the armed forces to make sure that American soldiers had decent off-duty recreational facilities.

This newspaper is of the same opinion. We feel that through the United Service Organizations every citizen is enabled to take an active part in his country's defense program. The campaign for $10,765,000 to operate 360 service clubs is now in progress. It is an outstanding opportunity to express in concrete form appreciation for the sacrifices young Americans are making to keep safe our freedoms and liberties!

DEATH TAKES NO VACATION

Pretty soon most Americans will be launching out on their vacations (except those like the 38,000 in the vital Curtiss-Wright airplane plants, who have patriotically given up theirs in order to produce 60 more planes and 280 more engines during that time).

The least those of us can do who go on the annual vacation is not to kill anybody while we're away. Yet some of us will.

Vacation season is always a carnival for death on the highways, and the United States enters this one with 1,500 more dead already on the roads this year than last. In the first four months of this year, 10,780 persons have been killed in traffic. We are headed for a new high record unless we can restrain our passion for speed, our road recklessness.

THE STOCK PILES GROW

The program of securing reserve stocks of raw materials vital to national existence in an emergency is slowly advancing. We are in infinitely better shape in this respect than we were a year ago. Further progress is slowed by lack of shipping facilities, but that is inevitable, the world shipping crisis being what it is.

Sufficient for a year or more are stocks of chromite, graphite, manganese, mica, tin, and rubber. Great stocks of opium from Macedonia were laid in before the Greek collapse. Most of the Chile copper output has been contracted for, needing only ships to bring it here. Mercury, which we allowed Japan to buy under our noses in Mexico, is being increasingly produced locally. Nickel we can be sure of in Canada, and tungsten is being produced locally while substitutes are studied.

Here, as in other defense fields, we have not done what must be done, yet there is no cause for despair.

PUBLIC AUTHORITY MUST CONTROL

There is only one authority in the United States which must be allowed to maintain order in public assemblies—that is, the regularly constituted public authority.

People who attend meetings with the obvious purpose of disrupting them must be suppressed, not by members of the organization holding the meeting, but by police or other public authority. For if a meeting organizes its own bouncers to preserve its own order, then they are only embryo storm troopers.

Freedom of speech does not include organized disruption and hoodlumism at meetings. There have been incidents in which those who disagree with the point of view they knew would be expressed at a meeting attended that meeting, not to dissent in orderly manner, but to disrupt and break up the meeting. That sort of hooliganism has no place in America.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

GALVESTON, Texas, June 14.—"Way down hiah" for the convention of Texas newspaper publishers, I've stolen a few minutes during which to chat with theater men. What do you think, in these talks, has come out and slapped me in the ears?

The theater owners' remark that Hollywood is the most selfish, most intolerant place in the world! Here's what one of them said: "Folks out there think the sun rises in East Hollywood and sets in Culver City (M.G.M.) Do you think the men who make pictures ever give a serious thought to the worries of theater owners? You bet they don't! They're too concerned with their own glory, in feathering their own nests, in making mountains of their own petty frets."

"Sure, they like to turn out successful films. But do you think that's because they want to see theater men make real profit? You bet it's not! It's because, when they produce good movies, they receive a lot of personal acclaim and maybe big cash bonuses. "Studio executives spend too little time diagnosing the problems of the exhibitors. They've never really tried to discover which stars mean money to us, and which do not. They take no pains to learn what the public wants. Instead, they blindly make pictures to please themselves, starting their friends. If these efforts meet with applause and back-patting among their own little circle of pals, they believe they are hugely successful."

You gentlemen of Hollywood, I advise you to read this editorial a second time. It's not my opinion. It's the opinion of exhibitors, who will some day demand much more attention. When that time comes, it may be well if you have already allied yourself with their side.

Idol Chatter: Some screen love scenes are taboo, and on the other hand, some are too . . . In-a-phrase description of Cesar Romero: Tall, dark and dance-some . . . Add men who could go far with the proper roles. John Beal . . . Peas-in-a-pod. Ronald Colman and Brooklyn's deputy district attorney Burton Turkus (the prosecuted Murder, Inc.) . . . Pat Rossi, the radio baritone, says if he'll just look his way, he's found the Laramie Day he's been saving up for . . . What has become of that clever British moppet, Terry Kilbourne?

Fidling: If the stork visits Eddy's front door. And we find Nelson pacing the floor.

The question I bring is: "What will he sing—'Shortenin' Bread' or just 'I Travatore'?"

Who's news: Tip to eastern editors: Keep an eye on Betty Cushing (Jimmie Roosevelt's ex) and Harry Hopkins, one of the president's right hands . . . Bob Hope's new Paramount deal tilts his salary to the Bing Crosby level . . . To meet the demand for service pictures, Dorothy Lamour will be rushed into "The Fleet's In," remake of an old Clara Bow starer . . . The king's horses couldn't keep Henry Fonda away from 20th Century-Fox these days—he's making home movies of a hummingbird family nesting under his dressing room veranda . . . Leo (Dead End) Gorcey has bought half interest in a tropical fish aquarium . . . A blonde glamour gal is telling pals she'll be the next Mrs. Frank (Director) Borzage . . . The shorts-clad pair bicycling a long Beverly Hills' bridge paths daily are Marlene Dietrich and French star Jean Gabin . . . Maxine Lewis, sister of Diana (Mrs. William Powell) is working in costume at Catalina's new Chi-Chi bar; talent scouts should have a listen . . . Nelson Eddy is mulling a fall radio offer; if he signs he may call off his annual concert trek . . . Ann Sothern should sell that new hat idea (wig made of flowers) to the Floral association . . . Jean Parker's mare is a mama; Jean officiated at the birth.

Intimate Notes: Customer asks which in my opinion is the most beautiful screen name? I say "Gloria Swanson." It has euphony, yet it neither looks nor sounds like a stage name . . . What movie star is the best man with his fists, asks a Long Beach, Cal., fellow who signs himself "Young Pug?" Depends on whether the fight would be Queensbury or rough-and-tumble. In a prize ring I'd say Vic McLinden, but at knock-down-drag-out "Big Boy" Williams could probably handle any two stars . . . "We're always hearing about the 'grand old stars of yesterday,'" says a Detroitier, "but aren't today's stars just as colorful?" Having known three generations, my reply is yes. But where screen silence once lent glamour, talking has made today's stars more real, therefore less like "dream princes and princesses."

One-Minute Interview with Loretta Young: "Anyone who's been in the show business from childhood, as I have, must constantly battle against selfishness. Acting is the most competitive work in the world, a game of dog eat dog. It's only natural for an actor to fall into the habit of thinking in terms of 'I' and over-riding all opposition whenever possible. The habit is usually fatal." ## OUR CHILDREN

NOTHING WRONG WITH THE MOVIES

The movies are a part of the daily life of this country. They are an educative force to be reckoned with and used for the good of the people. For the most part they are light entertainment and that, too, is educative and to be used for our good.

We complain about the effect of movies on children without making the complaint specific. That we have a just complaint is beyond question, but it is not a blanket complaint and should not be offered as one. My specific complaint is that all movies are open to everybody from infants in arms to the aged. I would prefer a little discrimination in this particular. I would not allow children of certain stages of development to attend certain movies. I would exclude babies in arms on the ground of health reasons.

When a movie has to do with questions beyond the understanding of children, when they excite sex in children unprepared for that excitement, when they deal with shocking events in a shocking way, I would keep children who might be affected by them out of the theater. But I would do that myself, being the responsible parent, and I would not expect the police to do it for me.

Age is not a good basis for judgment here. One child is matured or emotionally seasoned when another of the same age is still infantile. The undeveloped one should not be exposed to excessive emotional stress. The parent who knows the child's limitation must decide this, not the producer.

I have been troubled by the reception some children gave certain pictures. The pictures were for adults and very fine pictures they were, but on Saturday mornings, when mothers were busy, the children went to these pictures and they screamed hysterically, filled with savage rage, rocked and stamped in primitive emotion, in the wrong places, because they did not understand what they were seeing. What I regretted as much as I did this emotional waste was the loss of the effect of a good picture. That might have been saved the children, and they might have had a fine lesson of cultural value if the management had provided a dramatic storyteller to introduce the picture and interpret it, so the children could take it. As it was, all the children got was the impression of battle, color and noise, and they responded that way.

Gangster pictures have little influence on the behavior of children except that they suggest rough play, in-spired bad manners, set up false standards of dress, behavior and morals. They seem to encourage and nourish bad taste, but I doubt they ever turned a good child to criminal ways. Criminals are unintelligent people, usually born that way, and they take their warped minds and characters with them to the movies. They did not find them there. Just as one hears with interest and pleasure what one already knows, one sees and takes to heart what one already knows and feels and truly is out of a book, a picture or a play.

The movies, the radio and the comics need censoring for the children, but the censor is the parent, not the police. The responsibility is with the parents—it is not the law's duty.

Troublesome habits in children develop into traits that alienate people from them, as they grow older. . . . Check the trouble at its source. ## Sunday School Lesson

Text: Acts 15:6-21
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Sunday School Lesson for June 22

Even in the realm of religion and the church it is true that success brings its problems and difficulties. As Christianity spread and grew, these problems were two-fold. There was the problem of mingling races in a religion that, like its founder, was no respecter of persons. The Gospel had power to change the outlooks and lives of men, regardless of their color and their habitat. And there was the additional problem of a religion that rose among those of one race and with its roots and foundations in one religion becoming worldwide in its scope and application.

It was not unnatural that these problems should have arisen in the early church because we have the same problems today. In one form or other they came up in the latest of world-wide religious conferences—the meeting of representatives of almost all Protestant groups held at Oxford, England, in 1937, and the world missionary council held at Madras, India, a year later.

When conflict between Jews and Gentiles arose in far-off Antioch, the Christians held a conference in Jerusalem to see what could be done. This was, as our lesson calls it, "the first Jerusalem conference on world missions," and it is interesting that a later world conference on world missions was held in this very city of Jerusalem not many years ago.

One is impressed with the way in which these early Christians, of so many sorts and types, went about solving their problems. Perhaps the most notable thing is that they went so directly to the principles and to the basic experience of the Gospel. They faced the plain fact that where the Gospel was preached Gentiles as well as Jews benefited from it.

Many converts had not been brought up in the Jewish way. They did not understand the significance or the need of rites to which the Jews had been accustomed, which were deeply imbedded in their religious practice, and which the Jewish Christians continued to practice along with what they deemed their newer and larger experience.

Should these practices be enjoined on the Gentile Christians? The wise leaders among the Jews said that they should not, and wisdom in this conference came particularly from James, the brother of our Lord, who made

IN WASHINGTON

By Peter Edson

Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON—An imposing array of opponents of the St. Lawrence seaway development is marshalling its arguments for an all-out offensive to defeat this $285,000,000, Canadian-United States power and ship transport project which has been kicked around ever since 1935.

Opposition is not political. Republicans and Democrats are both for and against it, and the seaway idea got its first real boost in the Hoover administration, from which President Roosevelt picked it up and has given it his blessing. Opposition comes from several sources:

Private utilities in the area naturally don't want government power expansion, for the 1926 New York State Power Authority act prohibits a private utility from operating on a navigable stream.

Railroads, particularly the eastern roads, are opposed to it because it is a competitive threat that water transport always gives land transport in forcing downward readjustment of rates. Western roads, however, are inclined to favor the seaway because they feel the cheaper water routes east of Chicago would enable them to ship more goods to the Atlantic seaboard.

Port authorities at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and even Norfolk fear that opening the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes to ocean going vessels would cut down the business in their harbors. New York state barge canal from Buffalo to New York might suffer. Mississippi valley, particularly port of New Orleans, opposes for the same reason.

Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia coal producers oppose it not only because water power always competes with steam generated power, but also because they fear the loss of Canadian coal markets if the St. Lawrence is opened to cargoes of British, Nova Scotian, or even South American or European coal which could be hauled in as ballast on the return voyages of grain vessels.

This one is a bit hard to figure. United States coal exports to Quebec and Ontario are now 11,000,000 tons a year. In spite of a tariff of 75 cents a ton against United States coal which has to be rail shipped from Lake Ontario to Montreal, United States coal has been outselling British coal 753,000 tons to 193,000 tons, and the Nova Scotia mines have an additional capacity of only 2,800,000 tons, only a fourth of the present United States sales.

The big argument for the St. Lawrence project is that it is a defense measure, but a big battle will wage over just how much of a defense project this is.

Its vulnerability is unquestionable. One well placed bomb on any of the 15 sets of locks could put it out of business. It would be closed by winter from November 11 to April 15, making it useless five months every year.

The National Economy League and plenty of others argue that the country can't afford it now, and there is no question that it would cost money—$116,000,000 federal funds, $90,000,000 from New York state, $60,000,000 from Canada plus another $50,000,000 from all sources for deepening harbors, dredging the Sault Ste. Marie locks and shallow channels to accommodate 27-foot bottoms of ocean going vessels.

It would take from two to four years to complete, maybe longer. Is the manpower available to do the job, particularly in these days of skilled labor shortage? Engineers say the average employment would be ten thousand men, much of it unskilled or semi-skilled labor, which is one of the things the country seems to have a six million abundance of.

The power shortage and the need for more shipbuilding facilities are two or the principal defense arguments of the seaway supporters.

All this buildup on existing power shortages has been good St. Lawrence propaganda, but there is no question but that the New York area can well use the two million horsepower the St. Lawrence dams could produce for the big electro-chemical, alloy, aluminum and kindred industries which center around Buffalo.

As to shipbuilding, there are 30 shipways in the Great Lakes which can take vessels of 500 feet and over. Most of them are now idle, or used only for repairs. The long-range idea is to use these protected inland sea dry-docks for the construction of cruisers, which are 18 months or more on the ways, releasing the coast facilities for building ugly ducklings and the like, which are on the ways only three or four months. Cruisers even up to the Wichita class, 600 feet long, 61-foot beam, 20-foot draft, could easily be built in the Great Lakes yards and get through the Welland canal locks, the "bottleneck" which will pass vessels up to 850-foot length, 80-foot beam, 27-foot draft.

Those limits, by the way, would permit 72 per cent of the world's freighters to come right to Detroit or Chicago. And on the voyage outbound, they would have a thousand miles less open ocean to navigate on the great circle route under Greenland and Iceland, to England.

the influential speech that is recorded in the lesson.

In brief, the requirement was that the Gentiles should practice the Christian way, that they should not give offense to their Jewish brethren by obtrusive disregard of Jewish customs, but that neither should they be under obligation to adopt these customs except as their own consciences should direct.

Would it not be well if all the problems of worldwide Christianity could be settled today upon so wise and practical a basis and with such courteous consideration for the ideas and rights of all?

The Nobel prizes for 1941, which probably will not be awarded until the war is ended, will be worth $32,574. Value of the prizes depends on income from investments of the fund left by Alfred Nobel.

Day by Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: Returned tired from a drive of 500 miles, but a night's good sleep mends all . . . Deposited Daughter Mary in school at Providence for the last time, as commencement looms . . . Spoke to three audiences in rapid succession in Lowell, Mass., fulfilling a promise made last fall . . . The high school audience at Lowell was one of the best-behaved student bodies I've had the luck to address, and there were 450 of the youngsters in all . . . Rotary turned out a polite and patient crowd, too . . . and Mr. H. O. Quinn, of the commercial college, drove about town, showing and explaining the remarkable and original features of this old mill city . . . What interested me most is the system of canals. Fast-flowing water, taken from the Merrimack river, furnishes power for mills and fluid for scouring wool.

It interested me to hear from Mr. Quinn that business schools no longer place any stress upon penmanship. Most of them do not even attempt to teach the subject.

It is not because businessmen do not like a legible hand, but because so many mechanical devices have entered into business office routine. The commercial school has to crowd on all steam to prepare its students for office work, and penmanship has gone by the board because other subjects seem more important.

It's inevitable, but regrettable from the standpoint of the older folk, who were taught that a fair hand was an important accomplishment.

I note in my daily correspondence that the most legible hand-written letters come from older people.

Those who were trained in the old Spencerian system, and the younger ones who learned the simple and legible Palmer modification of that system, write so that anyone may read. Many who learned the vertical system in the schools of a slightly later era have not been able to keep up legibility under the stress of daily life and rapid production.

Peonies in great jars and tubs were being spread about the lobby of the Algonquin the other day, when I stepped inside.

Mrs. Frank Case, wife of the proprietor, was managing the job in person.

Queries brought out that the flowers come from the Case home at Sag Harbor, out toward the far end of Long Island.

In recent years, New Yorkers who can afford to get away from the heat and dust of Manhattan in midsummer have been migrating thitherward. The Cases have a comfortable home there, and a large flower garden. After a Sunday at the Harbor, they like to bring back a little of the country to the hotel.

"Of course, lots of ants," replied Mrs. Case. "Peonies will not bloom without ants. The ants are thought to be pests by some amateur gardeners. The truth is that they aid the flower in its work of becoming beautiful. They made these big blossoms possible!"

So it's evidently foolish to spray against ants and destroy ant-hills in peony gardens.

ISSUES FIVE PERMITS

Five building permits, one of them for the construction of a new residence in Monroe, were announced yesterday by Sam H. Aul, city building inspector. J. C. Loftin received a permit to build a one-story frame dwelling at 905 Catalpa street. Scheduled to cost $4,600, the house will contain five rooms and a bathroom.

The Corner estate was given permission to remodel the front of the one-story brick store building at 415-19 DeLaure street. A new awning will replace the old, and the cost will be $280. Hibbard Brothers are contractors. A permit was issued to Mrs. L. V. Tarver to screen the porch of the one-story frame dwelling at 401 Speed avenue. The cost will be $75, and day labor will be employed.

J. B. McCoy received a permit to build a shed onto the one-story frame building at 905 South Grand and another to build a shed onto the building at the rear of 907 South Grand street. The first structure is scheduled to cost $50, the second, $75. The owner will do the work.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein

Stamp Honors "Founder" Of Italian Language

ITALY'S greatest poet, Alighieri Dante, is honored on this 1938 stamp, issued in observance of the 10th anniversary of the proclamation of the empire. It was this proclamation that was responsible for binding the Italian government and the Fascist party into a single unit.

Dante, who was born in 1265, was responsible more than any other scholar for developing the modern Italian language. Before Dante wrote the "Divine Comedy," the Italian language was a crude form of expression, of no value to the scholar. Classical works were written in Latin. Even Dante began the "Divine Comedy" in Latin. But he realized the potentialities of the Italian language and decided instead to create the language which is in use today.

The "Divine Comedy" is one of the purest examples of poetry. Probably no other single work gave rise to so much subsequent literature. The long poem is a classical description of heaven, hell and purgatory.

Dante died, virtually in exile from his native Florence, in 1321.

Dear Mom:

Well, here it is another weekend -- my second in the U. S. Army -- and I'm not a General yet. But give me time.

As a matter of fact, I have too much time on my hands -- not on weekdays, but on evenings and weekends.

You see, the nearest village is 5 miles away. And when you get there, all you find is a general store, a garage and a canning factory -- nowhere to go for any good clean fun, unless you find a smoke-filled juke joint on the way.

Well, Mom, in that connection, there's a big favor you can do me. It's about this U. S. O. drive. They're trying to raise $10,765,000 to run clubs for us, outside of camp. Places with lounge rooms, dance floors, games, writing rooms. Places you can go for a bite to eat without paying a king's ransom.

Now I know you don't have an idle million lying around, but if you could get the family interested and some of the neighbors, and if that happened all over the country, the U. S. O. could raise $10,765,000 overnight.

Besides, there are a lot of people in this country who feel we are doing our bit, and they'd like to do theirs, and this is certainly their chance.

I'd appreciate it a lot, Mom, and so would every other mother's son in the U. S. Army and Navy.

Love,

Bill

Well, Mom, in that connection, there's a big favor you can do me. It's about this U. S. O. drive. They're trying to raise $10,765,000 to run clubs for us, outside of camp. Places with lounge rooms, dance floors, games, writing rooms. Places you can go for a bite to eat without paying a king's ransom.

Now I know you don't have an idle million lying around, but if you could get the family interested and some of the neighbors, and if that happened all over the country, the U. S. O. could raise $10,765,000 overnight.

Besides, there are a lot of people in this country who feel we are doing our bit, and they'd like to do theirs, and this is certainly their chance.

I'd appreciate it a lot, Mom, and so would every other mother's son in the U. S. Army and Navy.

Love,

Bill

Porton, speakers bureau; George Lofon, publicity, and J. C. Liner, radio. An intensive campaign will be inaugurated Monday and committee chairman expressed confidence that residents of the district would respond freely to aid national defense.

Mr. Apperson issued the following formal statement Saturday:

"U. S. O. will loom large on your horizon, particularly in the next week. This community has been assigned an important quota of the $10,765,000 required to finance U. S. O.'s nationwide program.

"You are, therefore, entitled to a clear picture of what U. S. O. is and what it plans to do.

"U. S. O. means the United Service Organizations for national defense. It's the group name for six national welfare agencies united in a common cause.

"These agencies are the Young Men's Christian Association, the National Catholic Community Service, the Salvation Army, the Young Women's Christian Association, the Jewish Welfare Board and the National Travelers Aid Association.

"Their aggregate experience in social and welfare work in America covers 77 years. One of them, the Y. M. C. A., has stressed army and navy work since 1861. Four have been continuously active among our armed forces since 1917.

"The purpose for which they have united is to maintain the high spirit of our soldiers and sailors and men of women defense workers throughout this national emergency.

"President Roosevelt, Cabinet members, state governors, thousands of parents asked them to undertake this task. It seemed too big for the agencies to do it individually.

"U. S. O. resulted. It proposes to staff and maintain more than 360 clubhouses near, but ever within—army and navy bases, as well as in certain defense industry centers. Its program entails many other services, too.

"Military influence wanes beyond military boundaries. In fact, authorities say one purpose of leave is to give the soldier and sailor complete respite from discipline.

"They know that what he does on leave, however, has an important bearing on morale. He can return to duty cheerful and refreshed, or low in mind, debilitated, sometimes diseased.

"Today many communities, small in population compared with nearby training camps, are unable to supply wholesome diversion for the evening and week-end crowds of men in uniform.

"U. S. O.'s clubhouses will provide good entertainment and good influences.

"In addition, home hospitality—the friendly reception of our young citizens—soldiers in local homes—will be fostered nationally by U. S. O.

"It also will cope with the living and welfare problems of women in defense industries. A number of the clubhouses will serve them especially.

"President Roosevelt has asked every American to support U. S. O. He said, 'No organization is better qualified to do this vital job.'

Max Kulcke, Lloyd Lenard Of Local Chapter Honored At Banquet

Nine awards were presented to various chapters and individual members of Sigma Phi Omega, national social fraternity, at a convention banquet of the group held last night on the roof of the Frances Hotel. The three-day convention ended with a dance following the banquet.

The honor badge, highest alumnus award, was won by Max Kulcke, Monroe, member of the Sigma chapter of Louisiana, while Lloyd Lenard, also of Monroe and a member of the Sigma chapter, earned second place and a five-dollar cash prize in the oratorical contest.

Recipients of other awards were Thomas Holcombe, Mobile, Ala., who accepted the department trophy won by the Kappa chapter of Alabama; Robert Buie, Jackson, Miss., who accepted the efficiency trophy won by Omega chapter of Mississippi and also the People's trophy for charity work also won by the Omega chapter.

Other S. P. O. chapters which were awarded trophies were the Epsilon chapter of Tennessee, Scholastic trophy, accepted by Hodge Shipp, Murfreesboro; Mu chapter of Missouri, Activity trophy, accepted by Carl Short, Liberty, and the Psi Delta chapter of Texas, Attendance trophy, accepted by Ral McPherson, Abilene.

Individual awards were won by Jack Lynch, Murfreesboro, Tenn., first place in the oratorical contest, eight-dollar cash prize, and Lenard, second place, and Douglas Kenna, Jackson, Miss., the honor key, highest award for an active member.

Ed Apperson, hotel manager, addressed the final business session yesterday morning, and an open house was held in the afternoon. The convention, which began Thursday, was attended by approximately 100 delegates.

the security of British investments in this country. This operation, alone, may amount to several hundred million dollars.

In the case of the bombers, a large part of the $1,000,000,000 will go for actually building factories—to be government-owned but leased to private companies for operation. Large amounts also will go into construction of aluminum and magnesium plants to turn out the bomber materials. Machine tools have been promised $200,000,000.

Besides financing defense factories, Jones' agencies are buying huge stocks of rubber, tin, manganese, copper, tungsten, chromium and other strategic materials. These are being bought in such huge quantities that the nation will have enough on hand to run for long periods in case a war ever cuts off foreign supplies.

AXIS ASSETS IN U. S. ARE FROZEN

ment aroused extensive speculation. Technically, Mr. Roosevelt included all the countries of continental Europe in the freezing order. But an accompanying explanatory statement said that in the cases of Russia, Finland, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, and Switzerland, transactions would be permitted under a general licensing system.

Licenses, however, will not be issued unless these governments give "adequate assurances" that they will not be used to evade the general purposes of the freezing order which were enumerated as: To prevent transactions which might be harmful to national defense, to prevent the liquidation of assets seized from "looted countries" and "to curb subversive activities." Further, all transactions involving these countries "will be subject to reporting and careful scrutiny."

Thus, the president made it clear to Russia that her American funds may be frozen, if it is found that they are being used to finance the purchase of food and materials intended for transshipment to Germany or used to finance sabotage and other subversive activities here.

The freezing order means, in effect, that the treasury has taken German and Italian funds and property and the American holdings of all invaded countries into protective custody, to prevent their use for purposes harmful to this nation and the objectives of its foreign policy.

In the future, transactions with Germany and Italy or their nationals are forbidden if they involve: Transfers of credit, by any bank. Payments to or by any banking institution.

Transactions in foreign exchange by any person in this country.

The export or withdrawal of gold or silver by any person.

Transfers or dealings in evidences of indebtedness or of ownership of property.

Dealings in any security which has a tax stamp of any of the governments involved affixed to it.

The purchase by any person in the United States of securities or an interest in securities which are not physically situated within the United States.

The importation of securities from the countries affected, unless specifically permitted by the secretary of the treasury.

The order was described in some quarters as an alternative to freezing the American resources of all foreign countries. This had been urged by one administration faction on the ground that it would be non-discriminatory, but was opposed by the state department with an argument that it would work a hardship on friendly countries, particularly Latin-America.

No accurate figures on the holdings of the countries involved was available, but the total of German-Italian holdings was estimated at more than $500,000,000.

Russian holdings were described as small, and Swiss holdings as very extensive.

tion that every ship carrying contraband to England would be sunk.

"Throughout the history of the United States," Welles asserted, "the American people have never been impressed by what they regarded as bluster and threats."

Welles also repeated this country's contention that the torpedoing of the Robin Moor on May 21 by a Nazi submarine was in flagrant violation of every law of humanity and international morality as well as of German treaty obligations.

The undersecretary made his observations with the reservation that he would not make a final statement on the sinking of the Robin Moor until the depositions of the 11 survivors—due here by clipper on Monday—have been carefully studied.

It was believed that any such step as the arming of American merchant men would be deferred until Germany replies to a stern diplomatic protest against the sinking of the Robin Moor. This protest, it has been learned authoritatively, will be dispatched as quickly as the full facts are established. At the same time, it was predicted in informed quarters that Secretary Hull would demand restitution for the American lives and property loss and guarantees by Germany of the safety in the future of American ships on the high seas.

What the American people want to do in a very quiet and dispassionate way, Welles said in answer to questions at his press conference, is to look at the issues that are presented by the sinking of the Robin Moor—the first American vessel to be sunk by belligerent action in this war.

The facts already very clear, Welles declared, were:

An American vessel, in accordance with the traditional and historic policy of this country was on the high seas engaged in peaceful commerce.

The vessel was in the middle of the Atlantic ocean at a point far removed from any combat area which the American people have voluntarily imposed upon themselves, and not destined for any port which was within the combat area which the people of this country have voluntarily imposed upon themselves.

The ship did not carry any cargo which was considered as contraband by the United States.

That ship was sunk.

On board that ship were American citizens, members of the crew and passengers, including women and children.

Within the space of a half-hour those American citizens had been forced to go into small lifeboats and, counter to all the terms of international agreement which the United States and Germany are party to, and counter to every law of humanity and international morality, those American citizens were left in a position where they could not be assured of any safety.

It seems probable, Welles added, tragically enough, that three-fourths of those American citizens have been lost.

REPORT STALIN WANTS TO YIELD

Efe, Spanish news agency, said far-reaching economic concessions in the Ukraine by Russia were to be expected. This dispatch said it was probable several Nazi motorized divisions had been concentrated on Stalin's border line to impress him with the advisability of listening to Hitler's pleas.

An NBC broadcast by Martin Agron, the chain's correspondent in Turkey, said it was reported by diplomatic travelers reaching the Turkish capital that German troops were making frequent scouting expeditions across the Rumanian border into Bessarabia.

(Agronsky said it was "common cafe talk" in Budapest and Bucharest that a Nazi attack on Russia will begin in the near future, on or about June 15—tomorrow.)

Particularly interesting to informed sources here were reports from German-occupied Rumania. In Bucharest, according to travelers reaching Ankara, Turkey, Rumanian army officers openly boasted that they would soon regain possession of Bessarabia, the fertile 11,140-square-mile province which Rumania yielded to Russia along with northern Bucovina under a Soviet ultimatum June 27, 1940.

Reports here that Adolf Hitler was demanding economic concessions from Russia, including access to the grain and cattle producing Ukraine, led Britons to express belief a Nazi-Soviet war of nerves if not of weapons was near.

Of 120 German divisions said to be massed on the Russian frontier, travelers reaching the Turkish capital said from 20 to 30 were cavalry divisions stationed in the Rumanian province of Moldavia. Cavalry would be particularly effective in the adjoining boggy marshes of Bessarabia.

A general mobilization of Rumanians was reported, with the standard age limit lowered to permit more youths to join the colors.

Precautionary measures against bombing were declared taken in both Bucharest and the Black sea port of Constanta, although their populations were reported to have been advised the danger, if it comes, will "last only ten days."

In an official statement denying anything but peace and amity existed between Moscow and Berlin, Tass, Soviet news agency, referred to "the dispatch of German troops into north-east Germany," and informed circle said this was an unusual occurrence.

"It is very peculiar to see Russia reporting on the meaning of German troop movements," one source said, pointing out that a government rarely commented on the military maneuvers of another.

TRAVELERS NAME CASTLE VICE-PRESIDENT OF GROUP

SHREVEPORT, La., June 14.—(AP)—George Kirspe of Shreveport was re-elected president of the Louisiana Travelers' association at the concluding business session of the association's twenty-fourth annual convention today. A. P. Kraemer, Shreveport, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Other officers elected are Henry Castle, Monroe, first vice-president; Gabe Levy, Baton Rouge, second vice-president; L. H. Deever, New Orleans, third vice-president; Bill Davis, Dallas, fourth vice-president; and J. W. Turner, Jr., Jackson, Miss., fifth vice-president.

Lafayette was selected as the 1942 convention site.

A resolution was adopted pledging the association to unequivocal support of President Roosevelt during the present crisis.

Syria to surrender to the invading British and Free French forces.

While the rest of the world guessed about Germany's intentions toward Soviet Russia, the Battle of Syria and Lebanon and her other sundry irons in the fire Germany kept comparatively quiet.

Japan sent new, undisclosed instructions to her economic negotiator in the Netherlands East Indies.

A profusion of inconclusive developments pervaded reports on actual warfare.

The British and Free French appeared to be stalled before Damascus, Syria's capital, and Beirut, Lebanon's, although the Middle East command reported "the Allied forces have substantially increased the areas of their penetration."

The British claimed seven German bombers shot down in Friday night's Luftwaffe raids on England and claimed three fighters downed over the channel Saturday morning.

The Germans claimed new blows at the eastern and southern coastal regions of England, particularly airports; reported two British planes downed in Britain's attack on western Germany and three in combat over the North sea and channel.

The United States coast guard reported rescue of 46 officers and men from the British merchantman Trellian, 4,743 tons, off Newfoundland but did not say what had happened to the freighter nor why the men had to be saved.

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—(AP)—The 1,000-bed Lagarde army hospital built on the lakefront at a cost of $2,464,000 to serve military camps in the surrounding area, was formally dedicated at flag-raising ceremonies today.

Patients from the camp are scheduled to begin arriving next week.

The present personnel included 42 doctors, 26 nurses and 200 enlisted men. Colonel William H. Smith said that the hospital at full capacity would have 60 doctors, 120 nurses and 350 enlisted men.

Technically, Mr. Roosevelt included all the countries of continental Europe panying explanatory statement said that in the cases of Russia, Finland, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, and Switzerland transactions would be permitted under a general licensing system.

Licenses, however, will not be issued unless those governments give "adequate assurances" that they will not be used to evade the general purposes of the freezing order which were enumerated as: To prevent transactions which might be harmful to national defense, to prevent the liquidation of assets seized from "looted countries" and "to curb subversive activities." Further, all transactions involving these countries "will be subject to reporting and careful scrutiny."

Thus, the president made it clear to Russia that her American funds may be frozen, if it is found that they are being used to finance the purchase of food and materials intended for transshipment to Germany or used to finance sabotage and other subversive activities here.

The freezing order means, in effect, that the treasury has taken German and Italian funds and property and the American holdings of all invaded countries into protective custody, to prevent their use for purposes harmful to this nation and the objectives of its foreign policy.

In the future, transactions with Germany and Italy or their nationals are forbidden if they involve:
Transfers of credit, by any bank.
Payments to or by any banking institution.

Transactions in foreign exchange by any person in this country.
The export or withdrawal of gold or silver by any person.
Indebtedness or of ownership of property.

Dealings in any security which has a tax stamp of any of the governments involved affixed to it.
The purchase by any person in the United States of securities or an interest in securities which are not physically situated within the United States.

The importation of securities from the countries affected, unless specifically permitted by the secretary of the treasury.

The order was described in some quarters as an alternative to freezing the American resources of all foreign that it would be non-discriminatory, particularly Latin-America.

No accurate figures on the holdings of the countries involved was available, but the total of German-Italian holdings was estimated at more than $500,000,000.

Russian holdings were described as small, and Swiss holdings as very extensive.

authoritatively, will be dispatched as quickly as the full facts are established. At the same time, it was predicted in informed quarters that Secretary Hull would demand restitution for the American lives and property loss and guarantees by Germany of the safety in the future of American ships on the high seas.

What the American people want to do in a very quiet and dispassionate way, Welles said in answer to questions at his press conference, is to look at the issues that are presented by the sinking of the Robin Moor—the first American vessel to be sunk by a belligerent action in this war.
The facts already very clear, Welles declared, were:

An American vessel, in accordance with the traditional and historic policy

AXIS ASSETS IN U. S. ARE FROZEN

of this country was on the high seas engaged in peaceful commerce.

The vessel was in the middle of the Atlantic ocean at a point far removed from any combat area which the American people have voluntarily imposed upon themselves, and not destined for any port which was within the combat area which the people of this country have voluntarily imposed upon themselves.

The ship did not carry any cargo which was considered as contraband by the United States.

On board that ship were American citizens, members of the crew and passengers, including women and children.

Within the space of a half-hour those American citizens had been forced to go into small lifeboats and counter to all the terms of international agreement which the United States and Germany are party to, and counter to every law of humanity and international morality, those American citizens were left in a position where they could not be assured of any safety.

It seems probable, Welles added, tragically enough, that three-fourths of those American citizens have been lost.

Those facts, Welles declared emphatically, are the real issues involved in the sinking of the Robin Moor.

Efe, Spanish news agency, said far-reaching economic concessions in the Ukraine by Russia were to be expected. This dispatch said it was probable several Nazi motorized divisions had been concentrated on Stalin's border line to impress him with the advisability of listening to Hitler's pleas.

An NBC broadcast by Martin Agron-sky, the chain's correspondent in Turkey, said it was reported by diplomatic travelers reaching the Turkish capital that German troops were making frequent scouting expeditions across the Rumanian border into Bessarabia.

(Agronsky said it was "common cafe talk" in Budapest and Bucharest that a Nazi attack on Russia will begin in the near future, on or about June 15—tomorrow.)

Particularly interesting to informed sources here were reports from German-occupied Rumania. In Bucharest, according to travelers reaching Ankara, Turkey, Rumanian army officers openly boasted that they would soon regain possession of Bessarabia, the fertile 17,140-square-mile province which Rumania yielded to Russia along with northern Bucovina under a Soviet ultimatum June 27, 1940.

Reports here that Adolf Hitler was demanding economic concessions from Russia, including access to the grain and cattle producing Ukraine, led Britons to express belief a Nazi-Soviet war of nerves if not of weapons was near.

Of 120 German divisions said to be massed on the Russian frontier, travelers reaching the Turkish capital said from 20 to 30 were cavalry divisions stationed in the Rumanian province of Moldavia. Cavalry would be particularly effective in the adjoining boggy marshes of Bessarabia.

A general mobilization of Rumanians was reported, with the standard age limit lowered to permit more youth to join the colors.

Precautionary measures against bombing were declared taken in both Bucharest and the Black sea port of Constanta, although their populations were reported to have been advised the danger, if it comes, will "last only ten days."

In an official statement denying anything but peace and amity existed between Moscow and Berlin, Tass, Soviet news agency, referred to "the dispatch of German troops into northeast Germany," and informed circle said this was an unusual occurrence.

"It is very peculiar to see Russia reporting movements," one source said, pointing out that a government rarely commented on the military maneuvers of another.

TRAVELERS NAME CASTLE VICE-PRESIDENT OF GROUP

SHREVEPORT, La., June 14.—(P)— George Kirsop of Shreveport was re-elected president of the Louisiana Travelers' association at the concluding business session of the association's twenty-fourth annual convention today. A. P. Krammer, Shreveport, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.
Other officers elected were Henry Castle, Monroe, first vice-president;
Gabe Levy, Baton Rouge, second vice-president; L. H. Deever, New Orleans, third vice-president; Bill Davis, Dallas, fourth vice-president, and J. W. Turner, Jr., Jackson, Miss., fifth vice-president.

Lafayette was selected as the 1942 convention site.
A resolution was adopted pledging the association to unequivocal support of President Roosevelt during the present crisis.

ANGRY BECAUSE ASSETS FROZEN

Syria to surrender to the invading British and Free French forces.

While the rest of the world guessed about Germany's intentions toward Soviet Russia, the Battle of Syria and Lebanon and her other sundry irons in the fire Germany kept comparatively quiet.

Japan sent new, undisclosed instructions to her economic negotiator in the Netherlands East Indies.

A profusion of inconclusive developments pervaded reports on actual warfare.

The British and Free French appeared to be stalled before Damascus, Syria's capital, and Beirut, Lebanon's, although the Middle East command reported "the Allied forces have substantially increased the areas of their penetration."

Some optimistic and presumably well-informed Britons in London held that the surrender of Damascus to the Allied siege lines less than 10 miles away was a matter of hours.

But hours after their words were uttered Damascus still flew the Tricolor and reported only an unchanged situation and an official denial that surrender negotiations were in progress. The British said an "educational campaign" still was under way to wean away the Vichy French to the Allied standard.

Some 20 miles south of Beirut the Allies also were held up. British armchair strategists explained that a prime factor in the now week-old attempt to wrest Syria and Lebanon from actual or threatened Axis domination was to avoid shedding too much French blood.

Beirut was bombed Friday night, by the British, and Haifa, Palestine, a backdrop of the Levant offensive, by "unidentified" planes. Neither reported damage or casualties.

British submarines, the London admiralty said, have just sunk seven Axis vessels and damaged three others in Mediterranean forays that took them, in some cases, stealing into German and Italian-controlled harbors to fire their torpedoes.

Axis planes raided Alexandria; German and Italian cannon shelled Tobruk in Libya; the besieged British forces reported cutting into a salient which Axis troops had driven into Tobruk's outer defenses; the British mop-up in Ethiopia continued "satisfactorily."

Italy claimed damage to two British cruisers undergoing repair in a Gibraltar drydock when they raided the Rock Thursday night.

The R. A. F. smashed Friday night—the third night in a row—at Germany's "Pittsburgh region"—the Ruhr valley, bombs straddled the berths of the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and a 10,000-ton cruiser at Brest, France; made other stabs at German channel shipping and bases in occupied France.

The British claimed seven German bombers shot down in Friday night's luftwaffe raids on England and claimed three fighters downed over the channel Saturday morning.

The Germans claimed new blows at the eastern and southern coastal regions of England, particularly airports; reported two British planes downed in Britain's attack on western Germany and three in combat over the North sea and channel.

The United States coast guard reported rescue of 46 officers and men from the British merchantman Tretil-lian, 4,743 tons, off Newfoundland but did not say what had happened to the freighter nor why the men had to be saved.

TWO DESTROYERS LAUNCHED BOSTON, June 14.—(P)—The United States navy destroyers Forrest and Fitch were launched today at the Boston navy yard and within a few minutes keels for two more destroyers—634 and 635—were laid. The new destroyers, constructed in less than a year, are of 1,700 tons and among the first of the Bristol type constructed.
They were ordered last year as part of the 1941 naval program.

the security of British investments in this country. This operation, alone, may amount to several hundred million dollars.

In the case of the bombers, a large part of the $1,000,000,000 will go for actually building factories—to be government-owned but leased to private companies for operation. Large amounts also will go into construction of aluminum and magnesium plants to turn out the bomber materials. Machine tools have been promised $200,000,000.

Besides financing defense factories,
Jones' agencies are buying huge stocks of rubber, tin, manganese, copper, tungsten, chromium and other strategic materials. These are being bought in such huge quantities that the nation will have enough on hand to run for long periods in case a ware ever cuts off foreign supplies.

1941 HURRICANE SEASON TO OPEN

None In Sight But Weather Bureau Will Begin Watch Tonight

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 14.—(AP)—The 1941 hurricane season will open officially Sunday midnight—with not a hurricane in sight—and the weather bureau is ready to take up its "round-the-clock" vigil to see that none of the great whirlwinds approaches the Atlantic or gulf coast undetected.

From then until November 15 when the "season" for the tropical disturbances is ended, a vast web of observation posts will be on constant alert for the first signs of hurricanes and closely trace the progress of any that do crop up.

Walter J. Bennett, senior meteorologist in charge of the bureau here, said the number of hurricanes—storms having winds of 75 miles or more per hour velocity—had been comparatively small since the 24-hour system was set up in 1935, but that there was no way of telling what the coming season would bring.

The most recent hurricane disasters were the Labor day, 1935 storm that killed more than 400 persons in the Florida Keys and the September, 1938 storm that swept the Atlantic coast in New York and New England with a death toll of nearly 500. Last year a hurricane caused a small death toll and considerable property damage in South Carolina and Georgia.

However, many hurricanes never reach land and blow themselves out at sea, and most others cause little serious damage because of advance precautions by communities in their path—warned well ahead of time by the bureau.

The bureau says that if adequate precautions, such as boarding up plate glass windows and securely closing doors and shutters, are taken a well-constructed building will withstand a hurricane of major intensity without damage. Thus the warning system is of vital importance in minimizing storm damage.

The bureau gathers its reports by telegraph, telephone, radio and a teletype system stretching from Miami around to Corpus Christi, Tex.

WEEKLY PAPERS IN LOUISIANA INCREASE

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(Special)—The number of weekly newspapers published in Louisiana was higher in 1939 than in 1929, the census bureau reported today in a survey of manufactures for 1939.

In that year the number of weeklies in Louisiana was 64 compared with 62 in 1929. During the depression the number fell off to 57 in 1931 and to a low point of 43 in 1933. Since then the climb back has been steady, to 48 in 1935 and 56 in 1937.

The aggregate circulation per issue of the Louisiana weeklies fluctuated in line with the number of such papers published, although the circulation for 1939 was not as great as that of 1929. In the earlier year the aggregate circulation per issue stood at 141,823, dropped to 101,995 in 1931 and to 77,563 in 1933. In 1935 it was up again to 83,785, in 1937 to 96,467 and in 1939 to 119,070.

PARISH CLUB WOMEN PLAN ANNUAL EVENT

Home Demonstration clubs of the parish are busily preparing skits or stunts to present on the annual achievement day program Tuesday at Bernstein park, according to Mrs. E. Doris Braden, assistant home demonstration agent.

MAY SPENDING MARK HIGHEST

However, Welfare Funds After July 1 Will Be Less, Chairman States

Public assistance expenditures by the Ouachita parish department of public welfare during the month of May were the largest in history, it was announced yesterday by J. M. Beard, chairman of the parish welfare advisory board. A total of $39,463 was disbursed.

Unused surpluses from previous months permitted special expenditures during May, Mr. Beard stated. Dental attention, glasses, furniture, home repairs, taxes, and other needs, not ordinarily allowed in grants because of monetary limitations, were provided for during the month, the chairman said.

Available funds will be less, beginning July 1, Mr. Beard announced. The new fiscal year of the state department of public welfare begins on that date, and allocations to the various parish departments of public welfare probably will be lower than during the last three months, he explained.

Some 50 cases, now pending, cannot be certified because of the uncertainty of the July allocation, Mr. Beard stated. Private welfare agencies are able to issue some aid to these families, and many are helped by free blue food stamps, he said.

Funds released by closing of cases primarily will be used to increase grants, rather than to certify new cases, the parish chairman stated. He explained that the policy of the department is to maintain all grants at the level of 75 per cent of needs, if possible, rather than to spread relief thinly by taking on new cases.

1941 HURRICANE SEASON TO OPEN

None In Sight But Weather Bureau Will Begin Watch Tonight

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 14.—(AP)—The 1941 hurricane season will open officially Sunday midnight—with not a hurricane in sight—and the weather bureau is ready to take up its round-the-clock vigil to see that none of the great whirlwinds approaches the Atlantic or gulf coast undetected.

From then until November 15 when the "season" for the tropical disturbances is ended, a vast web of observation posts will be on constant alert for the first signs of hurricanes and closely trace the progress of any that do crop up.

Walter J. Bennett, senior meteorologist in charge of the bureau here, said the number of hurricanes—storms having winds of 75 miles or more per hour velocity—had been comparatively small since the 24-hour system was set up in 1935, but that there was no way of telling what the coming season would bring.

The most recent hurricane disasters were the Labor day, 1935 storm that killed more than 400 persons in the Florida Keys and the September, 1938 storm that swept the Atlantic coast in New York and New England with a death toll of nearly 500. Last year a hurricane caused a small death toll and considerable property damage in South Carolina and Georgia.

However, many hurricanes never reach land and blow themselves out at sea, and most others cause little serious damage because of advance precautions by communities in their path—warned well ahead of time by the bureau.

The bureau says that if adequate precautions, such as boarding over plate glass windows and securely closing doors and shutters, are taken a well-constructed building will withstand a hurricane of major intensity without damage. Thus the warning system is of vital importance in minimizing storm damage.

The bureau gathers its reports by telegraph, telephone, radio and a teletype system stretching from Miami around to Corpus Christi, Tex.

WEEKLY PAPERS IN LOUISIANA INCREASE

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(Special)—The number of weekly newspapers published in Louisiana was higher in 1939 than in 1929, the census bureau reported today in a survey of manufactures for 1939.

In that year the number of weeklies in Louisiana was 64 compared with 62 in 1929. During the depression, the number fell off to 57 in 1931 and to a low point of 43 in 1933. Since then the climb back has been steady, to 48 in 1935 and 56 in 1937.

The aggregate circulation per issue of the Louisiana weeklies fluctuated in line with the number of such papers published, although the circulation for 1939 was not as great as that of 1929. In the earlier year the aggregate circulation per issue stood at 141,823, dropped to 101,995 in 1931 and to 77,563 in 1933. In 1935 it was up again to 83,785, in 1937 to 98,467 and in 1939 to 119,070.

MONROE MERCHANTS VISIT NORTHEAST LOUISIANA FRIENDS ON FIRST GOOD WILL TOUR

NELSON ELECTED TO HEAD POSTMASTERS

SHREVEPORT, La., June 14.—(AP)—R. H. Nelson, Shreveport postmaster, was elected yesterday president of the Louisiana Association of Postmasters at the association's business meeting here.

Convening jointly with the Louisiana-Mississippi bi-state postoffice clerks, supervisors, letter carriers and their auxiliaries, the group also named Zolzie J. Meadows, Ruston, first vice-president; Neil D. Womble, Winnboro, second vice-president; P. F. Morein, Ville Platte, third vice-president; and R. M. Almond, Tallulah, secretary-treasurer. John J. Ferguson, outgoing president, was named chairman of the board.

RESUME WORK

MARION, La., June 14.—(Special)—Workers at the Union parish postoffice center began work on a quota of more than 2,500 mattresses, following arrival of cotton and ticking, lack of which had forced the center to close. A total of 1,785 mattresses already have been made at the center.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Mrs. Mary P. Landrum to Ouachita parish police jury, 5.66 acres in lot 3, section 18, township 11 north, range 3 east; $1,200 cash.

Blanks and Beards, Inc. to George Glover, lot 23, block 4, Blanks addition; $100 cash.

PARISH CLUB WOMEN PLAN ANNUAL EVENT

Home Demonstration clubs of the parish are busily preparing skits or stunts to present on the annual achievement day program Tuesday at Bernstein park, according to Mrs. E. Doris Braden, assistant home demonstration agent.

Activities of the parish-wide event will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will continue through until late afternoon. A cotton dress contest, in two groups, for large and small members, also will be staged, Mrs. Braden indicated.

The Monroe group, headed by its band and followed by the two buses, paraded down the main street of Winnboro, as shown in the second row, left. In the second row center, five Monroe men flank four prominent Jena citizens on the stop there. The Jena men are C. H. Davis, E. N. Taylor, J. B. Carpenter and Dr. F. L. Richardson. The Monroe men are L. J. Hulin, J. P. Norris, Leon Hammond, E. Jack Selig and W. McCain. At the right on the second row, a Monroe group poses with Win-

JOE WALLACE DIES AT HOSPITAL HERE

Funeral services will be held this afternoon. Leaving the Davis-Lawhead Funeral Home shortly before 1 p.m., the funeral procession will go to the First Presbyterian Church here, where services will begin at 1 o'clock with Rev. Ernest Holloway officiating. Interment will follow at Magnolia, Ark.

Mr. Wallace is survived by his wife; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wallace, Haynesville; a brother, Floyd Wallace, Jena, and six sisters, Mrs. M. B. Talley, Magnolia, Mrs. Tallie Perry, Walkerville, Ark., Mrs. Gladys Walker, Shreveport, Mrs. Leonard Reeves and Miss Bessie Walker, both of Haynesville, and Mrs. N. B. Powell, Marshall, Ark.

Pallbearers will be H. C. Skinner, Bob Hurst, Glynn Medaries, T. J. Wilkerson, Pete Godwin and George Dawson.

MAY SPENDING MARK HIGHEST

However, Welfare Funds After July 1 Will Be Less, Chairman States

Public assistance expenditures by the Ouachita parish department of public welfare during the month of May were the largest in history, it was announced yesterday by J. M. Beards, chairman of the parish welfare advisory board. A total of $39,463 was disbursed.

Unused surpluses from previous months permitted special expenditures during May, Mr. Beards stated. Dental attention, glasses, furniture, home repairs, taxes, and other needs, not ordinarily allowed in grants because of monetary limitations, were provided for during the month, the chairman said.

Available funds will be less, beginning July 1, Mr. Beards announced. The new fiscal year of the state department of public welfare begins on that date, and allocations to the various parish departments of public welfare probably will be lower than during the last three months, he explained.

Some 50 cases, now pending, cannot be certified because of the uncertainty of the July allocation, Mr. Beards stated. Private welfare agencies are able to issue some aid to these families, and many are helped by free blue food stamps, he said.

Funds released by closing of cases primarily will be used to increase grants, rather than to certify new cases, the parish chairman stated. He explained that the policy of the department is to maintain all grants at the level of 75 per cent of needs, if possible, rather than to spread relief thinly by taking on new cases.

If You Can Afford To Pay Rent You Can Afford A "Home Of Your Own"

Now, as never before, you can afford a home of your own if you are able to pay rent . . . and due to the National Defense Program it is highly probable that the long easy terms and low down payment now available on new home construction is liable to be discontinued before very long, and with its discontinuance will go your hopes and dreams of a home of your own.

You can build the home pictured below and pay for it on terms as low as $19.75 per month including taxes and insurance. We don't think it possible to rent a new home, like the one pictured below, for as little as $19.75 per month, yet, that is just what the payments would be if you would like to have the home pictured here for your very own. Fill out the coupon below and let us tell you HOW you can get a home of your own.

NOTE: Winners of the Home Building Contest will be announced in this space next Sunday, June 22, 1941. Watch for the winners.

If you are looking for the utmost in comfort and at the same time have to be thrifty you will like the idea of a home like the one pictured above. The long screened porch attached to the garage with entry into either the living room or kitchen adds to the beauty of this small home plan. Here, indeed, is a home that is within the reach of the family with a small income, yet it looks like a more expensive house. If you are paying rent now and would like to turn those rent receipts into a "Home of Your Own" investigate the cost of this house.

If You Can Afford To Pay Rent You Can Afford A "Home Of Your Own"

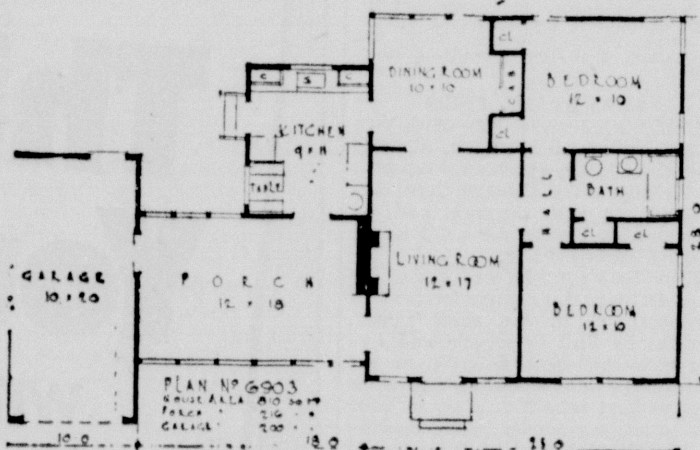

Now, as never before, you can afford a home of your own if you are able to pay rent . . . and due to the National Defense Program it is highly probable that the long easy terms and low down payment now available on new home construction is liable to be discontinued before very long, and with its discontinuance will go your hopes and dreams of a home of your own.

You can build the home pictured below and pay for it on terms as low as $19.75 per month including taxes and insurance. We don't think it possible to rent a new home, like the one pictured below, for as little as $19.75 per month, yet, that is just what the payments would be if you would like to have the home pictured here for your very own. Fill out the coupon below and let us tell you HOW you can get a home of your own.

NOTE: Winners of the Home Building Contest will be announced in this space next Sunday, June 22, 1941. Watch for the winners.

If you are looking for the utmost in comfort and at the same time have to be thrifty you will like the idea of a home like the one pictured above. The long screened porch attached to the garage with entry into either the living room or kitchen adds to the beauty of this small home plan. Here, indeed, is a home that is within the reach of the family with a small income, yet it looks like a more expensive house. If you are paying rent now and would like to turn those rent receipts into a "Home of Your Own" investigate the cost of this house.

FIFTH COLUMN STUFF

We wish people would quit spreading rumors about the Cotton States league—particularly rumors that will hurt the circuit if it isn't stopped. And we most emphatically urge persons who are drawing their pay from the league to stop spreading idle gossip that is entirely untrue.

The latest bit of "news" came to our attention yesterday and it was started by an umpire, of all people. This umpire, who came here from El Dorado, said the Oilers probably wouldn't play Saturday night's game because they hadn't been paid in full by the club last night. Furthermore, he went on to declare that the El Dorado manager delivered a speech in the El Dorado dressing room Friday night in which, in substance, advised the players to "take your uniforms and go on this road trip and then we'll hold a meeting when we get to Monroe and decide whether we'll play or not."

We immediately went to headquarters, meaning the big boss himself, and learned that there was a lot of hooey. It's true that El Dorado hasn't been packing 'em in, as has been the case everywhere else in the league. It's also true that El Dorado's treasury is a big shy. But there's absolutely no danger of the league "folding," as this umpire put it, and there's no indication that El Dorado will surrender its franchise. The club, for your information, will realize some $1,600 from an oil carnival there this week, and that will more than tide them over, but even without that, they take, there still won't be anything to get excited about. Plenty of folks up in the Oil City have assured the league presy that they're ready to "put up" to keep baseball in El Dorado.

Another town in the circuit has been slow in remitting the league's percentage, and before long you'll hear that so-and-so will be kicked out of the organization, and so-and-so will be admitted when the transfer is completed. But don't believe it. The umpires who have been employed this season are not enough to fill the field; when they begin spreading gossip around the poolrooms, cafes, bars, etc., in the various towns they visit, it's time Prexy Harty, who has a tough job at best, calls 'em on the carpet.

And don't think he won't!

SHORT TAKES
We hated to see Bid Breese given the pink slip. He handled those young hurlers perfectly, and Monroe's best record of the season was compiled when he was behind the bat. There's a 200 hitter and a none-too-sure fielder who could be spared. Of course, that's one man's opinion.

And we're not talking about Ernie Potocar. Despite his injury, he's going to prove one of the better receivers of the circuit. Breese can play any position.

For once we're right. We predicted Dave Philley would be one of our three "men of the year," and watch that kid go!

And now what's your decision on the merits of the "live" and "dead" ball. They used one in the first game Friday night and the other in the second. The score? Five and four in each contest.

If those Cardinal Kids maintain their present pace, somebody will take 'em seriously, after all. But don't count out the Reds. They're a-comin'!

What's our guess on Louis-Conn? Despite the ballyhoo, it's Louis by a knockout somewhere around the seventh frame. Lou Nova is the guy who'll knock off the champ.

We got a laugh out of the statement that Hot Springs' short right fielder was a "cinch for sluggers who hit line drives in the direction." A line drive nitter gets only a two-base blow, because his drive hits the screen and bounces back into the field. A pop fly nitter sees his effort wasted over the screen, and trots around the bases for a home run.

And what happened to the Rizzuto-Priddy combination that was going to show the American League a thing or two about double plays? They were Priddy good in double A, but the Yanks aren't playing that brand of ball THIS year.

M'CLURE TO MEET SPENCE IN FINAL FOR GOLF CROWN

Dickey Touchstone Loses Close Match In Quarter-Final Round

SHREVEPORT, La., June 14.—(AP)—Edwin McClure, five-time title holder, and seven times a finalist in the State tournament, and Fulton "Kokomo" Spence, former caddy, and 19-year-old Shreveport public links representative, will meet in the 36 hole finals of the Louisiana state golf championship tomorrow. Spence defeated today State Senator Lloyd Hendrick of Shreveport, one up, in the semi-finals while McClure eliminated a fellow townsman, Jack Killen of the Louisiana State university golf team, 6 and 5.

McClure was given a tough battle in his quarter-final match with Larcade and had the Opelousas player's putter behaved the match would more than likely have gone the entire route. After dropping the first hole where he three-putted from 25 feet, Larcade stayed on even terms with the former state champion until the tenth where he again took three to hole out from 18 feet. He holed a tricky ten-footer at the twelfth to halve the hole and at the thirteenth he rapped in a twenty-five footer to cut McClure's lead to one hole. McClure holed an eight-footer at the fifteenth for a birdie three and a fifteen-footer at the seventeenth for a deuce that sent Larcade to the sidelines.

In the afternoon the former state champion played perhaps the best round in a state championship match when he went out in 32, four under par, despite three putts at the long par, five fourth hole. He led Killen by four up at the turn and closed out the match with a birdie at the fourteenth when Killen, a member of the Tiger golf team, was trapped with his third, blasted past the hole and conceded the match to McClure, whose second shot on 510-yard hole was 15 feet from the cup. Killen had won his quarter final match from Jake Lebourgeois of New Orleans, 4 and 3, after Lebourgeois had upset the bracket when he eliminated the highly touted Ross McDade, Jr., of Broadmore, 3 and 2, in the second round.

Spence fought hard for his two victories today and his win over Dickey Touchstone was a heartbreaker for the championship consolation tomorrow. Brown defeated Bobby Wyche, 7 and 5, in the semi-finals. Girault defeated Vance Liddell, 3 and 2, in the championship consolation Saturday morning.

Championship flight: Edwin McClure, Shreveport, defeated Lawrence Larcade, Opelousas, 2 and 1. Jack Killen, Shreveport, defeated Jake Lebourgeois, New Orleans, 4 and 2. Fulton Spence, Shreveport, defeated Dickey Touchstone, Monroe, 1 up.

Lloyd Hendrick, Shreveport, defeated John B. Atkins, Shreveport, 1 up in 20 holes.

First flight: Roland Wilkins, Shreveport, defeated Sam Schwing, New Orleans, 4 and 3. Jack Annan, Shreveport, defeated Jack Gordon, New Orleans, 1 up in 20 holes.

Second flight: Joe Burnham, Shreveport, defeated Ben Heald, Shreveport, 3 and 2. J. C. Gomila, New Iberia, defeated Roy Stringfellow, Shreveport, 3 and 2.

Championship consolation: Dave Dixon, New Orleans, forfeited to Bob Wyche, Shreveport. Shep Girault, Monroe, defeated Vance Liddell, Shreveport, 3 and 2. Edwin Moore, Shreveport, defeated Murray Henley, Shreveport, 4 and 3.

First flight consolation: H. P. Scott, Shreveport, defeated Johnny Glassell, Shreveport, 6 and 5. Bob Moreland, defeated C. A. McDowell, Jr., Shreveport, 1 up.

Second flight consolation: Harry Balcom, Shreveport, defeated Frank Vermilye, Shreveport, 6 and 4. Dr. H. N. Meyer, New Orleans, won from Al Toney, Alexandria, by default.

HARVARD CREW AGAIN DEFEATS YALE'S TEAM

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 14.—(AP)—Harvard's oarsmen stretched their string of rowing successes against Yale almost into monotony this evening, as the Crimson varsity shell streaked under the railroad bridge at the mouth of the river Thames a solid three and a quarter lengths in front of the Elis.

CAMILLI BLASTS HOMER, DOUBLE TO LEAD ATTACK

Seven-Run Assault On Gumbert In Sixth Features Slugfest

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—(AP)—Brooklyn Dodger bats exploded in a 17-hit barrage against four St. Louis pitchers today to win a 12 to 5 victory and reduce the Red Birds' lead over the National league to two games.

Held to two hits for the first five frames, the Dodgers suddenly began knocking the fences down in the sixth, driving Harry Gumbert from the hill and scoring seven runs before they were retired. That was the ball game, and the five runs they added in the next two innings were purely for show.

The sixth-inning outburst reached its crescendo when Dolph Camilli pounded his 14th home run of the year onto the roof with two aboard. That also proved the last of Gumbert. Camilli punched another run across with a double in the seventh off Shoun.

CUBS BLANK PHILS
CHICAGO, June 14.—(AP)—With Vern Olsen, sophomore southpaw, allowing only three hits for his second consecutive shutout, the Chicago Cubs outmaneuvered both the rain and the Philadelphia Phillies for a 3-0 homecoming victory today.

Stan Hack's triple was cashed by Dom Dallessandro's single for the first Chicago run in the third inning. Singles by Phil Cavarretta and Lou Stringer converted a walk in the fourth. The Cubs picked up their other run without benefit of a hit on three walks and a grounder in the seventh.

Rain delayed start of the game 48 minutes and then caused a 17 minute interruption in the seventh inning.

BEN DOWNING, JR., TO PLAY AT AMES
Ben Downing, Jr., Monroe's Western Junior golf champion, will leave from Shreveport today for Ames, Iowa, to defend his title in the tournament which starts there Wednesday.

Young Downing, who played in the state tourney at Shreveport last week, is not required to qualify but he will get in a day or two of practice over the Ames course before the tournament begins.

From Ames, Downing will go to Columbus, O., to compete in the National Intercollegiate tournament, which starts on June 27.

Downing, a sophomore at Louisiana State university, is a member of the L. S. U. golf team. He has won numerous tournaments in this area and has made an enviable record as a member of the L. S. U. team this spring.

Steele To Meet Dragon In Wrestling Headliner

Iowa Heavyweight Promises To Unmask Villain At Arena Tuesday

The Black Dragon, current badman of the Monroe arena, will return here Tuesday night for a main event battle with Jack "Stinger" Steele of Sioux City, Iowa, with the stipulation that he will remove his mask if Steele is able to defeat him.

The masked mystery man of the arena has proven himself one of the roughest and most capable grapplers. Promoter Gus Kallio has been able to obtain, and in two past performances he scored decisive victories over Herbie "Dutch" Schultz, the Flying Dutchman, who had been regarded as the Monroe arena's No. 1 villain until he met up with the Dragon.

So sure is Steele that he can conquer the Dragon that he informed Promoter Kallio that the fans would "all see his face before I get through with him."

The Dragon retaliated with a statement, Promoter Kallio reported, that Steele wouldn't have to tear up his mask to display his face.

"All he's got to do is beat me if he can. Any time I'm beaten I'll take off my mask voluntarily and let the fans know my name and where I am from, if they want to know," said the Dragon.

Although the Dragon is cocky enough to think he can whip any man in his class, Steele figures he is the wrestler to stop the Dragon's conquests in the south. The Dragon came south three weeks ago after a successful campaign through the east, and has had things pretty much his own way in matches in this section so far.

The Dragon-Steele battle will have a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win.

The supporting cast will include Buck Davidson, colorful grappler from Terre Haute, Ind., and Tony Valasco, classy Cuban, who meet in the semi-final which starts the mat program at 8:30 p. m.

The curtain-raiser will have an hour time limit, two falls to win.

TWO IN ONE TERM
During the two administrations of President James Madison, two vice-presidents died in office. They were George Clinton and Elbridge Gerry.

GOLFERS COMPETE FOR HOLE-IN-ONE

Unique Tournament To Start At Municipal Golf Club Today

The unique Hole-In-One golf tournament, first event of its kind ever conducted in Monroe, will get under way at the Municipal golf club here today and continue through June 20. The tourney, being played for the benefit of the British War Relief fund, is open to all persons who think they can swing a golf club regardless of whether they have ever put their feet on a golf course.

The tournament is unusual in that only one hole will be used with the principal object of all entrants being to shoot a hole in one.

J. C. Limer, Jr., who was instrumental in arranging the event, has announced that more than $200 in awards have been contributed by Monroe and West Monroe merchants and that the prizes will be so listed that every participant will have a chance to win.

The top award will be a beautiful trophy to the man or woman scoring an ace or getting closest to the cup on a single drive. There are 28 prizes for men, nine for women and special awards for beginners and those who have never played golf.

Awards will even be given those farthest from the cup, provided their shot reaches the green.

Entrants will be charged a small fee for every three shots. They will be able to take as many shots as they like provided the fee is paid for each trio of balls and balls will be furnished free to all participants.

DETROIT PRO GRID CLUB SIGNS BILLY JEFFERSON

Jefferson, a regular for three years at Mississippi State, was known for his passing ability.

HOLT WINS MEDAL IN MUNY TOURNEY

Wins Playoff With John Myers; Championship Play Starts Today

Kenneth Holt won medal honors in the City golf championship tournament being conducted at the Municipal Golf course when he won an extra-hole playoff with John Myers, Jr., with whom he was tied with a 76 in the qualifying round. Championship play starts today, with June 22 the deadline for completing first round matches.

Pro Jean Shirah announced that the city tourney and the hole-in-one tournament being conducted at the Municipal links would not interfere with regular play over the course.

Match play in all flights of the city championship will start today and each match must be completed by next Sunday night, Shirah said.

REISER PROTECTS LEAD IN BATTING

Dodgers' Skld Doesn't Af-

NEW YORK, June 14.—(A)—The Brooklyn Dodgers' skid hasn't affected young Pete Reiser, and he still is the National league's leading hitter.

The rookie outfield star's batting mark of .356 was five points below his figure of a week ago, but this was only because of one game. Until Max Lanier of the St. Louis Cardinals handcuffed the Dodgers for his 1-0 victory Friday night, Reiser had a .364 average, an improvement over the previous week.

The week's big batting noise was Enos (Country) Slaughter's 25-point skyrocket back into second place at .352, just a drag bunt from the lead. The St. Louis slugger had slumped 18 points in the previous seven days, but he more than made up this deficiency.

Altogether there were four Cardinals among the league's 10 leading hitters. Johnny Mize, injured first baseman, Strung out behind were Stan Hack, Chicago, .332; Billy Herman, Brooklyn, .327; Mel Ott, New York, .322; John Cooper, Boston, .316; Jim Brown, St.

Individual honors in other departments were well-distributed except in pitching, where the Cardinals continued to monopolize the front rows with Howard Krist undefeated in five hits, 76, two more than his injured teammate, Brown, and was tied with Gene Moore of Boston for the most triples, six.

Ott led in home runs with 15 and was second in runs batted in with 39. Bill Nicholson of the Cubs was tops in batting in runs with 50 and was tied with Dolph Camilli of Brooklyn for second in homers with 13.

Chunky Dominic Dallessandro of Chicago moved into the lead in doubles with 17, one more than Frank McCormick of the Cincinnati Reds.

Hack remained the leading run scorer with 44, although Terry Moore was only one behind.

Little Lonnie Frey of Cincinnati has stolen nine bases, four more than any other base runner.

SINGLE GAME TODAY

The El Dorado Oilers and the Monroe White Sox conclude their two-game series here with a single game at Casino park this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Little Verne Williamson, speed-ball right-hander, who is second only to his teammates Tom Perry in strikeouts for the season in the Cotton States loop, is scheduled to take the mound for the Sox. Manager Doug Teit said last night that Williamson would pitch for the Sox. Guy Sturdy announced Steve Colosky, who started the game last night, would return to the mound today. Manager Sturdy also said probable changes in his lineup today would find Wally Kopp, ex-Texasan manager, doing the catching and "Meadows" Bowles in the outfield to improve the club's hitting. He also plans to use "Woody" Head on first base, but said the change was not definite.

The Sox invade Helena tomorrow for a three-game series with the Seaporters, and they move on to Clarkdale Thursday for three games with the Seaporters. They return home next Sunday for a four-game stand with the Hot Springs Bathers.

Ernie Potocor drew free passes. Perry forced Burt at third. Eager forced Perry, sending Potocor to third and a wild pitch scored Potocor.

Pruitt beat out an infield hit in the third and went on to second when Williams threw the first to second. Williams threw the first to second. Williams threw the first to second. Williams threw the first to second.

The Sox got a pair of runs in the sixth. Hill walked, stole second and went on to third when "Pep" Bullock threw wild over second base. Philley doubled to score Hill and came home himself on Medak's single.

The locals went down in order in the seventh, but came back with two more runs in the eighth. Philley led off with a single and stole second. Medak singled and went on to second when a play was made at the plate to keep Philley on third. Bobby Burt triple came up with a powerhouse drive against the center field fence to score Philley and Medak.

GILLESPIE AND M'KEE REACH TENNIS FINALS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 14.—(P)—Two Miami players, Billy Gillespie and Dick McKee, seeded first and second respectively, moved into the final of the Cotton States Tennis tournament today with straight set victories.

Cool and undemonstrative, Gillespie played almost errorless tennis in trouncing hard-hitting Harris Everett of Jacksonville, 6-2, 6-3.

McKee, national public parks champion, ousted Birmingham's John Ager, 6-2, 7-5, after rallying in the second set from a 5-3 disadvantage. Ager displayed a fine service, but was unable to match his opponent's court play.

Walter Driver, Austin, Tex., shot-maker, took the final singles title with a 6-1, 7-6, 6-2 decision over Jack Tuero of New Orleans.

ble or intangible, which he decided was needed for defense.

The president would decide the value of the property and, if the owners thought his figure was too low, they would be paid 75 per cent of his sum and the remainder for any additional sum they thought was due.

Some legislators charged that the powers sought were so comprehensive that the president could take over private property where its use would be only remotely connected with the defense program.

Senator Byrnes, Democrat, S. C., acting majority leader, told reporters that revisions would have to be made in the bill to define more clearly the powers to be exercised.

Administration men said needs of the current situation would not be met by legislation, already approved by the senate and pending in the house, which would permit the government to take over defense plants when production is stopped or threatened.

They pointed to a war department memorandum which said that many machine tools, "probably our most critical item," were being used in industries not manufacturing defense articles or were "held by second hand dealers who demand unreasonable prices."

It also said that there were large stocks of aluminum and other critical materials in plants not producing for the defense program which could be taken over and sold to manufacturers of airplanes and airplane engines under the proposed law.

In addition, the department said it desired authority to commandeer some privately owned airplanes and boats which owners had refused to sell them to the government.

"It has been charged," the memorandum said, "that through patent controls the Nazis are obtaining valuable information and large revenues from this country and that they control some of our vital industries. These patent rights and stock controls could be requisitioned by our government under the proposed legislation."

Also to be covered would be defense articles or contracts for their manufacture "held by foreign governments who are unwilling to sell to us."

CITIZENS OF 'PELICAN BOYS' STATE' CONVENE

BATON ROUGE, La., June 14.—(P)—The citizens of "Pelican Boys' State" convened on the Louisiana State university campus today to start their laboratory work in politics and government with a practical demonstration in the obligation of citizenship.

First order of business was the naturalization of a "foreigner" from Brookings, South Dakota. Mark Minniehan, son of an army officer stationed in Louisiana, was naturalized.

He had been elected a delegate to the Boys' State program in his state and, when he could not attend, was invited instead to participate in the Pelican State activities.

Caucuses were called to prepare for election of a state committee and a state administration to be inducted at the Louisiana capitol Tuesday.

Speakers scheduled for the opening program were Roland Cochrane, secretary to Governor Sam Jones; Chester P. Deroy, state commander of the American Legion; and Assistant Attorney-General Edward Gladney, Jr., former state commander.

The injured were Leon Franklin, driver, employee of a mattress company at Memphis, an undetermined neck injury; Mrs. Leon Franklin, lacerations; Mrs. Eva Thomas, bruises; and Cecil V. Cason, machine operator for the United States Bedding Company, Memphis, minor cuts, physicians said.

The injured were en route to the home of Mr. Franklin's father at Soudheimer, La., when the accident occurred.

eral cents" an hour, OPM officials said.

One of the big West coast yards did not sign the master agreement and a strike developed in which the defense mediation board yesterday said it had been unable to bring about an accord. Board officials said a panel had failed to bring representatives of the Bethlehem Steel company's shipbuilding division and the Bay Cities Metal Workers council (A. F. of L.) into agreement and therefore the board would take its final step and draft recommendations for settlement.

The principal issue in the dispute was the demand for a union shop. A strike call on May 10 involved about 500 workers, but since then all but 800 have returned to their jobs.

Another West coast strike involving 22,000 lumber workers in western Washington appeared headed for settlement. C. I. O. regional headquarters at Seattle announced that O. M. Workmen of America, had agreed to a proposal of Philip Murray, I. O. of F. leader, for settlement of the month-old strike. Murray is a member of the mediation board which Orton recently said was a "labor busting" organization.

The mediation board proposed a temporary arrangement under which the union would get its demand for a 1-1-2 cent increase to raise the minimum base to 75 cents and vacation provisions. The proposal, however, did not include the demand for a union shop and elimination of piece work.

Production was resumed at the Cleveland plant of the Lamsco and the Gulf Barge company after a four-day walkout by C. I. O. United Automobile Workers. The company, employing about 500, makes small parts for aircraft. A picket line was established and production at the plant slowed on Tuesday when union officials said they were protesting against the "refusal by company officials to negotiate grievances." The settlement came with an agreement for a national labor board collective bargaining election on Monday.

A strike at two plants of the Budd Wheel company in Detroit was averted, a Michigan state labor mediator announced, by an agreement for a wage increase of 8 cents an hour, that figure to hold for a year unless federal statistics showed a 5 per cent increase in living cost by January 1, 1942. In that event, wage negotiations would be reopened. Present rates were not made public. A. U. W. C. I. O. union originally had scheduled a strike for Friday midnight at the plants which have $36,000,000 in army contracts.

It also said that there were large stocks of aluminum and other critical materials in plants not producing for the defense program which could be taken over and sold to manufacturers of airplanes and airplane engines under the proposed law.

HELL ON WHEELS DIVISION READY

WITH THE ARMY IN TENNESSEE.

June 14.—(P)—The second armored (hell on wheels) division has arrived, and is awaiting the opportunity to smash opposing forces in the second army maneuvers.

Rolling along at a 25 mile an hour clip in two 60-mile long columns the division made the trip from Fort Benning to nearby Fort Oglethorpe in nine hours and 35 minutes, arriving at 2:15 p.m. today.

A fighting team like those that fought warfare out of the trenches and extended European battlefields over hundreds of miles, the division, 11,000 men and 2,000 vehicles, will get its first battle armor exhibition as one of the eight armored divisions of the nation expects to have by next year.

Such a unit, including a brigade of three tank regiments with its own supporting artillery, engineers and other special troops, has "so far as is known" to a competent United States military authority, the greatest number of weapons and firepower per man of any military organization its size in the world.

The second armored division, coming from Fort Benning, Ga., picked up its rendezvous point Chattanooga, about 70 miles to the east of the Cumberland plateau area where the VII army corps, a unit of the second army, has been engaged in field exercises for the last two weeks.

GILLESPIE AND M'KEE REACH TENNIS FINALS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 14.—(P)—Two Miami players, Billy Gillespie and Dick McKee, seeded first and second respectively, moved into the final of the Cotton States Tennis tournament today with straight set victories.

Cool and unimpressive, Gillespie played almost effortless tennis in trouncing hard-hitting Harris Everett of Jacksonville, 6-2, 6-3.

McKee, national public parks champion, ousted Birmingham's John Agger, 6-2, 7-5, after rallying in the second set from a 5-3 disadvantage. Agger displayed a fine service and court play.

Little Verna Williamson, speed-ball right-hander, who is second only to his teammates Tom Perry in strikeouts for the season in the Cotton States loop, is scheduled to take the mound for the Sox. Manager Doug Taitt said last night.

Manager Guy Sturdy announced Steve Colosky, who started the game last night, would return to the mound today, while Manager Sturdy said probable changes in his lineup today would find Wally Kopp, ex-Texas manager, doing the catching and "Major" Bowles in the outfield to improve the club's hitting. He also plans to use "Woody" Head on first base, but said the change was not definite.

The Sox invade Helena tomorrow for a three-game series with the Seaporters, and they move on to Clarkdale Thursday for three games with the DeSotans. They return home next Sunday for a four-game stand with the Hot Springs Bathers.

Ernie Potocar drew free passes. Perry forced Burt at third. Eager forced Perry, sending Potocar to third and a wild pitch scored Potocar.

Pruitt beat out an infield hit in the third and went on to second when Williams' throw to first was wild, and came on home on Phil Wells' double down the third base line.

With one out on Philley's single and scored on a wild pitch. Wells doubled again in the fifth, went to third when Potocar grounded out and scored on Perry's line single into left field.

The Sox got a pair of runs in the sixth. Hill walked, stole second and went on to third when "Pep" Bullock threw wild over second base. Philley doubled to score Hill and came home himself on Medak's single.

The locals went down in order in the seventh, but came back with two more runs in the eighth. Philley led off with a single and stole second. Medak singled and went on to second when a play was made at the plate to keep Philley on third. Bobby Burt then came up with a powerful triple, clearing the center field fence to score Philley and Medak.

SEIZURE BILL IS

ble or intangible, which he decided was needed for defense.

The president would decide the value of the property and, if the owners thought his figure was too low, they would be paid 75 per cent of his price and could sue for any additional sum they thought was due.

Some legislators charged that the powers sought were so comprehensive that the president could take over private property where its use would be only remotely connected with the defense program.

Senator Byrnes, Democrat, S. C., acting majority leader, told reporters that revisions would have to be made in the bill to define more clearly the powers to be exercised.

Administration men said needs of the current situation would not be met by legislation, already approved by the senate and pending in the house, which would permit the government to take over defense plants when production is stopped or threatened.

They pointed to a war department memorandum which said that many machine tools, "probably our most critical item," were being used in articles not manufacturing defense articles or were "held by second hand dealers who demand unreasonable prices."

It also said that there were large stocks of aluminum and other critical raw materials in plants not producing for the defense program which could be taken over and sold to manufacturers of airplanes and airplane engines under the proposed law.

In addition, the department said it desired authority to commandeer some privately-owned airplanes and boats whose owners would be defense contractors.

"It has been charged," the memorandum said, "that through patent controls the Nazis are obtaining valuable information and large revenues from this country and that they control some of our vital industries. These patent rights and stock controls could be requisitioned by our government under the proposed legislation."

Also to be covered would be defense articles and contracts for their manufacture "held by foreign governments who are unwilling to sell to us."

First order of business was the nationalization of a "foreigner" from Brookings, South Dakota, Mark Minnier, son of an army officer stationed in Louisiana.

He had been elected a delegate to the Boys' State program in his state and, when he could not attend, was invited to participate in the Pelican State activities.

Caucuses were called to prepare for election of parish and city governments to be elected tomorrow, and of a state administration to be inducted at the Louisiana capitol Tuesday.

Speakers scheduled for the opening program were Roland Cocreaux, secretary to Governor Sam Jones; Chester P. Devol, chief of command of the American Legion, and Assistant Attorney-General Edward Gladney, Jr., former state commander.

The injured were Leon Franklin, driver, employee of a mattress company at Memphis, an undetermined neck injury; Mrs. Leon Franklin, lacerations; Mrs. Eva Thomas, bruises; and Cecil V. Casson, machine operator for the United States Bedding Company, Memphis, minor cuts, physicians said.

The injured were en route to the home of Mr. Franklin's father at Roosevelt, La., when the accident occurred.

eral cents" an hour, OPM officials said.

One of the big West coast yards did not sign the master agreement and a strike developed in which the defense mediation board yesterday said it had been unable to bring about an accord. Board officials said a panel of three representatives of the Bethlehem Steel company's shipbuilding division and the Bay Cities Metal Workers council (A. F. of L.) into agreement and therefore the board would take its final step and draft recommendations for settlement.

The principal issue in the dispute was the demand for a unit shop. A strike call on May 10 involved about 5,000 workers, but since then all but 800 have returned to their jobs.

Another West coast strike involving 22,000 lumber workers in western Washington appeared headed for settlement. C. I. O. regional headquarters at Seattle announced that O. M. Orton, head of the International Woodworkers of America, had agreed to a proposal of Philip Murray, C. I. O. president, for settlement of the month-old strike. Murray is a member of the mediation board which Orton recently said was a "labor busting" organization.

The mediation board proposed a temporary arrangement under which the union would get its demand for a 7-1-2 cent increase to raise the minimum base to 75 cents and vacation provisions. The proposal, however, did not include the demand for a union shop and elimination of piece work.

Production was resumed at the Cleveland plant of the Lamson and Sessions company after a four-day walkout by C. I. O. United Automobile Workers. The company, employing about 500, makes small parts for aircraft. A picket line was established and production at the plant slowed on Tuesday in what union officials said was a protest against the "refusal by company officials to negotiate with an agreement for a national labor board collective bargaining election on Monday."

A strike at two plants of the Budd Wheel company in Detroit was averted, a Michigan state labor mediation board announced, by an agreement for a wage increase of 8 cents an hour, that figure to hold for a year unless federal statistics showed a 5 per cent increase in living cost by January 1, 1942. In that event, wage negotiations would be reopened. Present rates were not made public. A. U. W.-C. I. O. union originally had scheduled a strike for Friday night at the plants which have $36,000,000 in army contracts.

Leche's petition criticized the prosecutors for what he termed "continued appeals to prejudice and passion, intemperate, abusive and over-zealous remarks referring to the defendant as 'the sort of animal that does not smell good.'"

The petition declared: "The petitioners summed up for the government. The misconduct of each was neither slight nor attributable to the heat and enthusiasm of advocacy, but so pronounced and persistent that it shows a studied effort to inject into the case irrelevant and prejudicial matters for the sole purpose of procuring a verdict of guilty at any and all costs."

The fifth circuit court of appeals in New Orleans upheld the conviction March 13, 1941, then denied Leche a rehearing on May 10 and three days later granted him 30 days in which to appeal to the supreme court for a review of the case.

84 SCOUTS OPEN CAMP KI-RO-LI

First Of Three Summer Encampments Is Inaugurated
Under Executive Black

Eighty-four Boy Scouts and more than a dozen adult leaders today opened the first summer session at Camp Ki-Ro-Li. The boys represent 11 troops of the Ouachita Valley council, according to Olan H. Black, council executive and director of the encampment.

Personnel of the staff at Ki-Ro-Li serving with Mr. Black are: Mac Davis, instructor of scoutcraft and campercraft; Billy Hart, director of nautical activities; Tim Henninger, naturalist; Whit Crumpton, health officer; Sam Hartman, clerk and bugler; and George Mitchell, cook.

Attending the first camp, which opened today, are 12 members of Troop 29, Monroe; eight of Troop 28, Monroe; four of Troop 34, Monroe; six of Troop 46, Ruston; four of Troop 23, Jonesboro; six of Troop 31, Monroe; four of Troop 40, Dubach; two of Troop 12, West Monroe; 12 of Troop 33, Monroe; 14 of Troop 48, Rayville; and 12 of Troop 1, Monroe.

Reservations for the second session, opening next Sunday, are as follows: Troop 13, West Monroe, 14 Scouts; Troop 16, Farmerville, 13; Troop 3, Bastrop, 10; Troop 16, Tallulah, 15, and Troop 47, Ruston, 25.

For the third camp, opening June 29, the following have made reservations: Troop 23, Jonesboro, 3; Troop 5, Mer Rouge, 12; Troop 57, Delhi, 10; Troop 39, Oak Grove, 15, and Troop 25, Lake Providence, 2.

This is a national program, six years old, which holds that Christianity requires an environment of freedom, and it is, therefore, the responsibility of the church to champion it. The movement opposes the "statism" trend which makes citizens servants of states.

The director, Dr. James W. Fifield, Jr., minister of the First Congregational church of Los Angeles, Calif., announces that the rapidly developing organization now has 300 cities and towns organized with local chairmen who are developing programs.

Dr. Fifield feels particularly pleased that Reverend Holloway has accepted the Monroe chairmanship and is developing plans for the program here.

Staff Sergeant Joe Thomas Lobrano of the medical department at the Savannah, Ga., air base, is at home, on a short furlough, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Lobrano of Mangham. Young Lobrano was accepted for enlistment in the medical department for Barksdale field, at the age of 18, in January, 1940, by Staff Sergeant Harold B. McNemar, in charge of the local army recruiting office.

He was transferred to the Savannah air base in October, 1940, and was promoted to the rank of sergeant, November 5, 1940, and to the grade of staff sergeant, April 1, 1941. His job is chief clerk in the record office at the base hospital.

Lobrano is a graduate of the Mangham high school.

He will return to his duties in Savannah, June 20. He says he is well pleased with life in the army.

Bolivia is the only South American country having no navigable waterway to the ocean.

Joe Lobrano visits home on short leave.

Nothing due until August.

About once a week you empty the Handefroster. It is easily removed, easily emptied. No spilling of defrost water on food in the cabinet, no splashing on the floor, no cleaning up afterward, the Norge way.

Your fresh meats remain undisturbed in the Coldpack meat drawer; your vegetables stay cold, crisp in the high humidity zone of the covered Hydrovoir. Isn't that the convenience you want? The economy, too?

Vacation Trips Take Many Families Away

Theus, Montgomery, McWilliams And Cummings Families Among Those Leaving For Summer

By Eve Bradford

MANY, many happy returns of the day, Father dear. In a world seemingly determined to exterminate so many of the male species, you will become more and more precious as the years roll by.

Sons and daughters who take the attitude that father is full of faults and shortcomings will realize today, if they take the time, that after all he is a pretty good egg and the one safe haven in time of stress and storm. Lucky is the boy who can point to his father with pride and be thankful in his secret heart that he possesses some of his fine qualities.

Young man, if you have a father who never lets you down you have in your possession a precious jewel. Guard it well. Such a treasure is heaven-sent and is loaned for only a little while.

Valiant is the word for father these days. Mothers can give vent to their feelings in tears when the only son leaves for some army camp. Father must keep a stiff upper lip and stand bravely by, leaving unspoken the words that might betray his feelings.

We doff our hats today to that gallant company of gentlemen—the fathers who are responsible for those shiny new diplomas young men and women are flourishing this month. To the average father whose son or daughter has just graduated from college a diploma is a symbol. It represents, in most cases, a financial struggle. It represents plenty of sacrifices but they are usually made willingly so that sons and daughters may have the proper background for life. A college career is a costly one, and, in the vernacular of the street, father must produce the coin.

It is nice to discover that even at a time when the world is crashing to pieces and the approach of the enemy seems just around the corner, people are still sticking to June as the ideal month for marriages. It is nice to be reminded that wedding cakes remain among the time-honored sentimentalities. Wedding cakes remain today, as ever, Victorians ornate, and good enough to eat. There was a time when a couple was not considered married decently unless they had cut a white-iced fruit cake and distributed it among unmarried lady guests who took a slice home with them and placed it under the pillow so that she might dream of her future husband. Yesterday's bride and bridegroom.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Hugh William (Bill) McClary, cut straight through their beautiful wedding cake and then hurried off for Fort Benning, Ga. Their honeymoon, like so many others, will not be one of moonlight and roses. It will be interrupted by harsh bugle calls, curt commands from officers and talk of army maneuvers. All weddings have a martial atmosphere these days.

One wonders if it is the army life Maud will soon be experiencing that prompted the red, white and blue, trousseau model she wore at the coffee hour in the Hyman Liebreich home Wednesday morning. It was fashioned with a navy blue redingote over a crimson waist and white skirt. A jaunty little white felt hat adorned her black curly hair. She looked sartorially perfect.

When summer really descends and even one additional degree of heat seems more than mortal flesh can bear, all sorts of ideas spring up in our minds. Those of us who thought we were definitely home-bodies find our thoughts straying to distant mountain peaks and cool streams to the north. Those who never indulge in day-dreams and are satisfied to stay at home have managed to make the place where they hang their hat the most attractive spot on earth to their way of thinking.

The John Sherrouses aren't stay-at-homes by any means. They have traveled extensively but never-the-less they have made their garden an idyllic spot. They do not yearn for far off mountain brooks—they have a pool of their own right in their garden. Dining al fresco in some public park has no appeal—right at home they have a beautiful out-of-door living room of English accent. Sloping down from the terrace in the rear gardens is a barbecue pit with bright colored awnings overhead. In fact it is a huge stone fireplace, quite picturesque and ornamental.

When Helen entertained that attractive group of girls who will be off for Camp Waldemar, next month, with a barbecue supper party, it was John who expertly broiled the steaks.

RAINBOW GIRLS ADVISOR...

Miss Peggy Strong, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Strong, prominent member of the Rainbow Girls, attended the grand assembly in Shreveport on Saturday. Miss Strong is worthy advisor of the local order.

He even relieved Helen of the responsibility of entertaining their youthful guests. He had a wonderful time.

The J. Hunter Thatchers have one of the most beautiful garden spots in Monroe. Tucked away in one corner is a charming little patio with a brick fireplace flanked by benches covered with bright red leather. The Thatchers have discovered some interesting reasons why steaks taste better when charcoal broiled. It seems that the briquets give off intense infrared rays which penetrate the meat and develop a mouth-watering flavor. It takes more than charcoal heat, however, to make steaks as good as they can be, so the Thatchers use a barbecue sauce that they originated. It is the envy of all the neighbors.

Gracious, comfortable, informal living is enjoyed by all Monroe families who have an outdoor living room.

Trekking to far-off places this week will be Edwin and Katherine Theus and their two cunning daughters, Coy and Lynn. They will be the guests of Katherine's handsome brother-in-law C. A. King at his mountain home near San Francisco.

Frances Montgomery and two sons will pack their trunks and leave this week for a restful, happy summer in Russellville, Ky.

Edith McWilliams and two children lead an idyllic life when summer comes. Each year they while away the happy summer days on the shores family, two sons and a daughter, also find life during the long summer months very much to their liking on the shores of Lake Coteau where they occupy their summer home. Gordon, who accompanied them to Chetek, will return to resume his role as a summer bachelor.

It is interesting to note that Kathleen Miller, who charmed Little Theater audiences last season as a member of the cast of "No Time For Comedy," is devoting her time to theatricals this summer. She is a member of the Circle players group on the golf coast. Miss Miller will be able to teach this group of professionals, something about charm, poise and stage presence, as she simply exudes these qualities.

The most interested spectators at the wedding of Bettie Keller and Jack Caplis, June 28, will be the colored servants who will come over from Magenta plantation, Jack's home. The colored mammy who nursed Jack as a boy and his father before him and the old colored butler, who has been with the Caplis family goodness knows how long, will head this aggregation of colored people, many of whom have spent their entire lives on this plantation.

When Bettie assumes the role of mistress of Magenta plantation she will be surrounded by beautiful antique rose-wood and mahogany furniture. It has been handed down from one generation to another since Civil war days. For generations members of the Caplis family have resided at Magenta plantation where ground was broken for the spacious colonial home before the war. It is one of the few remaining landmarks connecting the south of yesterday with the south of today.

One of the most versatile youngsters in the Rouse dance revue was David Ward-Steinman, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Ward-Steinman. ## Vacation Trips Take Many Families Away

Theus, Montgomery, McWilliams And Cummings Families Among Those Leaving For Summer

By Eve Bradford

MANY, many happy returns of the day, Father dear. In a world seemingly determined to exterminate so many of the male species, you will become more and more precious as the years roll by.

Sons and daughters who take the attitude that father is full of faults and shortcomings will realize today, if they take the time, that after all he is a pretty good egg and the one safe haven in time of stress and storm. Lucky is the boy who can point to his father with pride and be thankful in his secret heart that he possesses some of his fine qualities.

Young man, if you have a father who never lets you down you have in your possession a precious jewel. Guard it well. Such a treasure is Haven-sent and is loaned for only a little while.

Valiant is the word for father these days. Mothers can give vent to their feelings in tears when the only son leaves for some army camp. Father must keep a stiff upper lip and stand bravely by, leaving unspoken the words that might betray his feelings.

We doff our hats today to that gallant company of gentlemen—the fathers who are responsible for those shiny new diplomas young men and women are flourishing this month. To the average father whose son or daughter has just graduated from college a diploma is a symbol. It represents, in most cases, a financial struggle. It represents plenty of sacrifices but they are usually made willingly so that sons and daughters may have the proper background for life. A college career is a costly one, and, in the vernacular of the street, father must produce the coin.

It is nice to discover that even at a time when the world is crashing to pieces and the approach of the enemy seems just around the corner, people are still sticking to June as the ideal month for marriages. It is nice to be reminded that wedding cakes remain among the time-honored sentimentalities. Wedding cakes remain today, as ever, Victoriously ornate, and good enough to eat. There was a time when a couple was not considered married decently unless they had cut a white-iced fruit cake and distributed it among unmarried lady guests who took a slice home with them and placed it under the pillow so that she might dream of her future husband. Yesterday's bride and bridegroom,

Lieutenant and Mrs. Hugh William (Bill) McClary, cut straight through their beautiful wedding cake and then hurried off for Fort Benning, Ga. Their honeymoon, like so many others, will not be one of moonlight and roses. It will be interrupted by harsh bugle calls, curt commands from officers and talk of army maneuvers. All weddings have a martial atmosphere these days.

One wonders if it is the army life Maud will soon be experiencing that prompted the red, white and blue, trousseau model she wore at the coffee hour in the Hyman Liebreich home Wednesday morning. It was fashioned with a navy blue redingote over a crimson waist and white skirt. A jaunty little white felt hat adorned her black curly hair. She looked sartorially perfect.

When summer really descends and even one additional degree of heat seems more than mortal flesh can bear, all sorts of ideas spring up in our minds. Those of us who thought we were definitely home-bodies find our thoughts straying to distant mountain peaks and cool streams to the north. Those who never indulge in day-dreams and are satisfied to stay at home have managed to make the place where they hang their hat the most attractive spot on earth to their way of thinking.

The John Sherrouses aren't stay-at-homes by any means. They have traveled extensively but never-the-less they have made their garden an idyllic spot. They do not yearn for far off mountain brooks—they have a pool of their own right in their garden. Dining al fresco in some public park has no appeal—right at home they have a beautiful out-of-door living room of English accent. Sloping down from the terrace in the rear gardens is a barbecue pit with bright colored awnings overhead. In fact it is a huge stone fireplace, quite picturesque and ornamental.

When Helen entertained that attractive group of girls who will be off for Camp Waldemar, next month, with a barbecue supper party, it was John who expertly broiled the steaks.

RAINBOW GIRLS ADVISOR...

Miss Peggy Strong, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Strong, prominent member of the Rainbow Girls, attended the grand assembly in Shreveport on Saturday. Miss Strong is worthy advisor of the local order.

He even relieved Helen of the responsibility of entertaining their youthful guests. He had a wonderful time.

The J. Hunter Thatchers have one of the most beautiful garden spots in Monroe. Tucked away in one corner is a charming little patio with a brick fireplace flanked by benches covered with bright red leather. The Thatchers have discovered some interesting reasons why steaks taste better when charcoal broiled. It seems that the briquets give off intense infrared rays which penetrate the meat and develop a mouth-watering flavor. It takes more than charcoal heat, however, to make steaks as good as they can be, so the Thatchers use a barbecue sauce that they originated. It is the envy of all the neighbors.

Gracious, comfortable, informal living is enjoyed by all Monroe families who have an outdoor living room.

Trekking to far-off places this week will be Edwin and Katherine Theus and their two cunning daughters, Coy and Lynn. They will be the guests of Katherine's handsome brother-in-law C. A. King at his mountain home near San Francisco.

Maud S. Gill And Lieutenant Hugh William McClary Wed In Ceremony Here

Much Social Interest Centers In Marriage

Rabbi Hirsch Performs Rites In Home Of Bride's Parents On Hudson Lane

Of paramount social import and of sincere interest to a host of friends throughout this section of the South was the wedding, yesterday of Miss Maud S. Gill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Lawrence Gill of this city, and Lieutenant Hugh William McClary, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. McClary of Fremont, Neb.

The marriage, characterized by lovely simplicity took place at the home of the bride's parents on Hudson lane at 6 p. m. with Rabbi F. K. Hirsch of Temple B'Nai Israel, officiating with dignity and impressive solemnity.

The lower floor of the Gill home, en suite, was adorned with paper white gladioli against a background of woodwardia fern and southern smilax. An improvised altar in one end of the living room was flanked with tall, classic shaped urns overflowing with Maroon daisies, white gardenias, and white gladioli.

A pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. Dean Selig, violinist, and her son, Jonas Dean Selig, pianist. A medley of classical numbers were rendered.

Lieutenant McClary was attended by Lieutenant L. Castuey.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a stunning white crepe tulle with all accessories of white, and elbow length white kid gloves. A smart little hat with shoulder length veil, and a corsage of white orchids was worn. She carried an ivory-bound prayer book, and, for sentimental reasons, wore her grandmother's diamond engagement ring.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held. The bride's mother, extending courtesies, wore a pale pink chiffon model, with a corsage of orchids.

The bride's table in the dining room, decorated exclusively in silver, was encircled with silver receptacles overflowing with gardenias placed on oval mirrors.

The three-tiered wedding cake, beautifully embossed, was encircled with fresh gardenias. The bride and bridegroom cut the cake before departing on their honeymoon. They will go direct to Fort Benning, Ga., where they will reside at the United States army post. Lieutenant McClary received his appointment in the regular army following graduation from the state university. He was captain of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, was cadet colonel of the infantry regiment, and was a member of the Pershing Rifles. In his senior year, he was presented with the Kemper L. Williams' saber.

The bride attended the Louisiana State university and was a member of the Sigma Delta Tau social sorority. Other organizations of which the bride was a member are Delta Gamma Delta, inter-sorority, Mu Sigma Rho, honorary scholastic group, Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary fraternity, and Kappa Delta Phi, national education fraternity.

She won the award given to the outstanding senior in the Teachers' college in 1933. The following year, Miss Gill attended the university as a graduate student, where she was chosen Little Colonel of the infantry regiment and was also selected as one of the beauties whose pictures appeared in the Gumbo for that year.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. R. B. Gill and Miss Dorothy Gill of Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Helen Jean Frumhoff of Overton, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gill of Darnell; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hartman, Miss Reita Hartman, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. J. D. Baughman, Miss Faye Baughman, Mrs. Oscar Baughman and Miss Ellen Baughman of Farmerville; Mrs. F. J. Willey of Mer Rouge; Miss Dorothy Hathcox of Oak Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. J. V. McCarver and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jordan of Mer Rouge; and Mrs. A. C. Gill of Ruston.

COFFEE HOUR IN LIEBREICH HOME

Miss Doris Smith And Fred O. Eldred Married

Of affectionate interest to many friends was the marriage, June 8, of Miss Doris Smith, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie E. Smith of Farmerville, and Fred O. Eldred of Naples, La., and Oakdale, La., which was solemnized at the First Baptist church in Farmerville, with the pastor, Rev. W. M. Averett, officiating.

Tall baskets of gladioli, hydrangeas, and shasta daisies were placed at vantage points against a background of woodwardia ferns, interspersed with seven-branched candelabra holding tall, white cathedral tapers.

The ushers were: E. J. Eldred of Oakdale, Glenn Norris of Shreveport, Max Dabrit of Ruston, and Robert Lee Abbitton of Farmerville.

E. L. Eldred lit the candles, and Mrs. Vava Waldron sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me," accompanied by Miss Corrie Smith. The "Wedding March" from Lohengrin announced the entrance of the bride, and at the close of the ceremony Mendelssohn's "Recession" was rendered. During the ceremony, Miss Corrie Smith played a medley of nuptial airs.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Cloyd Edwards, who wore a rose triple sheer model with accessories of white, and corsage of white carnations and tube roses.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father, was lovely in a becoming ensemble of poudre blue triple sheer with accessories of rose. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley. Awaiting at the altar with the bridegroom was his brother, Floyd Eldred, who served as best man.

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, wore a rose triple sheer with accessories of white, and corsage of white and blue carnations.

Following the nuptial rites, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Baskets and bowls of beautiful flowers were used to decorate the reception suite. The dining table was centered with a low bowl of magnolias and lilies in a bed of magnolia leaves.

Mrs. J. G. Norris poured coffee from a handsome silver service. Miss Lillian Edwards served punch. Individual cakes and other delectable tid-bits were passed among the guests.

The wedding cake, a delicious three-tiered confection, decorated with crystallized roses and surmounted with an embossed wedding bell, was placed on a small table surrounded with white gladioli and fern. After cutting the wedding cake the bride changed to a suit of navy blue sheer with touches of red and white, and the couple left for Oakdale, where they attended a luncheon given in their honor by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Della Peninger. After a honeymoon in New Orleans, they will be at home in Naples.

The bride is a graduate of the Farmerville High school and Louisiana Tech. Mr. Eldred attended Louisiana Tech and is a member of Theta Kappa Nu. He is a civil engineer in the geophysical department of the Humble Oil company.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Norris of Leesville; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Yawn of Abbeville; M. D. Ehrhardt, Miss Evelyn Hodge, Mrs. Walker Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bates, and Miss Allie Swilley of Monroe; Mrs. W. H. Eldred, Mrs. Della Peninger, Mrs. W. H. Ashmore, and Miss Una Eldred of Oakdale; Mrs. C. S. Crowder of Alexandria; Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Fusler of Oakdale; Mrs. Blanche Dollar of Bastrop; Mrs. John Spencer and Mrs. J. M. Spencer of Spencer; Miss Margie Smith of Linville; and "Jiggs" Haile of Haile.

Bonner-Patrick Rites Are Performed June 7

Miss Nell Catherine Patrick, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Bell Patrick, and William Frank Bonner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bonner, both of Lake Providence, were united in marriage in an impressive service at the home of the bride's mother, Saturday, June 7, at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. Father John C. Vandegaer, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic church, read the service.

Mrs. S. P. Merrill was pianist for the nuptial music. The couple stood beneath an ivy entwined arch, flanked with Madonna lilies, and a reproduction of the Sistine Madonna.

nounced by Lohengrin's "Wedding March" played by Miss Billie Taylor at the piano. The bride wore a lovely navy blue sheer redingote ensemble with white accessories. She carried a small ivory-bound Bible.

An informal reception was held following the ceremony. The bride and bridegroom cut the beautifully-embossed, three-tiered wedding cake centering the lace-covered table.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Folk presided over the silver coffee urns placed at one end of the refreshment table.

Mrs. Bynum is a graduate of Louisiana Tech, and Mr. Bynum was graduated from Centenary college Shreveport.

Last Play Of Year Given By Children's Theater

The Children's theater established this past year under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenza Smith now occupies a special niche in the civic life of this city. This theater, open for membership to children of the Twin Cities, is filling a constantly growing need for constructive work for adolescents.

The final play of the season took place last week, when Mr. and Mrs. Smith presented a group of talented children in "The Stolen Prince" and "Hilga and the White Peacock." The rehearsal hall of the Little Theater and studios of the Children's Workshop theater were transformed into a small, model theater.

"The Stolen Prince," a Chinese fantasy, was presented by special permission of the producer, Samuel T. French. It was a charming little sketch, written especially for children. Blossoming peach trees, sailboats, and Chinese kites were featured in the colorful properties.

Members of the cast, giving a splendid performance, were: Ann Crandall, Virginia DeFreese, Guy Jones, Sharon Anderson, Sonny Douglas, Beatrice Cretney, Glenn Anderson, June Barr, Billy Harper, and Kent Anderson.

The second show of the evening followed an intermission during which refreshments were served by Mrs. William Harper and Mrs. C. K. Crandall.

"Hilga and the White Peacock" was a fantasy that engaged the imagination of the audience, as well as that of the players. The curtain opened on a dull, brown room in the home of the Trolls, the place where all beautiful flowers, birds' plumage, and other beautiful things are being woven by the never-tiring hands of the Trolls, with the help of a fair earth girl, who is held prisoner there. She is finally rescued by her twin brother.

During the play, such characters as the Grey Goose, the Peacock, Spider Woman, and the Trolls, paraded through three acts embracing a varied type of amusement for the audience.

Between the second and third acts the curtain was left open, and the audience watched the diminutive actors and actresses shift the sets and props.

The cast of "Hilga and the White Peacock" included: Virginia DeFreese, Beatrice Cretney, Sonny Douglas, Glenn Anderson, Guy Jones, Billy Harper, June Barr, and Kent Anderson.

When the final curtain rang down, sighs of relief escaped from Mr. and Mrs. Smith, and they immediately started packing their bags for a trip to Tennessee, home of Mrs. Smith's parents, and a short rest, before going to Wisconsin to join a summer theater group.

Bonner-Patrick Rites Are Performed June 7

Miss Nell Catherine Patrick, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Bell Patrick, and William Frank Bonner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bonner, both of Lake Providence, were united in marriage in an impressive service at the home of the bride's mother, Saturday, June 7, at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. Father John C. Vandegaer, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic church, read the service.

Mrs. S. P. Merrill was pianist for the nuptial music. The couple stood beneath an ivy entwined arch, flanked with Madonna lilies, and a reproduction of the Sistine Madonna.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Arthur Bell Patrick, Jr., wore a smart tan and ivory ensemble, with shoulder corsage of pink gladioli.

Miss Kate Hamley, the bride's only attendant, wore a redingote model of tan and white georgette, and shoulder corsage of white carnations.

The groom had as his best man, Harry Deal of Lake Providence and Lafayette.

with a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch centered with a wedding bell. Pink radiance roses decorated the lace-draped dining table, from which iced punch and cakes were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonner will make their home in Lake Providence, where the groom has farming interests and the bride is secretary of the East Carroll department of public welfare.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Holden have returned from a motor trip to Denver where Mr. Holden attended the I. A. P. E. S. convention.

Fraternity Meetings Provide Gala Affairs

Dances Every Night Last Week And Numerous Other Parties Entertain Monroe's Younger Set

There was a sound of revelry by night last week when a dance every night claimed members of the younger set en masse. With two national fraternity conventions in town and the hosts a gallant company of young men, members of the local chapters of Phi Kappa and Sigma Phi Omega, there was scarcely a breathing spell between dances.

Music drifted down from the roof of the Virginia hotel where members of the Phi Kappa members and their sponsors held away and from the terrace of the Frances hotel where Sigma Phi Omega members entertained with three dances.

From the very moment of arrival the visiting fraternity men and their sponsors were caught up in a whirl of social activity. A luncheon each day on the terrace of the Frances hotel was the signal for conversation and reminiscences. A tea dance on the terrace, on the opening day of the S. P. O. convention, brought members of the local sororities together for the purpose of being formally introduced to the visitors.

One of the highlights of the three-day's social program was the open-house in the Mirror room of the Frances hotel on Saturday afternoon. It was quite informal with everyone gathering in conversational groups, making plans to meet again next year for the national convention wherever it might be.

Such a galaxy of lovely girls has never before been seen in this city. They were all in summery attire with flowers tucked in their hair or under their chin. They took turns presiding over the huge, hollow blocks of ice from which fruit juices were served throughout the receiving hours.

In addition to the regular convention program there were garden parties, intermission parties in several homes, and a barbecue at Bernstein park where all formality was pushed into the background. Members of Delta Sigma fraternity were the genial hosts on this occasion.

Junior Knitters Club Organized In Monroe

A group of civic minded young women met in the home of Mrs. G. B. Watkins Wednesday morning for the purpose of organizing a club to assist in the national defense program. The name of this organization is the Junior Knitters club. This is being sponsored by the Current Literature club, whose department chairman of junior club women, will act as sponsor or contact chairman. Wednesday morning of each week was the time designated for these meetings.

During a short business session presided over by Mrs. J. M. Menefee, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. B. A. Kramer; vice-president and reporter, Mrs. J. C. Vorhoff; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Kite.

Women's Label League Holds Business Meeting

Members of the Women's International Union Label league, No. 570, met Thursday night for their regular business meeting. At this time three new members, Mrs. Walter Cash, Mrs. Roy Cash and Mrs. S. E. Mequet, were initiated.

Mrs. W. L. Auliffe, secretary of the Bogalusa Label league, was the principal speaker on this occasion.

Mrs. J. C. Hamilton, league president, was showered with lovely gifts from the members in appreciation of the work done during the past year. Several games and contests were introduced for diversion during the evening and prizes were won by Mrs. Pansy Williams, Mrs. Roy Cash and Mrs. Amy Newburn.

A delicious supper course was served to the following members and visitors: Mrs. Jesse Howington, Mrs. Ruth Wood, Mrs. Roy Cash, Mrs. S. E. Mequet, Mrs. Walter Cash, Mrs. E. D. Ory, Mrs. J. C. Clark, Mrs. C. O. Doyle, Miss Betty Jo Clark, Mrs. D. L. Frost, Mrs. Ralph White, Mrs. T. # Maud S. Gill And Lieutenant Hugh William McClary Wed In Ceremony Here

Of paramount social import and of sincere interest to a host of friends throughout this section of the South was the wedding, yesterday, of Miss Maud S. Gill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Lawrence Gill of this city, and Lieutenant Hugh William McClary, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. McClary of Fremont, Neb.

The marriage, characterized by lovely simplicity took place at the home of the bride's parents on Hudson lane at 5 p. m. with Rabbi F. K. Hirsch of Temple B'Nai Israel, officiating with dignity and impressive solemnity.

The lower floor of the Gill home, en suite, was adorned with paper white gladioli against a background of woodwardia fern and southern smilax. An improvised altar in one end of the living room was flanked with tall, classic shaped urns overflowing with Marconi daisies, white gardenias, and white gladioli.

A pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. Dean Selig, violinist, and her son, Jonas Dean Selig, pianist. A medley of classical numbers were rendered.

Lieutenant McClary was attended by Lieutenant L. Cassey.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a stunning white crepe tailleur with all accessories of white, and elbow length white kid gloves. A smart little hat with shoulder length veil, and a corsage of white orchids was worn. She carried an ivory-bound prayer book, and, for sentimental reasons, wore her grandmother's diamond engagement ring.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held. The bride's mother, extending courtesies, wore a pale pink chiffon model, with a corsage of orchids.

The bride's table in the dining room, developed exclusively in silver, was encircled with silver receptacles overflowing with gardenias placed on oval mirrors.

The three-tiered wedding cake, beautifully embossed, was encircled with fresh gardenias. The bride and bridegroom cut the cake before departing on their honeymoon. They will go direct to Fort Benning, Ga., where they will reside at the United States army post. Lieutenant McClary received his appointment in the regular army following graduation from the state university. He was captain of Seaboard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, was cadet colonel of the infantry regiment, and was a member of the Pershing Rifles. In his senior year, he was presented with the Kemper L. Williams' saber.

The bride attended the Louisiana State university and was a member of the Sigma Delta Tau social sorority. Other organizations of which the bride was a member are Delta Gamma Delta, interfraternity, Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary fraternity, and Kappa Delta Phi, national education fraternity.

She won the award given to the outstanding senior in the Teachers' college in 1939. The following year, Miss Gill attended the university as a graduate student, where she was chosen Little Colonel of the infantry regiment and was also selected as one of the beauties whose pictures appeared in the Gumbo for that year.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. R. B. Gill and Miss Dorothy Gill of Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Helen Jean Frunhoff of Overton, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gill of Darnell; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hartman, Miss Reita Hartman, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. J. D. Baughman, Miss Faye Baughman, Mrs. Oscar Baughman, and Miss Ellen Baughman of Farmerville; Mrs. F. J. Willey of Mer Rouge; Miss Dorothy Hathcox of Oak Ridge; Mr. and Mrs. J. V. McCarvey and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jordan of Mer Rouge; and Mrs. A. C. Gill of Ruston.

Miss Doris Smith And Fred O. Eldred Married

Of affectionate interest to many friends was the marriage, June 8, of Miss Doris Smith, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie E. Smith of Farmerville, and Fred O. Eldred of Naples, Fla. and Oakdale, La., which was solemnized at the First Baptist church in Farmerville, with the pastor, Rev. W. M. Averett, officiating.

Tall baskets of gladioli, hydrangeas, and shasta daisies were placed at vantage points against a background of woodwardia ferns, interspersed with seven-branched candelabra holding tall, white cathedral tapers.

The ushers were: E. J. Eldred of Oakdale, Glenn Norris of Shreveport, Max Dollar of Bastrop, and Robert Lee Albright of Farmerville.

E. L. Eldred lit the candles, and Miss Vava Walden sang "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me." Accompanied by Miss Corrie Smith, the "Wedding March" from Lohengrin announced the entrance of the bride party, and at the close of the ceremony Mendelssohn's "Recessional" was rendered. During the ceremony, Miss Corrie Smith played a medley of nuptial airs.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Cloyd Edwards, who wore a rose triple sheer model with accessories of white and corsage of white carnations and tube roses.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father, was lovely in a becoming ensemble of poudre blue triple sheer with accessories of rose. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley. Awaiting at the altar with the bridegroom was his brother, Floyd Eldred, who served as best man.

Mrs. Smith, mother of the bride, wore a rose triple sheer with accessories of white and corsage of white and blue carnations.

Following the nuptial rites, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Baskets and bowls of beautiful flowers were used to decorate the reception suite. The dining table was centered with a low bowl of magnolias and lilies in a bed of magnolia leaves.

Mrs. J. G. Norris poured coffee from a handsome silver service. Miss Lillian Edwards served punch. Individual cakes and other delectable tid-bits were passed among the guests.

The wedding cake, a delicious three-tiered confection, decorated with crystallized roses and surmounted with an embossed wedding bell, was placed on a small table surrounded with white gladioli and fern. After cutting the wedding cake the bride changed to a suit of navy blue sheer with touches of red and white, and the couple left for Oakdale, where they attended a luncheon given in their honor by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Della Peninger. After a honeymoon in New Orleans, they will be at home in Naples.

The bride is a graduate of the Farmerville high school and Louisiana Tech. Mr. Eldred attended Louisiana Tech and is a member of Theta Kappa Nu. He is a civil engineer in the geophysical department of the Humble Oil company.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Norris of Leesville; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Yawn of Abbeville; M. D. Ehrhardt, Miss Evelyn Hodge, Mrs. Walker Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. ## Fraternity Meetings Provide Gala Affairs

There was a sound of revelry by night last week when a dance every night claimed members of the younger set en masse. With two national fraternity conventions in town and the hosts a gallant company of young men, members of the local chapters of Phi Kappa Phi and Sigma Phi Omega, there was scarcely a breathing spell between dances.

Music drifted down from the roof of the Virginia hotel where members of the Phi Kappa members and their sponsors held away and from the terrace of the Frances hotel where Sigma Phi Omega members entertained with three dances.

From the very moment of arrival the visiting fraternity men and their sponsors were caught up in a whirl of social activity. A luncheon each day on the terrace of the Frances hotel was the signal for conversation and reminiscences. A tea dance on the terrace, on the opening day of the S. P. O. convention, brought members of the local sororities together for the purpose of being formally introduced to the visitors.

One of the highlights of the three-day social program was the opening house in the Mirror room of the Frances hotel on Saturday afternoon. It was quite informal with everyone gathering in conversational groups, making plans to meet again next year for the national convention wherever it might be.

Such a galaxy of lovely girls has never before been seen in this city. They were all in summery attire with flowers tucked in their hair or under their chin. They took turns presiding over the huge, hollow blocks of ice from which fruit juices were served throughout the receiving hours.

In addition to the regular convention program there were garden parties, intermission parties in several homes, and a barbecue at Bernstein park where all formality was pushed into the background. Members of Delta Sigma fraternity were the genial hosts on this occasion.

Junior Knitters Club Organized In Monroe

A group of civic minded young women met in the home of Mrs. G. B. Watkins Wednesday morning for the purpose of organizing a club to assist in the national defense program. The name of this organization is the Junior Knitters club. This is being sponsored by the Current Literature club, whose department chairman of junior club women, will act as sponsor or contact chairman. Wednesday morning of each week was the time designated for these meetings.

During a short business session presided over by Mrs. J. M. Menefee the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. B. A. Kramer; vice-president and reporter, Mrs. J. C. Vorhoff; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Kite.

Women's Label League Holds Business Meeting

Members of the Women's International Union Label league, No. 570, met Thursday night for their regular business meeting. At this time three new members, Mrs. Walter Cash, Mrs. Roy Cash and Mrs. S. E. Mequet, were initiated.

Mrs. W. L. Auliffe, secretary of the Bogalusa Label league, was the principal speaker on this occasion.

Mrs. J. C. Hamilton, league president, was showered with lovely gifts from the members in appreciation of the work done during the past year.

Several games and contests were introduced for diversion during the evening and prizes were won by Mrs. Pansy Williams, Mrs. Roy Cash and Mrs. Amy Newburn.

A delicious supper course was served to the following members and visitors: Mrs. Jesse Howington, Mrs. Ruth Wood, Mrs. Roy Cash, Mrs. S. E. Mequet, Mrs. Walter Cash, Mrs. E. D. Ory, Mrs. J. C. Clark, Mrs. C. O. Doyle, Miss Betty Jo Clark, Mrs. D. L. Frost, Mrs. Ralph White, Mrs. T. ## Phi Kappa Convention Closed By Grand Ball

Affair On Roof Of Hotel Virginia Climaxes Whirl Of Convention Gaiety Here

Climaxing a mad whirl of convention gaiety, the Phi Kappa Grand Ball brought the convocation to an official close Wednesday night on the Hotel Virginia roof. This was the occasion for presentations—presentation of cups, new national officers, sponsors, and the national sweetheart.

It has become an annual custom for Phi Kappa to present a cup for efficiency and another for attendance at its national convention. This year, the efficiency trophy went to Alpha Beta chapter, Jackson, Miss., while the attendance award was given to Beta chapter, Memphis, Tenn.

Time also was taken out from the dancing for the introduction of the chapter sponsors who attended the convention. They were: Misses Marcelina Hill, Jane Rhymes, and Evelyn Jane Smith from Eta chapter; Janice Moffett and Carolyn Skaggs from Delta chapter; Mary Jane Hoffman from Theta chapter; Katherine Graham and Martha Ludlum, Delta Chi chapter; Frances Jean Crews, June Dobbs, Margaret Stewart, Alice Kirchner, Lane Van Hook, and Joan Frantz, Alpha Beta chapter. Lovely gifts in the form of deep maroon compacts adorned with the gold Phi Kappa crest were given to each sponsor.

From this group of sponsors, the national sweetheart for next year was chosen. Last year's attractive sweetheart, Miss Katherine Graham of Delta Chi chapter, introduced her successor, Miss Frances Jean Crews of Alpha Beta chapter, and presented her with the sweetheart cup and with a bouquet of flowers in the purple and white Phi Kappa colors.

New national officers were also announced during an interlude in the dancing. They were: Charles Bishop, Jackson, Miss., chairman of executive council; Billy Mills, Gulfport, Miss., vice-chairman; and Henry Spurrier, Memphis, Tenn., corresponding secretary. Laurel, Miss., was named next year's convention site.

Betty Tarbuton And Frank Notestine Wed

The wedding of Miss Betty Tarbuton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Tarbuton of Ruston, and Frank Notestine of Welch, La., was quietly solemnized in the home of the bride's parents, Friday, June 6, at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Henry W. Darden, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Ruston, officiated.

Clusters of blue hydrangeas and pink and white lilies were arranged throughout the home, forming an attractive setting for the ceremony.

Mrs. James Tarbuton, sister-in-law of the bride, was the only attendant. She wore a navy blue model with white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of red carnations.

James Tarbuton, brother of the bride, served as best man. The bride wore a dusty-rose model with white accessories. Her bouquet was the one carried by her intimate friend, Miss Alice Crow, whose wedding took place the preceding evening.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony, after which the couple left for their honeymoon. Upon their return, they will make their home in Welch, where Mr. Notestine is assistant postmaster.

Mrs. Notestine is a graduate of Louisiana Tech, where she was a member of Theta Upsilon sorority. For the past two years she has been a member of the Welch high school faculty.

Furlow, Miss Virginia Young and Orrie Rigdon, Miss Frances Young and Junior Wilson, Miss Allen Goughy and Nelson Marcella, Miss Sammy Pave Blackwell and Doyle Grisham, Miss Carter and Joe Battaglia, Miss Fred Furlow and Rockie R. ### Conference In Session At Gulf Park College

Beginning with reveille on Wednesday morning, the delegates at the Girl Reserve sectional conference, now in session at Gulf Park college, began their first real day of camp-conference activities. The early morning worship service, under the direction of Mrs. Noel Womack of Jackson, was most impressive as the girls gathered in the spacious college auditorium for this daily worship period. These worship periods are being built around the theme, "A Way of Life Adequate for a Changing World," with the purpose of finding a day by day answer to the search for an adequate philosophy of life.

The delegates are divided into groups known as "triangles," each "triangle" being under the direction of a counselor. Mrs. Floyd Hannah of Winnsboro is serving as head counselor and is assisted by the following counselors: Miss Marie Matrange, New Orleans; Mrs. Bott, Shreveport; Mrs. Helen Taylor, Montgomery, Ala.; Mrs. Theresa Tate, Mobile, Ala.; Miss Mary Ann Richards, Carlisle, Ark.; and Miss Bess Sharpe, Monroe.

The workshop groups met for the first time Wednesday morning. These workshops help the girls on club organization, club programming, cabinet work, and the duties of the club officers. Workshops are being conducted this year as practice clubs and are under the direction of Miss Mary Frances Lacey, secretary of the Mississippi district Y. W. C. A., Jackson; Miss Marguerite Mullins, Girl Reserve secretary of the New Orleans Y. W. C. A.; Miss Lydia Sartor, Girl Reserve advisor, Gulfport; Miss Mary Ann Richards, advisor at Carlisle, Ark.; and Miss Edna Vickers, advisor of Jackson Girl Reserves.

Discussion groups around the conference theme, "A Girl's Place in a Changing World," take place each afternoon under the leadership of capable discussion leaders.

Perhaps the highlight of the opening day's activities was the campfire on the sandy beach at the close of the day. The campfire ceremonial, under the direction of Miss Mary Frances Clark of Tupelo, Miss., was most impressive as tired but happy delegates gathered around the unlighted fire and sang Girl Reserve songs as many of them for the first time looked out on the lovely moonlight gulf. As the notes of the last song died away, Miss Geraldine Ketchum of Hot Springs, Ark., girl executive of the conference, told how the bugle had again called them to the sea and the sand, to days of new friendships, eager learning, and joyous play, and explained that the waves echoed the dreams of all Girl Reserves who had gathered around the Gulf Park campfire in days gone by. Miss Del Cobb, Cotton, Miss., girl hostess, lighted this campfire as she knelt and said the Girl Reserve fire prayer, and explained how the campfire was a sacrament to Girl Reserves. "It means to them the warmth of closer friendships, the light of deeper thinking, the music of their dreams, and so as this Gulf Park campfire kindles, each Girl Reserve looks deeper into her own heart, sees clearer into the hearts of others, and so finds understanding."

After the service, a reception was held in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Horton. Immediately following the cake cutting and signing of the register, the young couple left by motor for a wedding trip to Mexico.

The bridegroom is also a graduate of Louisiana Tech, having participated in all sports. For the past year he has been a member of the Ruston high school coaching staff.

Alice Crow Is Bride Of Huey Williamson

A wedding of social prominence and one in which the interest of friends is centered, took place in Ruston, June 5, at the Trinity Methodist church, when Miss Alice Crow, daughter of the late Mrs. Bessie Crow, became the bride of Huey Williamson of Forest, Dr. Guy M. Hicks performed the double ring ceremony.

The following account of the wedding appeared in the Ruston Daily Leader:

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with arrangements of white gladioli, feverfew and Easter lilies banded with ferns and Southern smilax.

White cathedral tapers burned in tall branched candelabra. Mrs. S. L. White at organ, rendered a program of pre-nuptial music, including the selections "Call Me Thine Own," and "How So Fair."

She also accompanied Mrs. Robert U. Parrott, who sang "Ich Lieber Dich," and "I Love Thee," by E. Edward Grieg, and Mrs. E. L. Berdon, who sang "Because" by D'Hardelot. During the ceremony soft strains of "The Rosary" were heard. The bridal party entered to the strains of the "Wedding March," from Lohengrin, by Wagner, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March was used as the recessional.

Mrs. Marvin Green, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Betty McLure, another cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Both wore identical dresses of blue silk net, fashioned with fitted waist line, square neck line, puffed sleeves and apron fronts. They wore pink net dresses, fashioned on the same lines as the matron and maid of honor. They carried blue meline hats filled with pink rosebuds and delphinium.

Xerxes Lewis was best man, and the groomsmen were John LaRue, J. L. Garrett, Howard Barker and Jack Pope of Rayville.

The bride entered with her uncle, W. J. Horton, who sang her in marriage. She was lovely in her exquisite white lace wedding gown, with sweetheart neckline, fitted waist and long sleeves. The long veil of illusion was held across the back of her lovely blonde hair by a coronet of seed pearls. The only ornament she wore was a small watch necklace, a gift from the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

After the service, a reception was held in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Horton. Immediately following the cake cutting and signing of the register, the young couple left by motor for a wedding trip to Mexico.

Miss Gail Crow Becomes Bride Of James Goodwin

A beautiful wedding took place at the Tallulah Baptist church last Sunday afternoon, when Miss Gail Crow, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Crow, was married to James Willard Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Carl Goodwin of Bodeaux, Ark. Rev. Crow, father of the bride, performed the impressive ceremony.

Masses of green formed a trellis background for a semi-circle of tall white floor standards holding numerous gleaming white candles, and at either side of the chancel stood tall, white floor baskets filled with white gladioli.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Alice Gene Gentry sang in lovely voice the nuptial solo, "Because." She was accompanied by Mrs. J. O. Horn, who played, "Liebestraum" and the bridal march from "Lohengrin" for the processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march for the recessional.

The bridesmaids, Miss Marguerite McDonald and Miss Marguerite Boswell, and the junior bridesmaid, Barbara Jean Sevier, wore delphinium blue models, and the flower girls, Patsy Ruth Crow and Mary Jo Crow of El Dorado, Ark., wore white. The maid of honor, Miss Fran Rogers of Dumas, was attired in pink. Their costumes of net over tulle were fashioned with close fitting bodices, bouffant skirts, and short puffed sleeves, with which they wore matching bow bonnets and carried white baskets tied with bows to match their dresses and filled with garden flowers in pastel shades.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Clarence Crow, wore the traditional white satin made Victorian style with bodice in basque effect, sweetheart neckline, leg o' mutton sleeves which ended in points over the hands. The long, full skirt resembled a rectangle and extended into a court train. The finger tip veil of net fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. The only ornament was a strand of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and snapdragons on a white testament.

The groom had as his best man, Robert Smith of El Dorado, Ark., and the groomsmen were Harvey Thomas of Curtis, Ark., and Chester Crow, Jr., of El Dorado. They wore black suits with boutonnieres of white rosebuds. The bride's mother wore navy sheer with white accessories and a white corsage.

An informal reception was held at the home of the bride's parents immediately after the ceremony, and following this, the couple left for a short honeymoon trip. The bride changed her wedding raiment for a brown and beige striped suit with accessories of saddle leather and shades of tan. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The bride is a graduate of the Dumas, Ark., high school and Ouachita Baptist college, where she majored in voice. She taught public school music at Falfurrias, Tex., the past session. Phi Kappa Convention Closed By Grand Ball

Affair On Roof Of Hotel Virginia Climaxes Whirl Of Convention Gaiety Here

Climaxing a mad whirl of convention gaiety, the Phi Kappa Grand Ball brought the convalesce to an official close Wednesday night on the Hotel Virginia roof. This was the occasion for presentations—presentation of cups, new national officers, sponsors, and the national sweetheart.

It has become an annual custom for Phi Kappa to present a cup for efficiency and another for attendance at its national convention. This year, the efficiency trophy went to Alpha Beta chapter, Jackson, Miss., while the attendance award was given to Beta chapter, Memphis Tenn.

Time also was taken out from the dancing for the introduction of the chapter sponsors who attended the convention. They were: Misses Marcelina Hill, Jane Rhymes, and Evelyn Jane Smith from Eta chapter; Jannice Moffett and Carolyn Skaggs from Delta chapter; Mary Jane Hoffman from Theta chapter; Katherine Graham and Martha Ludlam, Delta Chi chapter; Frances Jean Crews, June Dobbs, Margaret Stewart, Alice Kuchman, Lane Van Hook, and Joan Frantz, Alpha Beta chapter. Lovely gifts in the form of deep maroon compacts adorned with the gold Phi Kappa crest were given to each sponsor.

From this group of sponsors, the national sweetheart for next year was chosen. Last year's attractive sweetheart, Miss Katherine Graham of Delta Chi chapter, introduced her successor, Miss Frances Jean Crews of Alpha Beta chapter, and presented her with the sweetheart cup and a bouquet of flowers in the purple and white Phi Kappa colors.

New national officers were also announced during an interlude in the dancing. They were: Charles Bishop, Jackson, Miss., chairman of executive council; Billy Mitts, Gulfport, Miss., vice-chairman; and Henry Spurrier, Memphis, Tenn., corresponding secretary. Laurel, Miss., was named next year's convention site.

The wedding of Miss Betty Tarbutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Tarbutton of Ruston, and Frank Notestine of Welch, La., was quietly solemnized in the home of the bride's parents, Friday, June 6, at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Henry W. Darden, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Ruston officiated.

Clusters of blue hydrangeas and pink and white lilies were arranged throughout the house, forming an attractive setting for the ceremony.

Mrs. James Tarbutton, sister-in-law of the bride, was the only attendant. She wore a navy blue model with white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of red carnations.

James Tarbutton, brother of the bride, served as best man. The bride wore a dusty-rose model with white accessories. Her bouquet was the one carried by her intimate friend, Miss Alice Crow, whose wedding took place the preceding evening.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony, after which the couple left for their honeymoon. Upon their return, they will make their home in Welch, where Mr. Notestine is assistant postmaster.

Mrs. Notestine is a graduate of Louisiana Tech, where she was a member of Theta Upsilon Sorority. For the past two years she has been a member of the Welch High school faculty.

Conference In Session At Gulf Park College

Beginning with reveille on Wednesday morning, the delegates at the Girl Reserve sectional conference, now in session at Gulf Park college, began their first real day of camp-conference activities. The early morning worship service, under the direction of Mrs. Noel Womack of Jackson, was most impressive as the girls gathered in the spacious college auditorium for this daily worship period.

The delegates are divided into groups known as "triangles," each "triangle" being under the direction of a counselor. Mrs. Floyd Hannah of Winnsboro is serving as head counselor and is assisted by the following counselors: Miss Marie Matrange, New Orleans; Mrs. Bott, Shreveport; Mrs. Helen Taylor, Montgomery, Ala.; Miss Theresa Tate, Mobile, Ala.; Miss Mary Ann Richards, Carlisle, Ark.; and Miss Bess Sharpe, Monroe.

The workshop groups met for the first time Wednesday morning. These workshops help the girls on club organization, club programming, cabinet work, and the duties of the club officers. Workshops are being conducted this year as practice clubs and are under the direction of Miss Mary Frances Lacey, secretary of the Mississippi district Y. W. C. A., Jackson; Miss Marguerite Mullins, Girl Reserve secretary of the New Orleans Y. W. C. A.; Miss Lydia Sartor, Girl Reserve advisor, Gulfport; Miss Mary Ann Richards, advisor at Carlisle, Ark.; and Miss Endama Vickers, advisor of Jackson Girl Reserves.

Swimming, sailing, dancing, dramatics, music, and craft groups are all outstanding features of the conference program.

Discussion groups around the conference theme, "A Girl's Place in a Changing World," take place each afternoon under the leadership of capable discussion leaders.

Perhaps the highlight of the opening day's activities was the campfire on the sandy beach at the close of the day. The campfire ceremonial, under the direction of Miss Mary Frances Clark of Tupelo, Miss., was most impressive as tired but happy delegates gathered around the unlighted fire and sang Girl Reserve songs as many of them for the first time looked out on the lovely moonlight gulf.

Notes of the last song died away, Miss Geraldine Ketchum of Hot Springs, Ark., girl executive of the conference, told how the bugle had again called them to the sea and the sand, to days of new friendships, eager learning and joyous play, and explained that the waves echoed the dreams of all Girl Reserves who had gathered around the Gulf Park campfire in days gone by.

Miss Dot Cobb, Canton, Miss., girl hostess, lighted this campfire as she knelt and said the Girl Reserve fire prayer, and explained how the campfire was a sacrament to Girl Reserves. "It means to them the warmth of closer friendships, the light of deeper thinking, the music of their dreams, and so as this Gulf Park campfire kindles, each Girl Reserve looks deeper into her own heart, sees clearer into the hearts of others, and so finds understanding."

After the service, a reception was held in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Horton. The bride entered with her uncle, W. J. Horton, who gave her in marriage. She was lovely in her exquisite white lace wedding gown, with sweetheart neckline, fitted waist and long sleeves. The long veil of illusion was held across the back of her lovely blonde hair by a coronet of seed pearls.

The only ornament she wore was a small watch necklace, a gift from the groom. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The bridesmaids, Miss Marguerite McDonald and Miss Marguerite Boswell, and the junior bridesmaid, Barbara Jean Savar, wore delphinium blue models, and the flower girls, Patsy Ruth Crow and Mary Jo Crow of El Dorado, Ark., wore white models. The maid of honor, Miss Fran Rogers of Dumas, was attired in pink. Their costumes of net over taffeta were fashioned with close fitting bodices, bouffant skirts, and short puffed sleeves, with which they wore matching poke bonnets and carried white baskets tied with bows to match their dresses and filled with garden flowers in pastel shades.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Clarence Crow, wore the traditional white satin made Victorian style with bodice in basque effect, sweetheart neckline, leg of mutton sleeves which ended in points over the hands. The long full skirt resembled a redingote and extended into a court train. The finger tip veil of net fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. The only ornament was a strand of pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and snapdragons on a white testament.

The groom had as his best man, Robert Smith of El Dorado, Ark., and the groomsmen were Harvey Thomas of Curtis, Ark., and Chester Crow, Jr., of El Dorado. They wore black suits with boutonnieres of white roses. The bride's mother wore navy sheer with white accessories and a white corsage.

Interest Centers In McGee-Cass Nuptials

Ceremony Uniting Atlanta Girl And Son Of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. McGee Performed in Georgia City

The interest of many friends is centered in the marriage of Walter H. McGee, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McGee of this city, to Miss Grace Ernestine Cass of Atlanta, Ga.

An account of the wedding appearing in the social section of The Atlanta Constitution follows:

"At a late afternoon ceremony at St. Mark Methodist church, Miss Grace Ernestine Cass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bryan Cass, became the bride of Walter H. McGee, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. McGee of Monroe, La.

"Dr. Lester Rumble read the marriage service at 5 o'clock in the presence of an assemblage of prominent Atlantans and out-of-town guests. A musical program was presented by Mrs. Robert O. Harris, organist, and Mrs. Elmer Lee Watts of Fitzgerald, and aunts of the bride, soloist.

"The platform was banked with palms, before which were placed flower baskets filled with mixed summer flowers. The decorative scheme was completed by branched candelabra holding lighted white tapers.

"Serving as groomsmen were Joseph T. Bayer, Jr., R. Charlton Commander, Charles Long, and Frank O'Neal of Delhi, La. Daniel Milton Moore, Jr., of Monroe served as best man for Mr. McGee.

"Miss Polly Ware of Greenville, S. C., was the maid of honor. Her gown was fashioned of pink marquisette posed over taffeta, featuring a bouffant skirt gathered to the snug-fitting bodice. A top hat, which she wore a headpiece of pink marquisette. Her flowers consisted of a bouquet of pastel-shaded spring flowers tied with pink satin ribbon.

"Mrs. Milner E. Irvin, Jr., of Miami, Fla., the matron of honor, wore blue marquisette styled like the maid of honor's, and her headpiece and flowers were similar. Miss Emily McGee of Monroe, the groom's sister, and Miss Flora Campbell of Spring Hill, Tenn., bridesmaids, wore green marquisette. The other bridesmaids, Mrs. Ben W. Gibson, Jr., and Miss Eloise Weeks, were carried in orchid marquisette. They wore similar bouquets.

"Little Miss Glenn Ryman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ryman, who was the flower girl, was dressed in a dainty blue net dress and a blue poke-bonnet. She carried a basket of rose petals which she scattered along the path the bride walked.

"The pretty, blonde bride was given in marriage by her father. Her loveliness was complimented by her gown of white marquisette fashioned with a bodice of white lace which featured a sweetheart neckline. The bouffant skirt which formed a train in the rear was gathered to the torso waistline. She wore a veil of illusion tulle, caught to her hair by a coronet of orange blossoms, which was worn by Mrs. Henry Elrod of Greenville, S. C., at her marriage last September. She wore lace mitts and carried a bouquet of bride's roses, and swainsons centered with a white orchid and showered with swainsons.

"Mrs. Cass, the bride's mother, wore a rose chiffon and lace gown accented by a picture hat of natural haku straw trimmed with rose-colored ribbon. A spray of orchids adorned her shoulder. Mrs. McGee, the groom's mother, was given in a model of turquoise blue chiffon. She wore a navy straw picture hat and shoulder spray of orchids.

"Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ryman entertained members of the bridal personnel and out-of-town guests at a reception at their Habersham road residence.

"Assisting in receiving were Mr. and Mrs. Cass, the bride's parents; Mr. and Mrs. McGee, the groom's parents; Mrs. John Cass, of Fitzgerald, the bride's grandmother; and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Watts of Fitzgerald, the bride's uncle and aunt.

"Serving punch from crystal bowls which contained frozen flowers and frozen fruits embedded in fresh ivy, summer flowers, and honeysuckle, were Misses Glenn Ryman, Mary Ann Patterson, Mary Helen and Ann Harrison. The bowls were placed on the porch and back terrace on damask-overlaid tables.

"The living room was further beautified by artistic arrangements of white calla lilies placed in handsome antique French porcelain vases. The wedding cake, which centered the satin overlaid dining table, was embellished in green leaves and valley lilies. Surrounding the cake were gardenias and swainsons. The graceful table decorations were completed by swags of white and blue tulle with valley lilies placed at the edge.

"Mr. McGee and his bride left during the evening for a wedding trip to Richmond, Va., Washington, D. C., and Blue Ridge, N. C. Upon the conclusion of their journey they will reside at 69 Maddox drive, northeast. Mrs. McGee donned for traveling a blue and white printed sheer redingote offset by navy and white accessories and a shoulder cluster of white orchids.

Musical Festivals Draw Entrants From 38 States

Approximately 8,500 boys and girls under 18 years of age in 38 states participated in the 1941 junior competitive festivals of the National Federation of Music Clubs up to May 21. Phyllis Latons Hanson of Worcester, Mass., national chairman of these events, announced last week. Six more states are staging similar festivals for the month of June, thus reaching a record state enrollment of 44, with near 1,100 junior clubs participating.

Among the most popular events have been new instrumental competitions for accordion, xylophone, and saxophone, which were introduced on the theory that, since these instruments are much played, anyway, it is desirable to play them well; and many of the youthful virtuosi displayed surprising artistry.

Twelve states participated in newly instituted contests for accompanists, with Maine leading in number of entries. Senior musicians are praising the foresight of the junior department in encouraging this much neglected type of musical performance. Arthur Proctor of the Merle Carter Michel club of Miami, Fla., and Phyllis Fyrborg of the Worcester B Sharp Junior Piano club of Worcester, Mass., won superior ratings in this class.

Folk tune festivals, also a new event this year, designed to create an interest in meritorious native and foreign tunes, found enthusiastic response, particularly in South Carolina and Arizona. Patriotic song festivals, furthering the Federation's loyalty through music crusade, concentrated attention upon the importance of a high standard of performance of patriotic works.

That young America has tendencies towards creative musical art was evidenced by original compositions entries from 12 states. Of special interest in this field was a vocal trio, "I Told the Rose My Love," composed by Mavis Owen, student at the State School for the Blind in Tucson, Ariz. State encouragement to festival entrants was evidenced in several new ways. Utah offered its juniors a special incentive to participate by providing a free luncheon to contestants and giving each a ticket for a civic opera performance. Screen Star John Boles was an enthusiastic on-looker at the Florida festival and gave the voice contestants good advice as to practicing sight reading, turning in on fine musical broadcasts, and studying the piano.

Until a few years ago there were substantial prizes for the winners in junior competitive festivals. Now, contestants merely receive a rating, but Mrs. Hanson reports that "music for music's sake" is proving a sufficient reward and that enrollments are larger than ever before.

A marriage claiming the sincere interest of friends in the Twin Cities is that of Mrs. Lucile Henderson, daughter of Mrs. Robert Anderson and the late Dr. Anderson, of Inverness, Miss., to Mr. William F. Rhodes, of West Monroe, on Saturday, the thirty-first of May.

The ceremony was performed Tuesday, June 3, in the Tapestry room of the St. Regis Hotel in San Antonio, Tex., with Dr. Efraim Frisch, rabbi of Temple Beth-El, officiating in the presence of the immediate families.

Prominent Club Women Will Assume Leadership Of Local Groups Next Fall

Guiding the destinies of the nine federated women's clubs in the Twin Cities next year will be a group of representative women who have proved their capability by cooperating with the federation to the fullest extent. Tisdale, who have been responsible for the splendid work accomplished in fifth district federated club circles, will continue to give their support during the coming year.

Calhoun, president of the Miro Book club; Mrs. William Whitfield, president of the Current Literature club; Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, first vice-president of the Louisiana Federated Women's clubs; Mrs. G. Monroe Clubs Accept Challenge To Do Their Part In Participation In National Defense

By Eve Bradford

The end of the club season was the signal for many presidential gavels to change hands. When these new presidents assume their duties next September they will discover that they have taken over a flourishing concern, a really big business.

Women's clubs affiliated with the National Federation were presented with perhaps the greatest challenge in their history by the dynamic new president, Mrs. John L. Whitehurst. She asked the question, "Will clubwomen accept the responsibility of organizing women's participation in national defense, a responsibility that is theirs by right of leadership? Or will women sit back and wait for the government to conscript them?"

Mrs. Whitehurst urged leaders at the national convention in Atlantic City, recently, "to start a crusade to preserve representative form of government, to combat fifth columnism, and to prepare our country and our people to defend themselves."

The program to be undertaken by the women should emphasize training in first aid home nursing, nutrition, health, consumer problems and community recreation.

A movement is on foot to draft women, Mrs. Whitehurst told the federation board. "If women are not organized," she said, "they are going to have to take what is handed them."

Federated club presidents of the Twin Cities will find a real job awaiting them in September. These presidents state that membership counts for little. They will demand proof of activity along many lines. Unless the members go slack after their hard work last year, they will meet the new demands.

Proof of their conscientious efforts was found at the Louisiana state convention of Federated Women's clubs when the fifth district carried off the lion's share of honors. At the Golden Jubilee convention of General Federation of Women's clubs they again claimed honors.

A snub by men seventy-five years ago was the impetus for organizing a women's club. Several thousand women, representing two million, enrolled in an organization that grew out of a rebuff to a group of women in 1868. These women wanted to attend a banquet in honor of Charles Dickens, the novelist, but the men who were sponsoring it wouldn't hear of it. "Such a thing shall never happen again," decided the women. Their first step was to organize a women's club. The outgrowth of that meeting resulted in the attendance of thousands of women, representing two million at the golden jubilee in Atlantic City last month.

In one informal talk of not more than 20 minutes, Mrs. Tisdale can give a group of women something to think about for the rest of the year. It takes a forceful speaker to interest women in federated work who have never before belonged to a federated club.

Mrs. Tisdale spent considerable time last year addressing groups of women in this section of the state with the result that fifth district won one of the coveted prizes at the national convention.

Mrs. Tisdale is much sought after as a club speaker because she gives a fine, scholarly and very entertaining interpretation of things. She delights not only women, but audiences made up of both men and women. Her regular appearance before Town Hall audiences bears out this statement.

Mrs. J. R. White is perhaps the most conscientious worker in Louisiana federated club circles. Fifth district claims her for its own but she is now filling the office of state publicity chairman.

Mrs. White has met with every federated club in the fifth district for the purpose of stressing the need for capable reporters. She has given them valuable information along publicity lines and stressed the need for following rules and regulations as outlined by newspaper editors. Make-shift reports written in long hand on scraps of note paper are no longer acceptable in busy newspaper offices.

With few exceptions, every club reporter in the Twin Cities observed closely the rules and regulations as outlined by Mrs. White in submitting articles to the club editor for publication.

There was a time, before women's clubs were affiliated with the national federation, when a reporter was elected because she happened to be a particular friend of the society editor. They hoped that she would overlook slipshod methods of reporting, due to friendship and would even go so far as to write their articles for them. Those days are gone forever.

Only in unity is there strength and only by working in perfect unison, one with the other, can club women hope to achieve their desires.

Monroe is just proud of its womanhood. The impact of feminine influence has been felt from the beginning, in every phase of the city's growth. Generations ago, only one career was open, that of home-making and motherhood, but they fulfilled it nobly and were paragons of charm and wit and famous for the broad of hospitality that has always been associated with this section of the south.

Monroe in recent years has furnished state presidents for federated clubs and will continue to do so, no doubt, as long as such a gallant company of worth-while women continue to exist.

The children enjoyed indoor games. Paint books and toy blocks added to their enjoyment. Miniature United States flags, and soldier hats were given each guest.

The color scheme was carried still further in iced drinks and individual embossed covers served to the honoree and her guests.

The highlight of the afternoon's entertainment was the cutting of a beautiful white frosted birthday cake. A miniature United States flag centered the cake. Tall red tapers burned in crystal candlesticks while the guests were being served.

Jo Ann received many lovely gifts. Those who enjoyed the party, in addition to the honoree, were: Mary Ann Jarmon, Sonny Coon, Annie Ruth Webb, Charlie Traylor, Edith Ann Godfrey, Mickey Alford, Carolyn and Payton Coates, Keith Adams, Roseann Marks, Ann and Patsy Autrey, Bonnie Sue Meredith, William and Tommie Head, Clayton James, Jr., Mary Ann Burk, Ethel Rose Rogers, and Hugh Seal.

Mr. and Mrs. Haakon Nelson of Monroe were recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. King.

Miss Dorothy Childs returned to Eunice after a visit with Miss Nigel Stafford. Miss Stafford, Travis Gore, and Howard Joyce accompanied her on her return trip.

Miss Bebe Humphries spent a few days recently with her mother, Mrs. Luili Humphries, in Alexander.

Miss Ida Frances Dumas is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Leland Petagna and children of Monroe.

Mrs. Pete LaCaze, Miss Little LaCaze of DeRidder, and Bing Boener of St. Louis were recent visitors with

Louisiana Clubs Win Awards At Convention

Fifth District Of State Federation Recognized For Giving Most Per Member

Club women of Louisiana will be happy to know that they won two outstanding awards at the Golden Jubilee triennial convention of General Federation of Women's Clubs, held in Atlantic City from May 19 through May 25. According to Mrs. Fenn A. Leaming, state president of L. F. W. C., who attended the convention, Louisiana was the only state in the Union that won two awards.

The first award was the gold loving-cup won for having the greatest number of subscriptions to the Clubwoman magazine per capita membership during the Golden Jubilee administration. The second prize coming to Louisiana was for the Fifth district, which won the first prize of districts ($50) for giving the most per member of any district in any state toward the Golden Jubilee birthday party fund.

Mrs. Leaming writes, in her report, of how much she regrets that more of the Louisiana club women were not there to share in the joy of Louisiana winning the two trophies, and especially does she regret that Mrs. A. D. Tisdale and Mrs. J. R. White could not be present, for they both worked diligently during the entire Golden Jubilee period to help, not only the Fifth district, but Louisiana as well, to win these outstanding honors. Mrs. Tisdale, of Monroe, was serving as president of the Fifth district during the Golden Jubilee period, and she also served as state chairman of Louisiana Jubilee birthday parties, and Mrs. White, of Monroe, served as state chairman of Golden Jubilee publicity and also as chairman of the Clubwoman magazine.

Louisiana had ten delegates attending the triennial convention; namely, Mrs. Fenn A. Leaming, state president; Mrs. John Shuttleworth, Shreveport; Mrs. Laura S. Ramage, Jennings (the latter two being pioneer women in the federation); Miss Mary Mims, state sociologist of L. S. U.; Mrs. Joseph B. David, president of or the tours to Alaska or the National parks, to write Dorothy Morris, national transportation chairman, at headquarters—or just send in your reservations. The time is growing short.

A possible added interest for the parks tourists has been offered by Jane Templeton, a member who wishes to arrange a trip to Grand Coulee dam. Those who are interested should write Miss Templeton, 734 Sprague avenue, Spokane, Wash., for details about cost and time.

Review Club Program For Next Season Given

Members of the Review club are enjoying an anticipatory thrill over the splendid program arranged for next season. With Mrs. C. A. Nennet, as president, members of this club are facing one of the busiest seasons since the club was organized.

The course of study will be prepared from an outline, secured from the library extension of the University of North Carolina, called "Adventures in Reading," by Agatha Boyd Adams.

This is an advanced reading course prepared by Miss Adams in such a thought-provoking manner that members will feel compelled to discuss the situations as found in the various books as they are presented.

This course of study will not be off the press until July, and members of the club feel very fortunate in securing it at this early date, for next year.

In addition to the above mentioned course, there will be six programs from an outline called "Eyes South," by Eleanor and James L. Godfrey of the University of North Carolina. It deals with the importance placed upon our relationships with the countries of South America.

Mrs. Leaming also said that this was the largest convention in the history of the federation, stating there were more than 7,000 women present.

She closed her report by saying that it was too huge, and that the entertainment features were too spectacular, to describe.

Tea At Embassy Will Be Given Club Women

Tea at the American embassy in Mexico City as the guests of the ambassador's wife, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, will be the privilege of Business and Professional women who take the post convention tour to Mexico following the national convention in Los Angeles, July 6 to 11. This privilege is one not accorded the tourist usually, as you may well imagine.

The delightful invitation came through the good offices of Mrs. Dass M. Gurganus, well known Federation member of Raleigh, N. C., a neighbor of the Daniels when they are at home in Raleigh.

Mrs. Gurganus is not sure she herself will be able to make the trip, though she expects to be in Los Angeles for the national convention. "But a number of North Carolinians plan to go," she writes headquarters. If you have questions about this

Club Women Face Vital Issues At Convention

'Strengthen Democracy For Defense' Is Theme For Business And Professional Women's Meeting

"Never in the history of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs has a call to a convention been issued when there were so many vital national and international issues demanding thoughtful action," said Dr. Minnie L. Maffett, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, in a letter directed to each club in the federation and to every member early this month. The convention will be held in Los Angeles, July 6 to 11.

"Strengthen Democracy for Defense" is the theme for the 1941 Biennial convention. It is significant also that it is the subject around which the entire federation program for the coming year is based. How can we mobilize business and professional women to serve our country in the defense period? What shall we do to strengthen democracy in the communities in which we live? These are momentous questions we are called on to answer. These are momentous times.

"This call carries with it the challenge to make the 1941 Biennial convention the largest, most constructive and forward looking conference we have ever held. Will you accept this challenge?"

Further stimulus for attendance is offered by the eminent persons who are accepting invitations to participate in the convention program. You may read about the noted Chilean professional woman, Graciela Mandujano, who will speak at the banquet Thursday evening. Taking part also in that program, which is to be our "Our Stake in Democracy," will be Mary Craig McGeachy, representative in Canada and the United States of the British ministry of economic warfare. Formerly British Dominion official in the League of Nations secretariat, Miss McGeachy is the first woman ever to receive a British embassy appointment.

Monday evening's session will be addressed by Charles P. Taft, assistant coordinator of health, welfare and related defense activities for the federal government.

An outstandingly interesting session is expected on Wednesday morning when leaders in six fields will discuss the new opportunities each offers to women, with emphasis on defense activities. Among the speakers will be Mrs. Mary Briggs, Los Angeles post mistress, whose position is the most important of its sort held by a woman in the entire United States. Beside her discussion about civil service, her case for fashioning, agricultural science, nutrition, housing and vocational education will be presented. And administrative techniques will be considered in their application to all six.

Miss Marilyn Rolfeigh, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. L. F. Rolfeigh, underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis on Friday at St. Francis sanitarium. Her condition Saturday was said to be satisfactory.

The outgrowth of that meeting resulted in the attendance of thousands of women, representing two million at the golden jubilee in Atlantic City last month.

Responsible for the firm place the fifth district now occupies in Federated club world is Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, first vice-president of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs. In an informal talk of not more than 20 minutes, Mrs. Tisdale can give a group of women something to think about for the rest of the year. It takes a forceful speaker to interest women in federated work who have never before belonged to a federated club. Mrs. Tisdale spent considerable time last year addressing groups of women in this section of the state with the result that fifth district won one of the coveted prizes at the national convention.

Mrs. Tisdale is much sought after as a club speaker because she gives a fine, scholarly and very entertaining interpretation of things. She delights not only women, but audiences made up of both men and women. Her regular appearance before Town Hall audiences bears out this statement.

Mrs. J. R. White is perhaps the most conscientious worker in Louisiana federated club circles. Fifth district claims her for its own but she is now filling the office of state publicity chairman.

Mrs. White has met with every federated club in the fifth district for the purpose of stressing the need for capable reporters. She has given them valuable information along publicity lines and stressed the need for following rules and regulations as outlined by newspaper editors. Make-shift reports written in long hand on scraps of note paper are no longer acceptable in busy newspaper offices. With few exceptions, every club reporter in the Twin Cities observed closely the rules and regulations as outlined by Mrs. White in submitting articles to the club editor for publication.

There was a time, before women's clubs were affiliated with the national federation, when a reporter was elected because she happened to be a particular friend of the society editor. They hoped that she would overlook slipshod methods of reporting, due to friendship and would even go so far as to write their articles for them. Those days are gone forever. Only in unity is there strength and only by working in perfect unison, one with the other, can club women hope to achieve their desires.

Monroe is justly proud of its womanhood. The impact of feminine influence has been felt from the beginning, in every phase of the city's growth. Generations ago, only one career was open, that of home-making and motherhood, but they fulfilled it nobly and were paragons of charm and wit and famous for the brand of hospitality that has always been associated with this section of the south.

Monroe in recent years has furnished state presidents for federated clubs and will continue to do so, no doubt, as long as such a gallant company of worth-while women continue to exist.

Columbia

Club Women Face Vital Issues At Convention

'Strengthen Democracy For Defense' Is Theme For Business And Professional Women's Meeting

"Never in the history of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs has a call to a convention been issued when there were so many vital national and international issues demanding thoughtful action," said Dr. Minnie L. Maffett, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, in a letter directed to each club in the federation and to every member early this month. The convention will be held in Los Angeles, July 6 to 11.

"Strengthen Democracy For Defense" is the theme for the 1941 Biennial convention. It is significant also that it is the subject around which the entire federation program for the coming year is based. How can we mobilize business and professional women to serve our country in the defense period? What shall we do to strengthen democracy in the communities in which we live? These are momentous questions we are called on to answer. These are momentous times.

"This call carries with it the challenge to make the 1941 Biennial convention the largest, most constructive and forward looking conference we have ever held. Will you accept this challenge?"

Further stimulus for attendance is offered by the eminent persons who are accepting invitations to participate in the convention program. You may read about the noted business professional woman, Graciele Chandiano, who will speak at the banquet Thursday evening. Taking part also in that program, which is to be on "Our Stake in Democracy," will be Mary Craig McGachy, representative in Canada and the United States of the British ministry of economic warfare. Formerly British Dominion officer in the League of Nations secretariat, Miss McGachy is the first woman ever to receive a British embassy appointment.

Monday evening's session will be addressed by Charles P. Taft, assistant coordinator of health, welfare and related defense activities for the federal government. An outstandingly interesting session is expected on Wednesday morning when leaders in six fields will discuss the new opportunities each offers to women, with emphasis on defense activities. Among the speakers will be Mrs. Mary Briggs, Los Angeles post mistress, whose position is the most important of its sort held by a woman in the entire United States. Besides her discussion about civil service, the case for fashion, agricultural science, nutrition, housing and vocational education will be presented. And administrative techniques will be considered in their application to all six.

Miss Marilyn Rolfeigh, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. L. F. Rolfeigh, underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis on Friday at St. Francis sanitarium. Her condition Saturday was said to be satisfactory.

Miss Mary Miller is spending the summer months with her mother, Mrs. Edna R. Miller. Miss Miller has completed her sophomore year at Louisiana Tech.

Miss Lucille Jarrell returned from L. S. U. where she was a student last term, and is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Jarrell.

Louisiana Clubs Win Awards At Convention

Club women of Louisiana will be happy to know that they won two outstanding awards at the Golden Jubilee triennial convention of General Federation of Women's Clubs, held in Atlantic City from May 19 through May 25. According to Mrs. Fenn A. Leaming, state president of L. F. W. C., who attended the convention, Louisiana was the only state in the Union that won two awards.

The first award was the gold loving cup won for having the greatest number of subscriptions to the Clubwoman magazine per capita membership during the Golden Jubilee administration. The second prize coming to Louisiana was for the Fifth district, which won the first prize of districts ($50) for giving the most per member of any district in any state toward the Golden Jubilee birthday party fund.

Mrs. Leaming writes, in her report, of how much she regrets that more of the Louisiana club women were not there to share in the joy of Louisiana winning the two trophies, and especially does she regret that Mrs. A. D. Tisdale and Mrs. J. R. White could not be present, for they both worked diligently during the entire Golden Jubilee period to help, not only the Fifth district, but Louisiana as well, to win these outstanding honors. Mrs. Tisdale, of Monroe, was serving as president of the Fifth district during the Golden Jubilee period, and she also served as state chairman of Golden Jubilee publicity and state chairman of Golden Jubilee publicity and also as chairman of the Clubwoman magazine.

Louisiana had ten delegates attending the triennial convention; namely, Mrs. Fenn A. Leaming, state president; Mrs. John Shuttleworth, Shreveport; Mrs. Laura S. Ramage, Jennings (the latter two being pioneer women in the federation); Miss Mary Mims, state sociologist of L. S. U.; Mrs. Joseph B. David, president of Woman's club, New Orleans, who took the part of Katherine Nobles in three episodes of the pageant presented during the convention; Mrs. May Oppenheimer, Mrs. E. Weber, Mrs. W. A. Porteous, Mrs. Mabel McGuire, and Mrs. T. J. Williams.

Mrs. Leaming reports that three motion picture companies took pictures of every session and that these will be shown on the screens of all the theaters soon.

Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, the newly-elected national president, spoke on "The National Defense Program," calling to mind the seriousness of it, and the important part that the women will have in this program.

Mrs. Leaming also said that this was the largest convention in the history of the federation, stating there were more than 7,000 women present.

She closed her report by saying that it was too huge, and that the entertainment features were too spectacular, to describe.

Tea At Embassy Will Be Given Club Women

Tea at the American embassy in Mexico City as the guests of the ambassador's wife, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, will be the privilege of Business and Professional women who take the post convention tour to Mexico following the national convention in Los Angeles, July 6 to 11. This privilege is one not accorded the tourist usually, as you may well imagine.

The delightful invitation came through the good offices of Mrs. Dess M. Gurganus, well known Federation member of Raleigh, N. C., a neighbor of the Daniels when they are at home in Raleigh.

Mrs. Gurganus is not sure she herself will be able to make the trip, though she expects to be in Los Angeles for the national convention. "But a number of North Carolinians plan to go," she writes headquarters. If you have questions about this

Review Club Program For Next Season Given

Members of the Review club are enjoying an anticipatory thrill over the splendid program arranged for next season. With Mrs. C. A. Nennery, as president, members of this club are facing one of the busiest seasons since the club was organized.

The course of study will be prepared from an outline, secured from the library extension of the University of North Carolina, called "Adventures In Reading," by Agatha Boyd Adams.

This is an advanced reading course prepared by Miss Adams in such a thought-provoking manner that members will feel compelled to discuss the situations as found in the various books as they are presented.

This course of study will not be off the press until July, and members of the club feel very fortunate in securing it at this early date, for next year.

In addition to the above mentioned course, there will be six programs from an outline called "Eyes South," by Eleanor and James L. Godfrey of the University of North Carolina. It deals with the importance placed upon our relationships with the countries of South America.

'I Wanted Wings' Starts Engagement At Paramount

Army's Air Corps Film Is New Hit

Ray Milland, Wayne Morris, William Holden, Veronica Lake In Cast

THE thrilling story of the training of America's birdmen, told against the background of an exciting tale of adventure and romance, will be on view when Paramount's sweeping epic of the air, "I Wanted Wings," opens today at the Paramount theater.

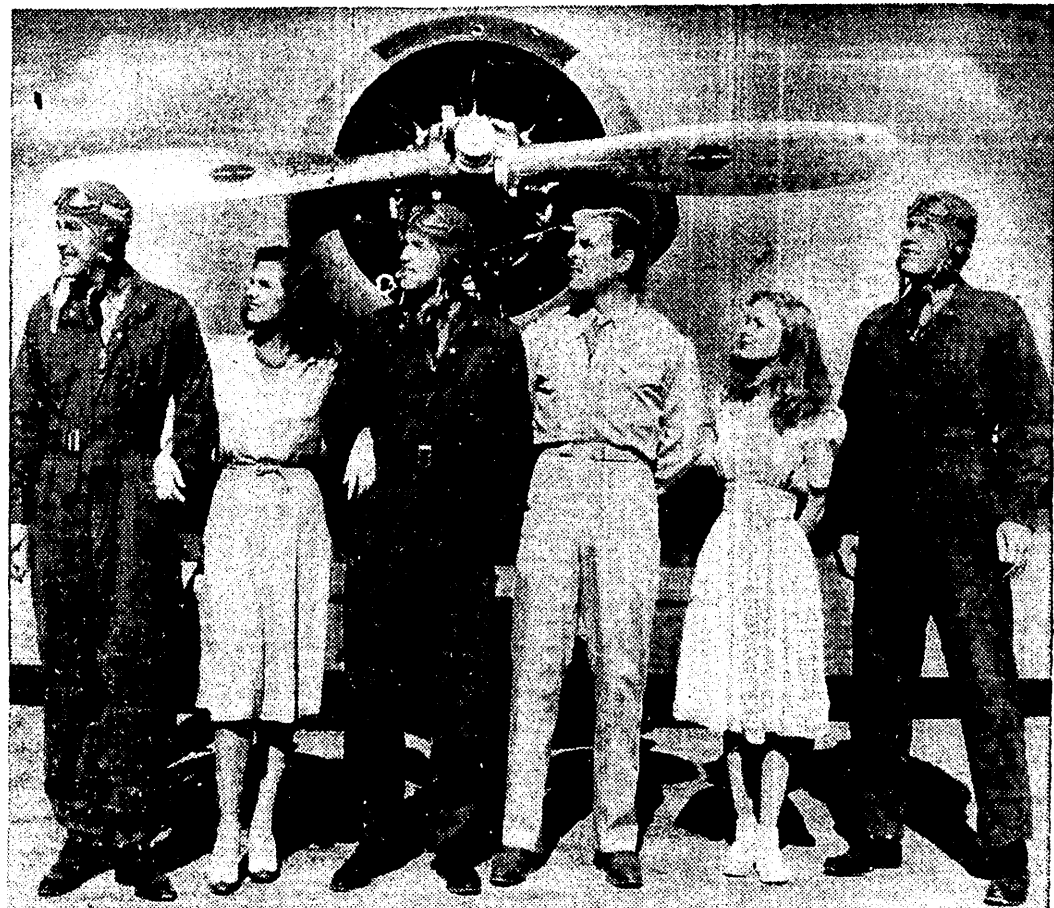

Starring Ray Milland, William Holden, Wayne Morris and Brian Donlevy, the film features in its impressive cast that sensational newcomer, Veronica Lake, and lovely Constance Moore. Produced by Arthur Hornblow and directed by Mitchell Leisen, the new air drama promises to be probably this year's most important film. Certainly not since "Wings," which many of us still remember vividly, has another aviation picture taken off from Hollywood with so much excited advance talk as "I Wanted Wings." Nor has any previous picture had better opportunity for packing authentic air thrills into celluloid.

Made with the complete cooperation of the army air corps at Randolph, Kelly and March fields, the new film takes us through the training of America's air cadets, as it tells the personal stories of three aviation trainees and the women in their lives. The men who want wings are Milland, Holden and Morris, and the women, of course, are Veronica Lake and Constance Moore. In the picture, we understand, Miss Lake, who has come to be known as the "blonde bombshell," causes the crash of a "Flying Fortress," after devastating a few human hearts. Constance Moore plays the role of a photographer assigned to cover an air field for a magazine.

Air-minded as we have been made during the past few years, due to international events and our own feverish efforts to build up an impregnable sky defense, "I Wanted Wings" offers us what is probably the most exciting and fascinating topic available for screen stories. It is the first time that the motion picture has recorded the step-by-step method by which our young eagles gain their wings. The fact that the army has made accessible its flying fields, its planes and its personnel to Paramount leads us to expect there won't be anything phony about the sky sequences. Matchless air thrills should be the result.

While movie audiences are no doubt eagerly awaiting "I Wanted Wings" for its thrills, exciting story and outstanding stars, there is also no doubt that many of us are looking forward to seeing that new screen enchantress, Veronica Lake, who has taken Hollywood by storm.

For Ray Milland, this is the second aviation picture in which he has starred in just a short time. The handsome actor recently was seen in the starring role of "Arise, My Love." William Holden and Wayne Morris have been outstanding performers in many notable films.

Wings against the sky fascinate the six above. They enact the leading roles in Paramount's aviation epic, "I Wanted Wings," which opens today on the Paramount screen and plays through Tuesday. The air-minded sextette is Ray Milland, Constance Moore, William Holden, Brian Donlevy, Veronica Lake and Wayne Morris. Produced with army air corps cooperation, "I Wanted Wings" was filmed at Randolph and Kelly Fields in Texas and March Field in California, Flying Fortress roost.

'That Night In Rio' Is At Capitol

Alice Faye, Don Ameche, Carmen Miranda Top Stellar Cast

THE glamour and romance suggested by the soft Brazilian moon, the throbbing rhythm of the Samba, and the tantalizing movements of exotic dancers provide the background for 20th Century-Fox's technicolor musical, "That Night in Rio," which stars Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Carmen Miranda, and opens today at the Capitol theater.

This latest cinematic contribution of the studio that produced "Down Argentine Way" and "Tin Pan Allev" is sprinkled with catchy tunes by those master tunesmiths, Mack Gordon and Harry Warren. The vivacious Carmen, who is accompanied by her band, Dama De Luz, finds plenty of reason to sing and dance when "Titi, Yi, Yi, Yi," "Chica, Chica, Boom Chic," "Boa Noite" (good night), "They Met in Rio" and "The Baron Is in Conference" are played.

Neatly interspersed with the catchy tunes "That Night in Rio" is the intriguing story of a double-dealing double, Don Ameche, who portrays first an American night club performer in love with his singing and dancing partner, the glamorous Carmen Miranda. But he is also a Brazilian boulevardier, Baron Duarte, married to the alluring Alice Faye. It is comedy at its best, and according to preview critics, it tops as entertainment.

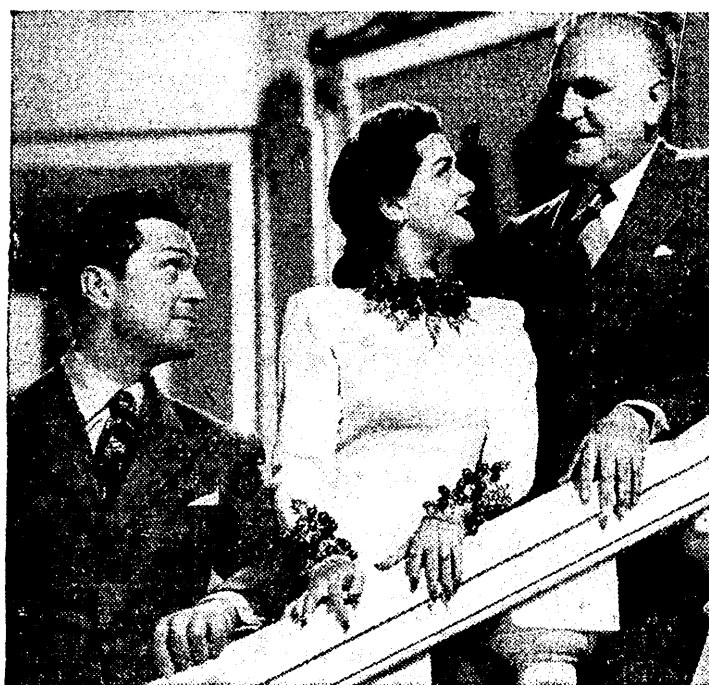

Carmen Miranda, who was so sensational in "Down Argentine Way," is given a chance to act a full-length role in "That Night in Rio." As the flighty, fiery songstress, she displays her violent disapproval of her American friend in both English and Portuguese. The Brazilian "Bombshell" introduces her native dance, the Samba, to the American movie audience, and the chorus, trained by Miss Miranda and Dance Director Hermes Pan, is said to be outstanding.

Alice Faye emerges in "That Night in Rio" as an ultra-smart and fashionably gowne society queen. As the wife of the baron her outfits are striking—and her songs are, as always, a highlight of the film.

The full richness of Rio's night life and the vivid costumes of the performers are captured by the magic of "Sunny" plays at the Paramount Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Starring Anna Neagle, Ray Bolger and John Carroll of Louisiana, "Sunny" features Edward Everett Horton, Frieda Inescort, Helen Westley and the Hartmans, vaudevillians. The above scene is as shocking as it is unexpected in this exasperating action on part of the bride, and "Sunny" is just like that.

"Washington Melodrama" is a tense melodrama with a sparkling background of life in the capital, playing Wednesday at the Paramount theater and starring Frank Morgan, Kent Taylor and Ann Rutherford. In the supporting cast are Dan Dailey, Jr., Lee Bowman, Fay Holden, Sara Haden, Anne Gwynn and Virginia Grey.

Technicolor. Amidst these gorgeous surroundings Director Irving Cummings has fashioned an outstanding piece of entertainment. The supporting cast, which includes S. Z. Sakall, J. Carroll Naish, Curt Bois and Leonid Kinskey, all accomplished character actors, has received its share of the plaudits. The screen play, "That Night in Rio," was by George Seaton, Best Merit and Hal Long. Additional dialogue was contributed by Samuel Hoffenstein.

DAIMWOODS BACK FROM 10-DAY FLORIDA TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Daimwood and daughter, Juliet, 3008 Gordon avenue, have returned from a 10-day automobile trip to Florida.

They went down the west coast to Tampa, and then across to Miami, where Mrs. Daimwood's sister resides. They enjoyed deep sea fishing and swimming in the ocean.

During 1939, Grand Canyon National Park had 395,940 visitors.

Victor Jory Starred In Joy Picture

'Girl From Havana' Opens Three-Day Engagement Here Today

IF IT HADN'T BEEN for ten gold rush, Victor Jory might never have been born in Dawson, Alaska. His parents, Edwin and Joanna Jory, were among the adventurers who went to Alaska for the gold rush, and their son, Victor, was born there on November 23 during the exciting year of 1902.

Jory's earliest recollection was of being the official mascot of the gold fields as he toddled from one gold-stake to another. He received his preliminary education in Dawson City, but he continued his grammar school in Vancouver, British Columbia, where his parents moved.

From Vancouver, Jory's family came to Pasadena, Calif., where he attended high school, and later, Junior college, at Fullerton, Calif. Jory's earliest ambition was to be a boxer and wrestler and he spent a large amount of his time in training. However, after two years at the University of California, he became interested in dramatics and left the university to enter the Pasadena Community Playhouse.

The actor made his debut at the Playhouse in "Master of Shadows" and for the next twelve years played all over the United States in stock, one-night stands, operettas, and musical comedies.

His first appearance on Broadway was in the success, "Berkeley Square," and a number of important roles followed in "All God's Chillun Got Wings," "The Command To Love," and "Little Accident."

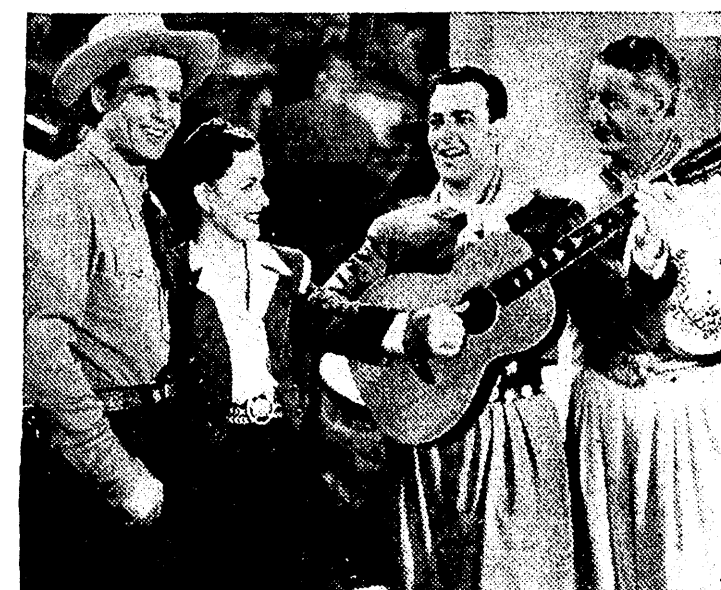

But it was while visiting his parents in Pasadena that Jory received his opportunity to play in pictures. During his stay, his old slapping ground, the Pasadena Community Playhouse offered him the lead in "Louder Please," which Jory accepted. He was spotted by a Fox talent scout and was given a long term movie contract. He made his debut in the film "Renegade" for Fox and has since played for Columbia and Warner Brothers. His most recent pictures were "The Lone Wolf Meets a Lady," and "River's End."

Jory is currently appearing as a tough-hitting oil worker in the Republic picture, "Girl From Havana," which opens at the Joy Theater today.

Others who appear in the new Republic film in addition to Jory are, Claire Carleton, Dennis O'Keefe, both of whom are starred; Steffi Duna, sensational Hungarian dancer; Gordon Jones, Bradley Paige and Trevor Bar-dette.

Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Carmen Miranda provide the romance and songs for "That Night in Rio," the glamour-filled Technicolor musical of the gay Latin-American capital, playing today and Monday at the Capitol theater.

Alberto Vila, the sensational South American troubador, strums his stuff to the delight of James Ellison, Maureen O'Hara and Robert Barrat. This is a melodic scene from "They Met in Argentina," playing Tuesday at the Capitol theater. It also features Buddy Ebsen and Diosa Costello.

Ida Lupino, who won raves for her recent performances, again delights movie fans in "The Sea Wolf," dramatic story of the high seas starring Edward G. Robinson and John Garfield and playing Wednesday at the Capitol theater.

Johnson's studio is starting its third year, headed by its manager and owner, Joe Johnson (above), who has enjoyed excellent public support in his efforts to give the best possible in photography and portraiture at modest prices. He says business the past year far exceeded his expectations.

Johnson's Studio Proves Need For Lower Prices

Local Photographer Had An Idea; It Has Worked Successfully

Joseph E. Johnson, manager and owner of Johnson's Studio, 308 DeSiard street, is ending two years in business under this name and at this address, and is about to start on his third year.

Two years ago, after having managed Griffin's studio for a number of years, Mr. Johnson had an idea of his own and also the determination to start out for himself. He believed that Monroe could afford another photographic studio that would give the best possible pictures at a low cost. In other words he thought that "Better pictures, at lower prices," should govern. How well the idea has taken locally is shown in the two years' growth of his business. He says that his last year's business far exceeded that of the year that immediately preceded it. His idea he believes has been demonstrated as a correct one.

Mr. Johnson has had a total of 26 years in the photographic business. He started back in Washington, Ind., and later had a studio in Anderson, Ind.

Then he got the wanderlust and decided to come south. He worked in some of the larger studios in Dallas, Tex. for 18 years.

He came to Monroe in 1931 to become connected with the Griffin studio and he worked there for eight years, the last several years as manager.

In Dallas he says he specialized in children's pictures, and he is regarded as expert in this line in Monroe.

From time to time, Mr. Johnson adds to his equipment to keep abreast of the times. He has one of the largest kodak finishing businesses in this section and also deals in cameras and supplies.

People come to his studio and then come back again for more pictures. This is what he likes. He says he always wants satisfied clients, those who are pleased to give repeat orders.

Mr. Johnson belongs to the National Photographers' association and is the only member in Monroe and there is but one in Shreveport he says. He frequently sends pictures to the association that are placed on display and they have in the past always been accorded unstinted approval for their careful execution of detail, their general design and skilled workmanship.

While photography is his means of livelihood, and also a pastime, he has another diversion. No man in Monroe is more deeply devoted to the Kiwanis club than is Joe Johnson. He has been for three years secretary of the Monroe club and has held many important committee memberships. At present he is district chairman of the inter-club relations committee.

He admits that he attended 86 Kiwanis meetings last year and up to a few days ago had attended 53 this year.

Right now he is in Atlanta, Ga., attending as a delegate the Kiwanis International convention which opens there Sunday.

Fulfilled!

A PLEDGE TO BRING FINE PHOTOGRAPHIC SERVICE WITHIN REACH OF MODERATE INCOMES

Two years ago the idea came to us that North Louisiana needed a photographic studio able to produce fine quality pictures at prices the average working man or woman could afford to pay. With this ambition in mind, we established this studio, fitted it with first class, modern photographic equipment, including carefully selected, specialized cameras and accessories to meet the various individual requirements of portraiture, scenic, commercial and other types of photography. By obtaining equipment designed to do each job perfectly, we have been able to maintain a consistently high standard of photographic service—to render the very finest results, possible today, on each assignment.

We have particularly specialized in the art of portraiture—making pictures of characteristic likeness, rich tone, fine composition and natural pose that friends and family will treasure for generations. AND, we have succeeded in our ambition to keep the cost down to a level at which everyone can enjoy.

ANNIVERSARY

In the field of commercial photography, where specially designed equipment is essential, we are prepared to turn out work of excellent quality, reasonably priced.

And so, we feel that our second anniversary is an occasion for celebration—that an ambition has been realized—a goal has been reached.

THANKS!

To our many loyal patrons, those who have made it possible to be a leader in our line of endeavor, we extend our sincere thanks to you and hereby renew our pledge to serve you better with photographic work.

Prophit To Manage United Electric Department

Well Known Monroe Man To Assume Charge At Plant

Has Made Exhaustive Study; Three Famous Lines To Be Carried

MANAGER

ROBERT L. PROPHIT

Announcement is made by the United Electric Service, Inc., that on July 1 they will be in their handsome new home next door to the Holsum bakery, in the 900 block of Louisville avenue. Also at that time, Robert L. Prophit, Jr., will be manager of the heating department.

Mr. Prophit has had two and one-half years experience in his line of work with the Home Appliance company and is recognized as one who has made a deep and exhaustive study of all phases of his special line of activity.

He was born in Monroe, educated here and at the A. and M. college in Starkesville, Miss. He has had extensive and diversified business experience and is possessed of a wide circle of friends who recognize him for his ability and general business sagacity.

His company will handle three lines. They are as follows:
Lennox—This is the oldest and largest concern manufacturing residence heating equipment today. The Stowaway unit has revolutionized the heating business and has made forced air heating possible for the small home owner by a low installation cost and the elimination of the need for a basement. The design of this unit will permit its installation in the attic space that is now not in use.
Payne—The firm has selected the Payne floor furnace for customers because of adaptability to local conditions. The line covers from the smallest to the largest units necessary for the proper heating of the home.

Janitrol—This is the recognized peer of all suspended type of commercial and industrial heating equipment. It is designed to give a uniform temperature all over the store, office, garage, or industrial plant. Suspended from side wall or ceiling hangers, so as to require little space, the units are equipped with directional fins to deliver the heat to any given area. The personnel of the department has been selected by the company with great care, and all have years of satisfactory experience behind them which applies to the engineering as well as to the installation department.

WITH THE AID OF GOLOB, EVIL GENIUS OF THE SECRET POLICE, MING HAS SEIZED CONTROL OF THE ARMY. HE HAS FLASH ARRESTED. AS MING RAISES HIS GUN TO PERSONALLY EXECUTE HIM, FLASH STRIKES LIKE A THUNDERBOLT---AND A NATION'S FATE HANGS IN THE BALANCE---

FLASH TWISTS THE GUN FROM MING'S FINGERS, THEN STRIKES WITH ALL HIS SUPERB STRENGTH. MING FALLS, CRUSHED AND PARALYZED--- BUT GOLOB, REGAINING HIS WITS, DRAWS HIS RAY-PISTOL---

HEARING THE COMMOTION, YOUNG MAJOR DARIN BURSTS INTO THE ROOM AND SWITCHES ON THE LIGHT-- IN TIME TO SEE GOLOB AIMING AT FLASH'S BACK. TORN BETWEEN DISCIPLINE AND FAIR PLAY, DARIN MAKES A FATEFUL DECISION---HE BLASTS THE RUTHLESS GOLOB!

"YOU SAVED MY LIFE AND THE FREEDOM OF YOUR COUNTRY," SAYS FLASH. "THANK YOU, COLONEL DARIN!" DARIN GASPS-- "COLONEL?" OH, THANK YOU, SIRE-- BUT I MERELY DID MY DUTY, AS I SAW IT!"
